A Brain Cure.
MacDonald's Mistake.
A Car Under $200.
Some Dead Bedouins.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

PROF. STEINACH, of Vienna, serious scientist, who has made old men temporarily young by transplantation of monkey glands, announces a discovery more amazing and important.

A SUBSTANCE called "centronervin," isolated from internal secretion glands in the brains of frogs, is called the first remedy ever found for mental deficiency.

DR. STEINACH believes that he will double, at least, the inborn power of a human brain!

That seems a good deal for a frog extract to do. But nothing is impossible.

RAMSAY MACDONALD is said to be coming to America with the idea that he can persuade this government to allow him 339,000 tons of cruisers, America contenting herself with 300,000 tons.

IF that is so Mr. MacDonald is wasting time on a trans-Atlantic trip. He does not know President Hoover, if he thinks the President will consent to any inequality.

CONSIDERING that we could afford a navy of any size, and that Britain cannot afford to compete, our suggestion of equality should be accepted with gratitude.

When the British had the money they always had the biggest navy. And they didn't arrange any conference about it.

IT is announced, apparently on good authority, that Gen. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., has completed his plan to distribute automobiles through the mail for less than $200.

The car will be shipped in a box that can be used afterward for a garage.

AN airplane expert is the inventor of the new automobile which carries two passengers and represents a new idea. No old-fashioned chassis, "a steel box with four wheels attached, each wheel having power applied separately," is a description of the machine, probably not entirely accurate.

THERE is nothing in this to alarm automobile makers or stock owners. It was proved long ago that the production of "cheap cars" increases the demand for expensive cars.

AT HATTIN, near the Sea of Galilee, raiding Bedouins, most savage of the Semitic tribes, decided that they would kill a few more Jews.

British forces killed 16 of them, wounded many, and drove off the rest.

A NEW YORK mass meeting demands that representatives of Great Britain in Jerusalem be recalled, and upbraids Great Britain for lack of energy.

It might be wise not to discourage the British too much, until some substitute for their protecting power is found.

There are hundreds of millions of Mohammedans scattered through the British Empire, nearly 100,000,000 in India alone. The British cannot afford to ignore completely that great power for trouble.

THE President announces the appointment of Harry F. Guggenheim as ambassador to Cuba.

Cubans will welcome Mr. Guggenheim, representing an able and powerful American family well.

Americans will be glad to hear that Mr. Guggenheim's work for aviation in America is conspicuously recognized.

In addition to his own constant flying and working in the interest of aviation, Mr. Guggenheim has spent hundreds of thousands encouraging better airplane building and entirely apart from any possibility of financial profit.

A MOST important government experiment in aviation is the building of an all-metal dirigible, the ZMC-2.

That airship, contemptuously called a "tin bubble" by those with little imagination, was built by Congress after so-called "experts" in the Army and Navy had vetoed the project.

THE "tin bubble," having flown half way across the country to Lakehurst on its trial trip, flew over New York yesterday.

All-metal dirigibles are safe from lightning, according to expert opinion. They weigh less than dirigibles of cloth, containing many separate bags. And it is alleged that properly constructed they will make leaks impossible and the use of hydrogen gas safe.

Our government needs a separate aviation department that would not oppose new ideas.

THAT "heavy break," prayed for by bears, is once again postponed. Stocks went climbing up again, "plus" signs on the ticker much thicker than autumn leaves in a windstorm.

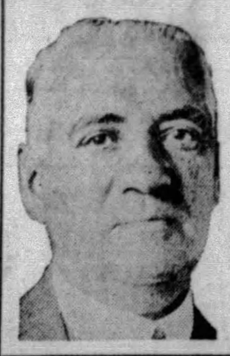
What the Three Candidates Say as City Goes to Polls



By MAYOR CHARLES H. KLINE.

I am altogether confident as to the outcome of the election today. I believe that the people will decide the election on the issues that are involved.

From the beginning I asked to be judged on my record—my whole record—this judgment taking into account all the acts of my administration for the last four years.

I am not seeking to dislodge another man from office—I am asking to be retained in an office in which, for four years, I have given the people of Pittsburgh the best service I am capable of.

And when I am re-elected, I will continue to do so, devoting myself to carrying out the constructive program I have detailed in all of my speeches.

By COUNCILMAN JAMES F. MALONE.

My campaign managers have uncovered and defeated the most gigantic conspiracy to steal this election ever attempted in the history of our city. The people are aroused at last.

My platform is:

Twelve years of public service for the city, with not a single flaw found in my record, and a specific and intensive training and study to equip myself for the mayoralty.

The only definite and specific plan offered by any candidate for the reformation and improvement of the public service of the city.

The only detailed program of needed public improvements offered by any candidate, including the extension of the playground and recreation system to every part of our city.

It is up to you, fellow-citizens, to decide the issue.

By JUDGE RICHARD W. MARTIN.

The outstanding issue in this campaign is this: Will the people of Pittsburgh stand for the deliberate attempt of two factions of a political machine to steal this primary election. Each group attempted a similar kind of fraud. Kline's supporters secured 20,000 or more illegal assessments. Malone's supporters got 7,000 names put on the books in a similar manner. Both were willing to cheat. There is no moral difference between them.

The decision of the court striking off the Kline names proves the illegality of the Malone assessments. They caught each other red-handed. No one dares to say that we had any part in these frauds. We will win by the honest votes of the independent, unbossed Republicans of Pittsburgh.

WEATHER

Fair this afternoon, tonight and Wednesday, cooler; lowest temperature tonight about 45 degrees.

Voter Charges Walsh's Son Defied Court Rule

COLLEGE LAD KIDNAPED, RESCUED

Notre Dame Student Freed By Detroit Police Following Capture of Gang.

DETROIT, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—After having been held prisoner since last Wednesday by kidnapers, who blindfolded him and chained him to a bed, Matthew Holdreith, Jr., 24, son of a restaurant proprietor and a student at Notre Dame University at South Bend, Ind., was found late yesterday and released by police, acting upon a tip. No report of the abduction had been made to the police.

Inspector Henry J. Garvin, head of the police crime and bomb squad said he learned Holdreith's father paid $5,000 to his son's abductors Saturday. The youth's release was prevented by the inadvertent capture by police of two of the kidnapers as they left the rendezvous where the elder Holdreith was said to have turned over the money.

CHANCE CAPTURE

Edward Wilds and Frank Hohfer, named by Garvin as two of the kidnapers, were taken by police Saturday night after a running gun fight with a police scout car which was seeking a stolen taxicab. Police at that time did not know of the kidnaping. Wilds and Hohfer admitted

Charges of Irregularities In Voting Place Start With Opening of Polls

A flood of complaints of alleged illegal voting, disfranchising of citizens, high-handed tactics of election boards and interference at the polls poured in upon Judges Frank P. Patterson and George V. Moore, who sat to hear primary election disputes today.

To avoid being swamped the court ruled that complaints must be accompanied by affidavits or presented by legal counsel. One of the first acts of the court was the summoning of Police Inspector James N. Hoey to answer a charge of obstructing the election in the Third Ward.

Illegal Voting Charged

D. E. Sweeney, watcher at the polling place of the Sixth District, First Ward, at 1006 Vickroy street, entered the courtroom an hour before Judges F. P. Patterson and George V. Moore, assigned to hear election protests, had arrived.

The election board of that district, of which Thomas Walsh, son of Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh, is judge, permitted men to vote who were illegally assessed, Sweeney told the court.

Challenege Overruled

Sweeney declared he challenged the tax receipts of Rose Cooperstein, 1105 Bluff street, with receipt N—798, and James

COURT HALTS VOTE LIST CARRIERS

Sheriffs Ordered to Cease Distributing Names; Fake Deputies in Voting Places

With every available agency safeguarding the sanctity of the ballot, Pittsburgh cast a record vote today in a primary overshadowed by legal confusion and embittered by charges of fraud and fear of violence. Out of the chaos, these facts stood forth:

1—Sheriff Robert A. Braun was called before Judges Frank Patterson and George V. Moore late today and told to halt the distribution of names taken by the Judge Richard W. Martin forces from Registration Books B to Z and being carried by deputies to the district election boards. Braun immediately stopped several deputies starting out and recalled others. The names, aggregating about 40,000, were allocated to each district.

2—County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, acting as Republican County Chairman, sent a letter to the same boards, advising them that any person who had paid taxes had a right to vote.

3—Judge Frank P. Patterson ruled that any elections board accepting a vote on a tax receipt which had been challenged would be held accountable.

4—Judge Patterson announced that no individual pleas on challenged tax receipts would be heard, ruling that the courts had no immediate jurisdiction over election and registration boards. Such pleas, he said, must be embodied in an election contest. The existence of some 40,000 questioned tax receipts opened the way to such contests in every district in the city.

5—The Registration Board made no effort to purge the voting lists of the 25,000 names listed in the additional assessment books. In a statement the registration commissioners held they could not do this without individual complaints and hearings, a task admitted to be impossible.

6—With deputy sheriffs guarding every polling place and police patroling disorderly districts, sporadic rioting broke out in a half dozen wards.

7—Police were warned by Supt. Peter P. Walsh to watch for bogus deputy sheriffs who were said to

HOEY RELEASED AFTER WARNING

Police Inspector James N. Hoey and two patrolmen were haled into court and roundly censured today on complaint of Alderman John J. Verona, of the Third Ward, that policemen were stationed in the voting place of the Twelfth District, Third Ward.

Verona testified he had found four officers within the polling place of the Twelfth District and that they were molesting members of the election board.

Two of the patrolmen, Frank Piotrowski and Herman J. Selinger, along with Hoey, were ordered by the court to remain away from the polls and keep all other policemen at least 100 feet from the voting places, as required by law.

Hoey insisted that a squabble in the polls caused him to station police there. Verona declared there was only minor trouble and it had been settled before police arrived.

"Hoey had police following me around all morning," complained Verona.

TORCH KILLING JURY LACKS 4

COURT HOUSE, White Plains, N. Y., Sept. 17.—(INS)—Juror number eight, Samuel Griffin, a chief draftsman of Montrose, N. Y., was selected shortly before noon today at the trial of Earl F. Peacock, 22-year-old radio mechanic, for the murder of his pretty young wife, Dorothy, whom he strangled April 21, the first anniversary of their marriage.

Indications were that the jury, which will decide the fate of Peacock, will be "blue ribbon" in its makeup. Already in the jury box are men of a high type, a silk manufacturer, a retired grocer, a builder, a piano maker and two merchants.

Peacock evidently was picking his own jury. Several times when it seemed a juror was about to be selected, the defendant was consulted by his lawyer and promptly ruled against acceptance. Once Peacock

BAN ON O'NEILL PLAY FOUGHT

BOSTON, Sept. 17.—(INS.)—Plans were set afoot today by local members of the Theater Guild urge Mayor Malcolm M. Nichols and City Censor John M. Casey to remove the ban on "Strange Interlude," Eugene O'Neill's realistic problem play.

A conference was sought, but members of the Guild were told it would be unnecessary. The censor and the chief executive were standing by their statement that "Strange Interlude" cannot be shown here because "it is not a fit spectacle for the public to witness."

Members of the Theater Guild, under whose auspices the play was to have opened an engagement here on September 30, pointed out that "Strange Interlude" has been witnessed by at least 1,500,000 persons all over the world.

Advance sale of tickets for "Strange Interlude" had amounted to $40,000 to 7,000 persons.

By DAVID P. SENTNER

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife will face the danger of a smallpox area in the Panama Canal Zone during their 7,000-mile air tour of South America, which begins in a few days.

When the famous flying colonel drops in on Cristobal in the Canal Zone for a stopover of 10 days, it is probable that they will be newly-vaccinated. All residents of the Canal Zone are being vaccinated under orders of health authorities.

There are 115 smallpox cases recorded in Panama and two cases reported in the Canal Zone.

Col. Lindbergh and his wife will take off from Roosevelt Field tomorrow for Miami. They will leave on September 20 from Miami on a 21-day flight around the Caribbean Sea.

The flight will inaugurate air mail service from the United States to Dutch Guiana. Mail will also be carried over the present Pan-American Airways line to San Juan, Porto Rico. The new mail line will go from there through the Virgin Islands, Antigua, St. Lucia, Trinidad and British Guiana to Paramaribo.

As technical adviser to the Pan-American Line, the colonel will inspect the circuit and make a report on the plan for passenger service between Miami and Panama.

It is likely that Mrs. Lindbergh will pilot the plane at intervals, as she now is a licensed pilot.

Opponent Denounces Plane Note Attack on Burgess

William M. Turner, candidate for burgess of Wilkinsburg, today denounced authors of a hand bill dropped from an airplane last night which attacked Burgess Jesse R. Langley, his opponent. "I am in this fight to win provided I can do so fairly," he said. "But I certainly do not sanction attacks upon the character of my opponent."

Riley, 817 Bluff street, with receipt M—249, under the ruling made yesterday that all receipts lettered from B to Z were illegal. ...ash replied, in ruling that they vote, Sweeney said, that he had received no order from the court nor had he been instructed by the court to challenge receipts.

G. F. Gallagher, Malone watcher at the Sixth District of the Second Ward, 1548 Penn avenue, arrived in court with a similar complaint.

Attorney Charles B. Prichard and Oliver K. Eaton were present to conduct the legal battle for the Malone forces.

Charges Intimidation

Mrs. Agnes Watkins, of 315 Thirty-seventh street, appeared in court to complain that police and firemen intimidated and interfered with election officials in the Eleventh District of the Sixth Ward. Mrs. Watkins is a watcher.

Slugging in 'Strip'

Slugging in the "Strip" wards came to the attention of police with the finding of an unconscious man lying on the sidewalk near the polling place of the Tenth District of the Second Ward in O'Hara School, Twenty-fifth and Smallman streets. The man was taken to the West Penn Hospital by police. He gave his name as James Connors, 31, 2512 Penn avenue, but was unable to tell police who his assailants were.

Police said Connors was beaten in a fight, but they were unable to learn the identity of the other participants.

Warrant for Manfredo

On complaint of Clara Carter, charging election law violations, a warrant was issued for arrest of August Manfredo, a member of the election board, Sixth District, Third Ward. Manfredo is a henchman of Alderman John J. Verona.

Warrants were issued in court for arrest of Winfield Wayland, majority inspector, and William Hughes, judge of election, Eighteenth District, Ninth Ward, on complaint of Philip Cook, a voter. He alleged that the two refused to open the polling place at the appointed time.

Officials Guarded

Ten election judges of the First, Second, Third and Ninth wards were escorted to their polling headquarters by deputy sheriffs after Sheriff Robert M. Braun had been notified the judges had been threatened with violence. Their names were not obtained.

Kline Worker Jailed

The Rev. Watson Wade, Negro pastor of the Hill district, and Charles Solomon, Third Ward Kline worker, were committed to jail on charges of misdemeanor by Alderman John J. Verona. It was alleged they had created disturbances at polling places.

Woman Challenges Rival

Mrs. Marie Teague, inspector of elections at the Forbes School, First District, Fourth Ward, and candidate for judge of elections, challenged Phil Cohen, her opponent for the judgeship, and Jacob Mullaney. She alleged that, although they had been registered neither had been in the city for the 30-day period prior to election. She took her claim to the courts.

Negroes Complain

W. F. Henderson, 1309 Wylie avenue, and Lydia Frye, 48 Fullerton street, Negroes, complained they had been refused permission to vote by the board of the Seventh District, Third Ward, notwithstanding they had 1928 tax receipts. The two told the court the receipts had been left at their homes by "friends" and they did not know the source. The court disclaimed jurisdiction and sent the complainants to the board of registration commissioners.

Drunkenness Charged

Bernard Broglie, Jr., an overseer, at the polling place of the Twenty-fifth District, Twenty-sixth Ward, asked that a bench warrant be issued for Albert Schleden, a member of the election board. Schleden, while under the influence of liquor, attacked him, Broglie complained.

Ordered From Polls

Mrs. Katherine Downey, of the Sixteenth District of the Twenty-second Ward, Malone overseer, told the court that the board had ordered her from the polling place. Judge Patterson advised that, if they persisted, to make information against them.

Board Reorganized

The judge of elections in the First District of the First Ward was ordered to reorganize the board there after complaint had been made that Constable James Kelly had refused to allow a vote to be cast in the district. The court upheld the action of Kelly, who alleged that two members of the board also had served on the registration board, and that, therefore, the election board was illegally constituted.

Clash in Verona's Ward

Police under Lieut. M. L. Toole took Constable Joseph Ford, of Verona's office, from behind the table where, the police asserted, he was trying to dictate to the board. Ford was held in Center Avenue Police Station. A number of voters claimed they were not allowed to vote, one adding that a member chased him and threatened to knife him if he returned.

Riot Call on 'Hill'

A riot call from the Franklin school, Logan street, bringing a score of deputy sheriffs, followed threats of shooting over election squabbles and resulted in the arrest of Robert Germany, 30, Negro, of 16 Conductor way.

Deputy Sheriff Frank Williams, assigned to guard the polling place in the school, alleged that Germany walked up to him, pushed a gun in his ribs and told him to get out and let the police run the election. Germany was sent to the county jail on charges of pointing fireams and inciting to riot.

Barred on 1928 Receipt

Isaac Hall, a Negro, appeared before Judges Patterson and Moore, and alleged he had been barred from voting in the Twenty-first district of the Fifth Ward. Hall alleged he had a valid 1928 tax receipt. He declared he had been offered a 1929 receipt by Harry Feldman, Kline worker, if he would "do some work." Hall declined, he said, and was challenged this morning.

McKeesport in Court

Ballot boxes of the Second Ward, McKeesport, where a three-cornered fight is on for alderman, were ordered impounded at the close of the polls on petition of Attorney H. D. Douglas. The candidates are George Austin, Harry Schwartz and A. C. Martin, incumbent.

50 Chinamen Barred

Woman Election Judge Dares Men to Fight

Mrs. Reba Frank, judge of elections of the Second District of the Second Ward, Homestead, threatened to "lick any man in the crowd" as she stood arguing in the corrider outside Judge Patterson's court.

The argument followed a warning from the court when John Uhrin, registered voter from Homestead, claimed Mrs. Frank was taking voters into the booth without a necessary affidavit and aiding them to vote.

Mrs. Frank admitted that she helped those who asked her, and without the affidavits, and after being censured by Judge Patterson was sent back, with the other members of the board, to reopen their polling place.

Vote Boards Warned

Any board that receives what they know to be an illegal vote will be held accountable, Judge Patterson ruled when overseers from the Sixth District of the First Ward petitioned him in regard to the refusal of the board to let them see the books. The court advised that the overseers return and if the board still persists, to make informations against them and have them brought to court.

Police Arrest Asked

A bench warrant was asked for Police Lieut. Martin O'Toole by members of the Malone faction, who charged that he refused to permit men and women not of the Kline faction to vote in the Fourth District, of the Fourth Ward.

Martin Aid Held

William Cohn, of 1506 Chateau street, Pitt medical student and mayoralty campaign worker for Judge Martin, was arrested in the polling place of the Ninth District, Twenty-first Ward, Pennsylvania avenue and Fulton street, and lodged in the North Side police station.

According to police, Cohn had a list of alleged phantom voters along with a letter of instructions from the Martin headquarters to take the list to the polls and challenge anyone on the list who attempted to vote. He was challenging a voter when taken in custody by Constable Thomas Walsh and turned over to police.

Knowle explained that Mrs. Downey, a woman of substantial proportions, obstructed two voting booths.

RIOTING MARKS CHAOTIC VOTING

40,000 Face Challenges In Bitter Ballot Fight; Validity Orders Conflict

distributing copies of a fraudulent court order, directing election boards to accept receipts listed in the additional assessments.

With challenges awaiting some 40,000 voters, Pittsburgh went to the polls today in the climax of its hardest-fought, its bitterest, its most confused primary election.

When the polls opened deputy sheriffs handed to the election judge in each district a list of persons to be challenged. These included names from the annulled additional assessment lists and others alleged to be "phantom" assesments.

The lists were prepared by workers for candidate Judge Richard W. Martin with, it was reported at Malone headquarters, the co-operation of workers for candidate James F. Malone.

VALIDITY ORDERS CONFLICT

Chief Deputy Sheriff J. V. Coffey said the lists were being served by the Sheriff's men because "the law requires us to do it."

Sheriff Robert H. Braun later was called into court to explain why his deputies were delivering the allocated lists to the election boards. He explained that it was not as the result of a legal order, but as a favor to the Martin headquarters.

Judges Patterson and Moore ordered the distribution halted. Lists were lifted in several wards and lists yet to be sent out were impounded. It was admitted, however, that most boards had received their lists.

"We don't know what the lists contain," he said.

On the other hand, the judges of elections had been notified by the registration commissioners that any person who was duly registered was entitled to vote.

The same opinion was conveyed to the election boards in a letter framed by County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, warning the boards to ignore any such lists as those sent by the Martin and Malone workers.

At the Martin headquarters it was said the names had been obtained from photostatic copies of the additional assessment lists. These photostats were made before the books were impounded, it was said. It was reported that the lists contained 35,000 to 42,000 names.

While deputies were distributing the Martin-Malone warnings to the elections boards, there went out over the police ticker a warning that bogus deputies were distributing copies of a fraudulent court order. This order, the ticker message said, directed boards to accept tax receipts in names listed in the additional assessment books. The broadcast was signed by Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh.

Amid this legal confusion, Pittsburgh's biggest army of voters cast its ballots, under physical and legal safeguards exceeding in number those of any other primary here.

120 SHERIFFS AT POLLS

There were 120 additional deputy sheriffs sworn in to keep order at the polling places. Two score of them went on duty when the polls opened. Thirty city detectives and 10 police squad cars were roving districts where trouble was anticipated.

Attorneys for the Election Frauds Committee of the Allegheny County Bar Association and the Allegheny County Elections Association were prepared to bring action upon any instance of fraud immediately.

The bar committee warned cheaters there would be no leniency shown them this year.

The legal confusion of the primary reached its climax yesterday in the decision striking out the 25,000 additional assessments and a subsequent refusal by Supreme Court Justice Robert S. Frazer of a writ of supersedeas to repeal the order.

Judge Frank P. Patterson, sitting in Common Pleas Court to hear complaints of fraud, announced that no individual case of a challenged tax receipt would be heard.

MANY CONTESTS PROBABLE

It was entirely up to the election boards whether to challenge tax receipts, he ruled. This ruling, it was admitted, raised the probability of a contest in every district where any person listed in the invalid additional assessment books attempted to vote.

The letters received by election boards from County Commissioner Armstrong, chairman of the Allegheny County Republican Committee, warned them that unlawful efforts were being made to "intimidate voters and in other ways interfere with the free exercise of the voting privilege."

Armstrong's communication was regarded as an effort to offset the letters sent to election boards by Joseph N. Mackrell and Alexander P. Lindsay, the Malone and Martin campaign managers respectively, warning them to watch for illegally assessed voters.

TEXT OF LETTER

The Armstrong letter, according to a copy received by the judge of election of the Sixth District of the Twenty-second Ward, is as follows:

"I desire to call the attention of the voters of Allegheny County who have invested in a tax receipt and registered, which gives them the right as American citizens to vote tomorrow, to the fact that unlawful efforts will be made tomorrow to intimidate and in other ways interfere with the free exercise of the voting privilege.

"Fortunately, this effort to intimidate was called to the attention of Justice Frazer, of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, today during a hearing on the assessment proceedings, and he stated that if that would be done, it would be absolutely unwarranted and would make someone liable to indictment, and, in view of this, I will assume the responsibility of looking after the interest of the voters if there is any interference with them in the casting of their ballots after Allegheny County has received their finances for this privilege.

"You, as judge of election, will read this letter before the board over which you are presiding."

The Board of Registration Commissioners, in a statement today, took the attitude that the commission had no right to strike from the voting lists the names of citizens who had paid taxes and registered.

"The registration commission, however, intends to receive complaints and hold hearings in the usual way in every case where it is alleged a citizen is not qualified to vote.

"It must be borne in mind, however, that the registration commission has no right to disfranchise an American citizen by striking his name from the registration list without a sworn complaint and a public hearing," the statement said.

BOARD REPRIMANDED

In Quarter Sessions Court, Judge Reward instructed the election board of the Sixth District, Third Ward, that it was not qualified to challenge the right of a voter to cast his ballot.

The board was hailed into court by voters who protested that the board was refusing them the right to vote on the grounds that they were numbered among the disfranchised thousands, or that their tax receipts were not genuine.

All ballot boxes of the Thirty-first Ward, including former Hays Borough, were ordered impounded at the close of voting tonight and placed in custody of the sheriff, in a ruling by Judges Patterson and Moore.

Attorney Morris D. Canter, in behalf of the Malone mayoralty forces, made the motion on the ground to prevent possible fraud.

Ballot boxes of 15 wards were ordered impounded in a similar manager by the court yesterday.

shook his head vigorously and said audibly: "No, no!"

The boyish-looking defendant sat beside his mother, Mrs. Catherine Peacox, at defense counsel table. She kissed him when she came in, but afterwards they had nothing to say to each other.

Miss Carrie Winter, 21 years old, of Bronxville, a former friend of the slain Dorothy Peacox, came into court today in company with her mother, and took a seat not far from the defendant. She was attired in a white trench coat, and made an effort to conceal her face.

"POSTMISTRESS"

She was the "postmistress" through whom Eugene Bussey, young college student of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, exchanged letters with the slain girl after she had separated from her husband.

Miss Winter is expected to be one of the star witnesses for the defense.

It required the entire forenoon to obtain one juror. It was expected, however, that the jury would be obtained by nightfall, as Justice Arthur S. Tompkins ordered the attorneys to shorten their questions and speed up the task of selecting the jury.

LEGAL WIZARD'S QUIZ

A set routine of about 30 questions was asked each prospective juror by Defense Attorney Sydney A. Syme.

These questions, it was reported, were prepared by J. Alfred Zimmerman, a non-lawyer of New York, who is regarded as a legal wizard. The questions were typewritten. No juror was accepted until he had satisfactorily answered the questions and had been finally sanctioned by the defendant, Peacox.

Many talesmen were excused.

Peacock hit his wife with the butt end of a pistol during a quarrel in their apartment. He became angered when she referred to their home as "the same old dump." She had left him on two occasions. He claims that on the fatal night she attempted to strike him with a metal bookend.

CANDIDATES CAST VOTES EARLY

Martin First of 3 Mayoralty Aspirants at Polls; Kline, Malone Follow

The three persons most interested in the Republican mayoralty fight set a good example by voting early today. They were the candidates themselves.

First to vote, Judge Martin cast his ballot in his home district, the Seventeenth, of the Eleventh Ward. Mayor Kline voted in the Seventeenth District, Fourteenth Ward, and Councilman Malone in the Twenty-eighth District, Fifth Ward.

Conservative guessers conceded that each of the three had voted for himself!

The three candidates sent forth their final pleas over the radio last night.

In their radio speeches the candidates each pursued the same course he has followed during the campaign. Said Mayor Kline:

"I am the only candidate who has placed before you positive policies which will help the people."

Judge Martin:

"Smash the machine. To the right is the Kline wing, to the left the Malone wing. One blow will destroy both. The weapon the ballot."

Councilman Malone:

"I believe that my 12 years of training and experience in municipal government have given me a breadth of knowledge concerning the workings of the city government."

TALKS BROADCAST

Kline's speech was one of those broadcast at a radio mass meeting by the "Real Regular Republican Organization." Others who spoke on the same program were Councilman Daniel Winters, candidate for controller; Councilmen John S. Herron and W. Y. English, Clifford B. Connelley and M. J. Muldowney and Thomas D. Malone, candidates for Council, and Robert S. Cain, candidate for sheriff. Thomas D. Malone explained that, although he was not on the Kline ticket, he freely indorsed the Mayor.

While the three Republican candidates for the mayoralty nomination were keenly interested in the primary's outcome, Thomas A. Dunn, a candidate for the mayoralty on the Democratic ticket, was unworried.

Unopposed, Dunn closed quiet campaign with a speech before the Allegheny County League of Women Voters. He assured his audience that, after the primary, he would wage "a vigorous fight on the Republican political machine."

ADVICE FOR DEMOCRATS

The Democratic county chairman, David L. Lawrence, issued a statement in which he urged Democrats to "concentrate their voting for councilmanic candidates on those candidates who are on the Democratic ticket alone. They are James Murtha, Patrick T. Fagan, William Barclay Foster, George E. Evans and Claire E. McGinniss.

Second in interest to the mayoralty fight today is the battle being fought by Councilman Winters and Controller Henry Oliver Evans for Evans' job. Their contest has been waged with even more bitterness than has attended the mayoralty fight.

The county fight centered about the battle being waged for the Republican nomination for sheriff; for two judgeships of Common Pleas, two of Orphans' and two of County Court. Coroner William J. McGregor, who is seeking re-election, is unopposed.

Police Seek Women Believed Kidnaped

RICHMOND, Ky., Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Police and county officers today were making a search for Mrs. Geneva Walton, 24, on the theory that she and another young woman had been kidnaped.

The officers were told by Harry Lee Thurman, brother of Mrs. Walton, that the two were accosted by two men last Tuesday in an automobile bearing a Michigan license and forced into the car. He said the car drove south from here.

PASTOR ADMITS BASING PANTAGES CHARGES ON 'HEARSAY'

JUDGE SEEKS EVIDENCE OF 'FIXING'

Orchestra Leader Named as Man Depended on to 'Hang' Jury; Associate of Husband

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 17.—The Rev. Robert P. Shuler today will learn how far he is culpable for allegedly broadcasting accusations over his private radio that the jury sitting in the trial of Mrs. Alexander Pantages will be a "hung jury" and that he can name "the man who will hang it."

Shuler admitted under oath late yesterday that he could not prove the accusations.

Shuler is said to have mentioned a court reporter as a party to an alleged "irregularity" in selecting Ira Gay as a juror.

PANTAGES' PARTNER

Gay is said to be a business associate of Alexander Pantages, husband of the woman under trial for second degree murder and himself accused by Eunice Pringle, 17-year-old co-ed dancer.

Following the hearing of several witnessess relative to the Shuler charges, Judge Hardy last night announced that he would withhold judgment until today. The judge then went about procuring a transcript of the pastor's remarks uttered over the radio last night. Upon the contents of the transcript rests the court's decision concerning the pastor.

"This is an investigation to determine if a juror in the box has been fixed," said the judge, "and is not a contempt of court hearing."

RADIO TALK PUBLISHED

Published reports of a radio talk delivered by the preacher led to the special hearing called by the judge. He had charged that the Pantages jury would be deadlocked. From the witness stand the pastor denied he had named the juror or had uttered the word "fixed," and admitted his remarks were founded on hearsay.

The court reporter, Arthur Moore, contradicted under oath the preacher's insinuations.

Reference to an "unusual friendliness" between the court reporter and a member of the defense counsel during the impaneling of the jury brought Attorney W. Joseph Ford to the stand, where he branded as false the pastor's charges.

Then, under oath, Shuler was forced to reveal the identity of one of his informers—the Rev. Gustav Briegleb.

"I tried to dissuade him from mentioning the case over the radio," said Briegleb.

DENIES CROWDING

During the progress of the trial yesterday Henry Lee, a young rancher, testified for the defense and identified himself as the driver of a "mystery car." He denied on cross-examination that he had crowded Mrs. Pantages' automobile to the wrong side of the street, causing a crash that fataly injured Jura Rokumoto.

John Conterno, defense witness, was recalled and questioned as to whether he had offered money to a "go-between" who arranged for him to testify after conferring with Alexander Pantages. He denied the insinuation.

Carmen Pantages, 19-year-old daughter of Mrs. Pantages, testified that she did not smell liquor on her mother's breath when she kised her at the hospital after the auto accident.

REOCCUPATION OF RHINE DENIED

COBLENZ, Germany, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Reports of French intentions to reoccupy Wiesbaden as soon as British troops have been evacuated were denied today by the French chief delegate, M. Noel, speaking in the name of Director Tirard, of the Interallied Rhineland Commission, in an interview in the Berlin Tageblatt.

He declared replacement of the British occupying forces by French troops had not been considered, and that only a small guard will be maintained at Wiesbaden for protection of the Interallied Commission, which will make its headquarters there. The purpose of the guard is to protect the commission from possible repetition of incidents such as occurred in early days of the occupation.

BERLIN, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Although departure of the British battalion from Bad Schwalbach was set for September 24, evacuation started today. The first to go were officers, who left early for England to arrange quarters for the troops upon their return home. Officers, soldiers and their families will follow immediately.

Airplanes Fight Big Oil Fire In England

HULL, England, Sept. 17.—(INS.)—Airplanes were used today to help fight a fire for the first time on record in England. An explosion set fire to 500,000 gallons of petrol in the storage tanks of the Anglo-American Oil Company at Saltend, Hedon.

When the flames threatened to spread to 17 tanks of 350,000 gallon capacity, airplanes were sent up to direct firemen who were hampered by the dense billows of thick, black smoke.

Truck of Nitro Upsets, Driver Only Bruised

FRANKLIN, Pa., Sept. 17.—Badly bruised and cut, and suffering other injuries, Albert Brooks, 32, of Butler, is alive to tell of the wreck of his nitro-glycerine truck with 10 quarts of the explosive.

The truck overturned late Monday afternoon on the Pittsburgh road near here, sending nitro cans in all directions. None of the stuff exploded, but Brooks was painfully injured.

Franklin motorists who came along shortly after, took him to the hospital, where he will recover. Traffic on the road was heavy at the time.

TARIFF BLOCKS VOTE BY REED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17. — Due to the press of the pending tariff battle, Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, was unable to go to Pittsburgh today to cast his vote in the elections.

Although he had made preparations to go, Republican leaders at the last minute insisted that he stay on the job here to ward off attacks of Democratic opponents, to say nothing of the fight within the party ranks such as that waged yesterday by Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho. Ever since the tariff battle opened it has been apparent that the Pittsburgh Senator would be called upon to bear the burden of active leadership, because of his position on the Finance Committee, having the tariff bill in charge.

He had planned while in Pittsburgh to take up with local leaders the vacancy in the United States district attorneyship caused by the resignation of John D. Meyer. But this will probably have to wait for a while before a decision. At the same time, however, he stated today that he hoped to have the office filled within a short time.

ARMY ENGINEER CHIEF NAMED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17. — (INS.)—Brig. Gen. Lytle Brown, now commanding the Nineteenth Infantry Brigade in the Canal Zone, was today appointed chief of engineers of the Army by President Hoover.

Gen. Brown, a native of Nashville, Tenn., will be the officer in charge of the federal government's great flood relief program in the Mississippi Valley.

His appointment today was the result of some weeks of study by President Hoover and Secretary of War Good. He succeeds Maj. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, who retired August 7.

Because of the enormous amount of work which the army engineers will be called upon to supervise during the next three years—a volume comparable if not in excess of that involved in building the Panama Canal—President Hoover let it be known, in connection with Brown's appointment, that he is making important changes in the system in vogue in the engineering department.

Three assistants are to be named for Gen. Brown, one to be in charge of flood relief in the lower Mississippi, one in charge of the program in the waters tributary to the Mississippi, and the third to direct public works in the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence River area.

These assistants have not yet been chosen.

DENY MIND PLEA FOR WAGGONER

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Sept. 17.—(INS.)—Denial that Charles Delos Waggoner 54, president of the Bank of Telluride, Col., intends to use insanity as a defense was made here today by Samuel D. Crump, Denver attorney, representing Waggoner, who is charged with the New York bank swindle.

Waggoner is held in the Laramie County Jail pending his removal to New York on a charge of using the mails to defraud, in connection with his alleged $500,000 swindle against six New York banks through faked telegrams sent from Denver.

The report that he would use insanity as a defense originated after a deputy sheriff asserted he had overheard a conversation in which it was stated that insanity was to be the defense and that alienists were to be called in.

Mrs. Mary Waggoner, the banker's wife, and his son, Delos, left late yesterday for New York. They, together with the other Colorado citizens, have been subpenaed to appear before the New York grand jury now in session.

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 17.—Patrick J. Rooney, 50, mine foreman at Braznell, suffered a broken nose and severe injuries to both eyes, when attacked, he said, by Edward Ryan, Brownsville, when Rooney refused to allow him to be relieved from his duties. Ryan was arrested.

Mother of Eight Ends Life in Furnace

CUMBERLAND, Md., Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Crawling into a furnace and kindling a fire after chaining herself to a steel crossbar inside, Mrs. Frances Insogna, wife of John Insogna, Cumberland merchant, was found burned to death.

Mrs. Insogna has suffered from insanity and had spent a great deal of the last three years in various institutions, and had returned home, apparently much improved, several times.

Yesterday she eluded members of her family, and the body was found by a daughter. The woman is survived by eight children.

RALLY AT GRAVE OF MOB VICTIM

By HENRY LESESNE.
International News Service.

BESSEMER CITY, N. C., Sept. 17.—"We're going to have a union all over the South, so we can have good clothes and live in a better house;

"The workers join together and let the bosses reply, but we'll never let the leaders die."

The doleful strains of this refrain, sung to the tune of "Floyd Collins" will sound a requiem for Mrs. Ellie May Wiggins, the Gastonia mob murder victim when she is buried here today.

Mrs. Wiggins wrote those lines during the famous Gastonia strike. She became an active recruit of the National Textile Workers' Union last April and composed many other songs which became popular among the strikers.

SLAIN BY MOB

She was slain Saturday by a vigilant mob which nipped in the bud a Communistic mass meeting. Seven men are being held for investigation, but the authorities do not know who fired the fatal bullet.

The N. T. W. U. today is staging a gigantic demonstration in protest against the mob murder. They have announced few plans for the funeral. There will, however, be a minister officiating. His name has not been given out.

ONE-DAY STRIKE CALLED

The funeral today promises to be a spectacle in the strictest sense of the word. Thousands of copies of a leaflet urging the millworkers of this section to enter a one-day strike and attend the burial have been distributed. And from the hatless and coatless horde which streamed into this little mountain town this morning, it looked as though hundreds of them were leaving their jobs to come to Bessemer City.

The call for an ephemeral strike of condolence was issued by William F. Dunne, secretary of the American Communist Party.

"Make Sister Ellie May's funeral a mass protest against the murder terror of the Manville-Jeckes Company," the communication read. "She had only her life to give for the working class. And she gave it."

14 OFFER ALIBIS

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 17.—(INS.)—The defense today sent another procession of witnesses to the stand to establish alibis for the three Gastonia policemen and 11 loyal mill workers charged with participation in last week's mob kidnaping of three textile organizers.

Thus far in the week-old preliminary hearing, seven of the defendants have enwrapped themselvs in air-tight alibis. Indications are that the defense will take several days more in concluding its case.

The three victims, including one organizer who was flogged, and other state witnesses, have identified all 14 defendants as members of the anti-Communistic mob.

3 POWERS HOLD U. S. NAVY FATE

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The sole remaining difference between Great Britain and the United States in their naval negotiations—involving whether the American Navy is to have 18 or 21 cruisers mounting eight-inch guns—probably will not be settled outside the five-power conference to be held in January.

Settlement of this point, it was explained today, is dependent upon what the other powers, Japan, France and Italy, demand in the way of cruiser ratios.

WARNINGS GIVEN

Already there have been warnings from Paris, Tokio and Rome that the smaller powers are not going to be content with the ratios assigned to them at Washington eight years ago. Those ratios were 3 for Japan and 1.6 each for France and Italy, as compared to 5 each for Great Britain and the United States.

Great Britain's naval policy has traditionally been predicated upon what a possible combination of powers might send against her, and if France and Italy insist upon maintaining a force of cruisers, submarines and destroyers which is radically out of proportion to their capital ship ratio, then the whole structure of the British-American agreement falls to the ground.

FIGURES AGREE

Premier Ramsay MacDonald made this clear in his survey of the situation in London yesterday, and it found an echoing response in Washington today. MacDonald's figures, which are substantially those hitherto reported from Washington, furnish additional evidence that President Hoover's hope of actually reducing armament must be realized, if at all, in classes of ships other than cruisers.

Instead of obtaining cruiser reduction, there has been attained rather cruiser stability, with the British and American fleets stabilized at 340,000 tons for the British, as against either 300,000 or 315,000 tons for the American, depending upon a final adjustment. The British tonnage superiority is to be offset by American superiority in the big-gunned class of cruisers.

PORT DE FRANCE, Martinique, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—A slight eruption of smoke and gas burst from Mont Pelee at 9:35 p. m. yesterday. No serious eruption was feared from the famous volcano, which caused such havoc in Martinique in 1902, when 40,000 persons were estimated to have perished.

BRITISH URGE WORLD CURB ON DRUGS

International News Service.

GENEVA, Sept. 17.—An international conference to deal with limitation of the manufacture of narcotic drugs was proposed by the British today.

The suggestion was made to the fifth League of Nations commission (which is handling the narcotic subject) by Philip Becker, of England.

Becker offered a resolution stating that the only effective method of handling this subject and the only efficient means of combating the drug evil is a direct agreement among interested nations for legal control of manufacture.

VICTORY FOR UNITED STATES

Great Britain's move to curb the output of narcotics was a victory for the United States which has taken the leadership in the world fight against the drug evil durihg the past eight years.

Italy had previously proposed that the league definitely instruct the committee on opium to make a study of the best means of limiting the manufacture of this narcotic.

THREE OTHER PROPOSALS

Three other proposals were before the committee, all dealing with the limitation of the production of narcotics. Two of them came from British sources and the other from Venezuela.

Dr. C. Carn-Perez, Venezuelan minister to Italy, who is attending the league meeting, declared that the world at large is wondering why the league has not taken decisive action on the drug evil in view of the fact that it has been under consideration for years.

TARIFF B REAK WIDENS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—At the very beginning of its long discussion of the controversial sections of the tariff bill, the Senate today found itself plunged into the task of clarifying the sharply different viewpoints of the Regular and Independent Republican groups.

Although the highly controversial administrative and special sections of the bill were the business before the chamber, the opening clash centered on the more general disagreement over the proposed rate increases for industrial as well as agricultural commodities.

FOES TO CONFER

Following up that clash, which was led by Borah, of Idaho, as spokesman for the independent viewpoint, and Reed, of Pennsylvania, for the regulars, Republican and some Democratic senators from the Western and Northwestern agricultural states were preparing, under the leadership of McNary, of Oregon, to confer with a view to united action. Many of them have expressed dissatisfaction with the proposals relating to lumber, shingles, logs, wool, manganese, fruits and nuts.

Emphasizing the stand of the senators from the agricultural states, Borah contended that "this bill is not executed in justice to the agricultural interests," and argued that, "with industrial profits increasing, with exports increasing and imports decreasing, we have on the other hand the constantly falling income and profits of agriculture."

Although the agricultural spokesmen got all they asked for in the Fordney-McCumber act of 1923, he said, the industrial increases written into that law established a "disparity" in the relative advantages of agriculture and industry which the pending bill failed to equalize. Further increases in industrial rates, he contended, were unnecessary.

CLAIMS PLEDGES KEPT

Reed retorted that the finance committee, of which he is a member, had written the bill on the theory that "all Americans were equal," and asserted that, instead of violating Republican campaign pledges, it had fulfilled them in its efforts to provide additional protection for manufacturing industries which were suffering from competition not adequately provided against in the 1922 act.

"We hear an abundance of sneers," he remarked. "Pretended conversations are recited indicating callousness on our part toward the farmer.

"I want to assure the Senator that no Republican pledge has been forgotten in this bill."

Amelia Earhart Takes Up Flying as Executive

By RICHARD C. WILSON.
International News Service.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 17.—In the midst of the smoke-filled room where the first national air traffic conference of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America was held here today sat a young lady, the only member of her sex holding down an executive position with an air transport company.

She is Miss Amelia Earhart, the quiet-mannered miss who started her career as a social worker, but found herself definitely placed in aviation after the thrills of a trans-Atlantic flight.

Remarks of this charming young woman were heard along with the 100 men executives of the 29 major air transport lines in the United States attending the conference.

Additional safety devices which are nearing completion will soon make air passenger travel the safest form of travel, Miss Earhart, who is assistant general traffic manager of Transcontinental Air Transport, told International News Service.

Use of radio beacons to guide passenger planes probably will be the next major safety measure adopted by the air lines, Miss Earhart believes.

The radio beacon, she said, might have held the T. A. T. air liner, City of San Francisco, on its course in New Mexico recently and prevented it from crashing into Mount Taylor, causing eight deaths.

Passenger rates on air lines never will become as cheap as rail rates, according to Miss Earhart. Operating costs will become lower with the use of larger planes—mighty air liners carrying from 30 to 75 passengers.

"The public will have to be sold on the idea that it is worth twice as much when you go three times as fast," she explained.

After the conference closes tomorrow she plans to fly alone to the Pacific Coast on a business trip.

Bradley arrived here yesterday from Buenos Aires. He was the first passenger on the air mail lines linking Buenos Aires with the United States.

HOOVER MAY GO ON TEXAS TOUR

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—The possibility has developed that President Hoover may visit Texas this fall.

It was said at the White House that the chief executive may go to Texas some time after returning to Washington from his coming trip to Detroit, Cincinnati and Louisville. The second journey, it was added, might possibly begin within two or three weeks after his return.

Previously the White House had denied that the chief executive would be enabled to visit the Lone Star state in the near future.

Fighting Units Inform Fliers Anent Weather

By KENNETH CLARK.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The Army, Navy and Marine Corps have always recognized that the lives of their airplane pilots depend in a large measure on reliable information as to weather conditions over flying routes.

Long before the Federal government established even the present limited weather forecasting facilities for civil airways, the military establishments created far-flung, efficient, meteorological services to safeguard air travel. As a result, they proudly proclaim they have few crack-ups due to unexpected weather conditions.

NEED MORE MONEY

The weather bureau has an annual appropriation of $750,000 for aviation forecasting. The fund limits the service to only one-half of the established commercial airways. An additional appropriation of only $1,500,000 annually is needed to expand the work to all routes.

Aviation experts are agreed that the work must be enlarged to cover the entire country if such disasters due to storms as the recent crash of the T. A. T. plane, City of San Francisco, in New Mexico are to be avoided in the future.

It is a cardinal rule in the army and navy that no pilot, except in extreme emergencies, must take off from a flying field in the face of adverse weather reports. These reports are gathered almost hourly by expert aerologists and a flyer, therefore, is able to know exactly the weather conditions along any established army or navy air route.

NAVY REGULATIONS

The information also is available to civilian pilots. The navy has adopted this regulation:

"Before any long distance flight is attempted, a special forecast covering the probable conditions over the route to be traversed shall be obtained by the commanding officer of the squadron or the pilot concerned. The aerological officer should preferably put this forecast in writing, supplementing it with any oral discussion necessary to point out the best means for taking advantage of favorable weather conditions and avoiding adverse conditions pertaining to the flight under consideration. Due consideration shall be given to weather indications prior to all aircraft operations."

The regulation has been so strictly enforced that even the highest ranking naval officers have been forced to abandon a proposed flight and take a train to their destination because weather conditions, even though ideal at the home station, have been reported unfavorable at the other end of the route. This happened recently to Admiral Moffett, chief of naval aviation, who had planned to fly to New York.

MANY STATIONS

The navy has eight complete weather stations afloat and 14 ashore. In addition, it receives the full reports of the weather bureau.

The Army's meteorological service, established during the war, is under the Signal Corps, which maintains 38 stations over the country.

At every Army flying field there is complete weather data covering all the adjacent routes. For instance, a pilot at Bolling Field here can look at a chart in the operations office and tell whether it is safe to fly to New York, or Dayton, or Norfolk. He will know whether any storms are approaching these routes and, if so, whether he will have time to fly ahead of them. If there is any possibility of being caught in a fog or a storm, the flight is abandoned.

BLOCK SIGNAL SYSTEM

For flying over the mountains between here and the West, the Army has adopted a block signal system to warn a flier to land if a storm has formed ahead. This is done by displaying conspicuously various colored canvas panels which the pilot can see from high altitudes.

The Army and Navy have schools for training aerologists, who are regarded as indispensable at every flying post. Following the example of their co-workers, the pilots, many of these men are leaving the service to enter the employ of commercial air lines. They are attracted by the higher pay.

CHURCH, FASCIST RIFT SEEN

ROME, Sept. 17.—(INS.)—Possible estrangement between the church and state in Italy loomed again today as new developments followed Premier Benito Mussolini's announcement that 9,000 "sentinels" were posted throughout the country to watch the Catholic clergy for signs of enmity toward the Fascist regime.

The Osservatore Romano, semi-official spokesman for the Vatican, has entered the affair by declaring that the Catholics of the world are ready to adhere to the views of Pope Pius on any matter dealing with relations to the Italian government.

The Osservatore points out that when addressing 20,000 members of the Catholic Youths' Association, his holiness declared:

"The Pope is never alone in his views."

To which the youths answered, according to the Osservatore:

"Never."

WOMAN BANDIT TERMED SANE

NEW BRAUNFELS, Tex., Sept. 17.—(AP.)—An alienist originally employed by the defense testified last night he believed Mrs. Rebecca Bradley Rogers, Texas' famous woman bank robber who is on trial for robbery with firearms, was sane when she robbed the Farmers' National Bank of Buda, Tex., in 1926.

Dr. Joe S. Wooten, of Austin, star rebuttal witness for the state, testified he examined the defendant at the request of her attorneys, between 7 and 10 times, and that in his opinion she robbed the bank because she needed the money to meet obligations.

Dr. Wooten said after his examination of Mrs. Rogers he notified her attorneys that his testimony would be worthless to them.

The testimony was admitted only after strenuous objections by the defense, which were overruled.

Among the tests which Dr. Wooten gave Mrs. Rogers was one in which he required her to write a lengthy autobiography. This document was read to the jury in an effort to show that the defendant was capable of preparing a lengthy connected, well-told story of her past.

Liquor-Crazed Man Slays Patrolman

OAKLAND, Cal., Sept. 17.—(INS.)—After a several hour drinking spree, Joe Cataldi, 70, returned home, started shooting at his wife, who fled, shot and killed one policeman who answered her cries, and wounded another officer. Cataldi then barricaded himself and held off squads of police for two hours with a steady stream of bullets.

10 Die in German Coal Mine Explosion

SAABRUECKEN, Germany, Sept. 17.—(AP).—Ten men were killed in a fire-damp explosion which followed a blast in the Charles mine when all the ventilators were destroyed. The electric central station and the boiler house were demolished. The number of injured and any other dead still in the mine pit had not been determined.

Big Bear Gives Chase to Dogs; Flees Shot

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Sept. 17.—Mrs. Daniel Richner, who lives near Veiled Lady Cavern, in Brush Valley, is having trouble with a bear which she describes as the biggest she ever saw. The bear is making a regular feeding ground out of the orchard on the farm, which is located close to the foot of Nittany Mountain.

His regular feeding time is about dusk. She discovered it feeding on apples.

The next evening the bear chased the dogs to their own doorstep. Mrs. Richner took a shot at the bear, which caused it to beat a hasty retreat.

He then went upstairs and killed himself, deputy coroners said.

CHICAGO BROKE, 4,000 MISS PAY

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—(INS.)—Chicago is "broke" again.

First it was the school teachers that didn't get paid and now it's 4,000 employes of the County Building who, instead of receiving their semi-monthly checks, were given "I. O. U's."

"Our payroll of approximately $400,000 fell due on September 15," County Comptroller William J. Graham explained today. "But instead of mailing the checks, we are locking the roll up in the vaults. Of course, the employes will have to be paid sometime, but when that will be nobody knows. I doubt if it will be for two or three months."

Included in the list of 4,000 are the county board members, judges and all clerical and technical workers.

Graham blamed the shortage of funds on the 1928 reassessment which not only has delayed the collection of taxes, but has resulted in valuations far under those estimated.

CRUISER CAUGHT WITH RUM

DETROIT, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—A 40-foot double cabin cruiser with a cargo of 500 cases of beer and 100 cases of whisky was captured by federal immigration border patrol inspectors Monday in the canal leading from Brest Bay in Lake Erie to the village of Brest. The cruiser was aground in the canal. The officers, Charles Green and Fred McKelvey, started for the craft in a rowboat. As they approached a speedboat occupied by three men ran close to them and the wash of the faster craft overturned the rowboat. Green and McKelvey waded shoulder deep the rest of the way and boarded the cruiser.

The speed boat continued to circle the cruiser and several shots were fired in an apparent attempt to frighten the inspectors.

Trust Officer Tells of Tremendous Growth of Corporate Trusteeships

DOES MANY SERVICES

The tremendous increase in the popularity of corporate trusteeships has been one of the interesting developments of the present decade, according to John W. Chalfant, vice president in charge of trusts of The Colonial Trust Company.

The day of the individual trustee is passing; the day of the corporate trustee seems to be just beginning. This change has been accompanied by the development of the finest facilities that have ever been available for the safe and satisfactory administration of estates, the management of accumulated wealth and the handling of all types of fiduciary service.

Fewer Individual Executors.

The change began a relatively few years ago when the public came to recognize that the old custom of appointing some friend or relative as executor of an estate was usually an unsatisfactory arrangement. From then on more wills began to name a trust company (such as The Colonial Trust Company) as executor of the estate.

The skill, economy and speed with which trust companies were able to administer estates led to a widespread public desire to have the same sort of efficient, modern machinery for the management and distribution of insurance moneys. This was met with the establishment of thousands of life insurance trust agreements. Under this arrangement life insurance money is paid over to trust companies, instead of to individual beneficiaries, and is invested or distributed in accordance with the desires of the insured, as set forth in the trust agreement. It removes the danger of insurance money being dissipated or lost through inexperience or bad investment, and yet it sets up a flexible arrangement which will provide extra money to take care of beneficiaries when sickness, or the need for educational expenditures or any similar emergency arises.

Living Trusts.

The success of these trusteeships in thousands of cases has resulted in the development of many other trust arrangements. One of the best known of these is the voluntary or living trust. This is widely used by business or professional men or women who wish to be relieved of the task of managing their wealth in order that they may retire or travel. It is also used by many who realize that by placing all or a part of their wealth in a living trust they can see exactly how their affairs would be handled in a trust after death. In the living or voluntary trust, money or property or securities are placed in the care of the trust company and the income is distributed by the trust company in accordance with the trust agreement.

Specialists Handle Work.

Today, a trust company such as The Colonial Trust Company is managing and distributing millions of dollars worth of trust funds under these and other trust arrangements. Highly-skilled trust officers, specialists in this type of work, devote their lives to it.

It has been a tremendous growth, but it is just beginning. Officers of the Trust Department at The Colonial Trust Company will be glad to discuss methods in which this growing service can help you and protect your family.

THE PURPOSE OF THIS PAGE

In a series of pages like this, The Colonial Trust Company is attempting to set down some of the interesting or unusual things which transpire in this bank.

It is doing this in the belief that banks and trust companies are assuming such a constantly-increasing importance in the business and personal life of the community that the general public should know more about the every-day work of these institutions.

Jas. A. Chalfant
President

THE COLONIAL TRUST CO.

Colonial Director

GEORGE W. RATCLIFFE.

George W. Ratcliffe, one of the members of the board of directors at the Colonial Trust Company, is an outstanding figure in the gas and public utilities fields.

Mr. Ratcliffe is president and a director of the Manufacturers' Light and Heat Company, president and a director of the Manufacturers' Gas Company, assistant treasurer of the Columbia Gas & Electric Company, president and director of the Natural Gas Company of West Virginia, of the Greensboro Gas Company, the Greensboro Gas Corporation, the Sewickley Gas Company, the Fayette County Gas Company, the Venture Oil Company and the New Cumberland Water & Gas Company.

He is also a director in the Freehold Bank and a member of the advisory committee of the Pittsburgh Royalty Syndicate.

Mr. Ratcliffe is a director also of the Pittsburgh Field Club.

KEEPS BANKS IN SMALL COIN

The Colonial Supplies Large Quantities Of Minor Change.

The Colonial Trust Company does a "thriving business" in the supplying of small coins to other banking institutions.

One bank, because of a peculiar quirk in its business, pays out many more pennies than it takes in in the ordinary course of affairs. The Colonial helps it to balance this by "selling" it great quantities of pennies.

Another bank, for some reason, needs many more nickels than it takes in. The Colonial balances the deficiency there, too, by exchanging nickels for bills.

Certain business houses have need for large quantities of dimes, which the Colonial supplies for them.

The Colonial is able to provide all these small coins, largely because of the tremendous popularity of the coin banks among customers of this bank. Thousands of these banks are in use among Colonial clients and these banks supply a constant stream of small money to The Colonial. Coin banks in many clever and ingenious sizes and shapes can be seen at the Colonial.

Colonial Avenue Is Popular Highway

Pittsburgh's most popular financial highway today, as in past years, is "Colonial Avenue," the name given to the passageway through the bank. Giving easy access to three of the city's important thoroughfares — Wood street, Diamond street and Fourth avenue—Colonial avenue is used, not only by the growing army of Colonial customers, but by thousands of other business men and women.

GET $1,000 BY SAVING $10 WEEK

Small Regular Deposits Quickly Mount to Large Sums.

A regular weekly deposit of $9.50 a week, placed in the Colonial Trust Company at 4 per cent interest, compounded twice a year, will amount to $1,028.57 in two years.

If the same rate of deposit were kept up over a period of 12 years, your $9.50 deposits would grow to $7,591.98. Of that sum, more than $1,663 would be interest added to your account by the Colonial.

BIG TRANSFER BUSINESS HERE

Colonial Trust Has One of Largest Local Departments.

The Transfer Department at The Colonial Trust Company is one of the two largest in this section of the country.

This department acts as agent for corporations in the payment of interest on bonds and mortgages, in the registration and transfer of stock, in the handling of tax records, and in general, serves as fiscal or paying agent for these organizations.

"The service of the trust company as transfer agent," says Nathan G. Eyster, assistant secretary of The Colonial, who heads this important department, "is another of the safeguards which modern banking science has provided for the handling of corporate funds. Some of the department's functions could be discharged, of course, by a private individual. But only the up-to-date trust company can economically furnish all the necessary facilities."

MAKES EACH OF HIS CHILDREN INDEPENDENT

Father Forms Plan Which Removes All Chances.

There are many heads of families whose earning ability assures comfort for their families while that earning ability lasts, but death and infirmity put an end to earning power. Some men therefore segregate enough of their resources to continue comfort for their families, no matter what change comes.

One of the finest arrangements of this type was developed by a client of The Colonial, in co-operation with the Trust Department here. This client established a separate trust fund for each of his children. He placed in each fund just enough money to assure the mere necessaries of life for each child. Then he stipulated that, so long as he lived and retained his earning ability, all the income earned by those trust funds should accumulate in the funds until the children reach their majority.

Those trust funds have now been in operation for years and all the children have reached their majority. Their father is still active in business and not one of the trust funds has been touched. Each one now contains a handsome fund for its beneficiary, and all through these years the trusts have insured those children against danger.

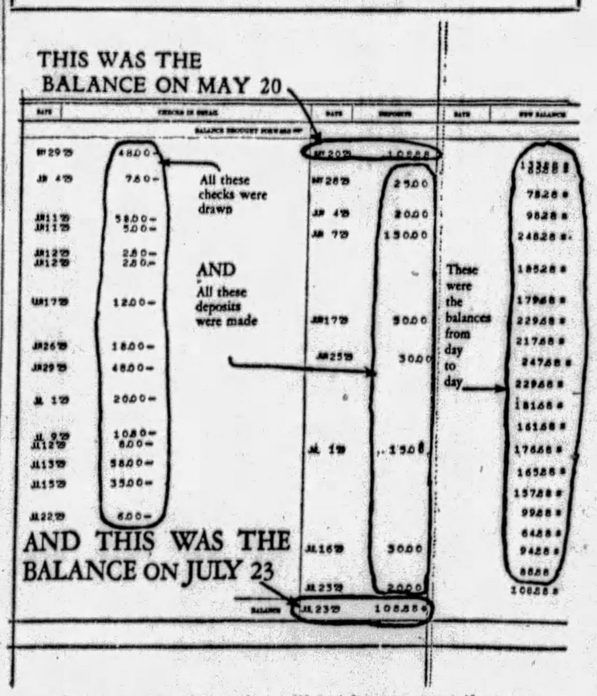
Believe It Or Not

(With the customary apologies to Ripley)



Here is a coincidence that will not happen more than once in thousands of cases.

A customer of The Colonial (whose identity is withheld for obvious reasons) had her account balanced on May 20, and the statement showed $108.88 in the account. During the next two months, she wrote 15 checks, many of them for odd amounts, and made eight deposits, all of round figures. In that period, her balance changed 20 times. Yet, on July 23, when the account was balanced again, it showed exactly the same amounts as at the preceding statement . . . $108.88.

The circumstance came to light when the customer, receiving her statement, noticed that the two balances were exactly the same, thought that a mistake had been made, and took it to Charles E. Coates, of the bank staff, to have it checked.

What Becomes of Large-Size Money Now Being Retired?

Banker Tells How Government Handles the Great Quantities of Old Paper Bills Which New-Size Money Is Displacing.

The great task of changing the paper money of this Nation from one size to another, which is now going on, calls attention to the infinite care which the Government exercises in the retirement of old worn-out paper money.

With millions upon millions of pieces of money now being destroyed by the treasury department, A. D. Robb, vice president of the Colonial Trust Company, described the methods which are used.

All the bills which come in, worn and creased and dirtied, are carefully checked against the treasury records. Then they are soaked in acid baths which dissolve the ink. When the printing has been entirely removed and they are once more mere pieces of paper, they are moved to another bath in which they are subjected to jets of live steam that soften the fiber and loosen the reinforcing silk strands. Finally they are thrown into choppers, where fast-revolving steel teeth tear them into shreds and mash them to pulp.

All through this process there is the same kind of guarding and supervision over the money as in the original process of manufacturing it. Theft is an impossibility.

In the end the destroyed money looks like a mass of wet concrete, gray and pulpy. When it is dried out it is sold for a few cents a pound. Much of this old pulp is used to manufacture the board covers for books. More of it is formed into replicas of the Washington monument and sold to tourists.

Holdup Story False, Banker Held in Theft

LEWISTON, Me., Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Wilbur H. Davis, treasurer of the Peoples Savings Bank, who last night told police he had been trussed by two armed robbers who had taken $5,000 in currency and securities from the bank, was arrested today charged with robbing the institution of $10,000. Police declared that a preliminary examination indicated that the bank might have lost between $50,000 and $100,000 through defalcations.

Davis has been employed by local banks for 26 years. He has been with the Peoples for nine years, four as treasurer. He is married and the father of two children.

It is results that every sufferer wants and Konjola can be counted on for results. Konjola is a medicine of performances, not words; of achievements, not promises. It is a glorious message of health and happiness that the two Konjola Men in Pittsburgh have for all who suffer. One of the Konjola Men is at the Dow Drug Store, (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, and the other is at the Dow Drug Store, Diamond and Smithfield Streets. They do not spend all their time explaining the merits of Konjola, for it is their happy privilege to listen to the many fine experiences local men and women have had with Konjola. Just a few days ago Mr. John Herrscher, Ivory Road, North Side, Pittsburgh, called on a Konjola Man and made this statement about the work of Konjola in his case:

"Words cannot describe my gratitude for what Konjola did for me. I can readily understand why it is called the world's finest remedy.

"For a year I had been in poor health, suffering day and night from stomach trouble. Meals had long ceased to be a pleasure and I really feared to eat a mouthful, because I knew of the suffering that was sure to follow. Food simply refused to digest as it should, no matter what I ate. After every meal I bloated dreadfully with gas. There was a constant rock-like feeling in the pit of my stomach. My condition kept going from bad to worse and finally my liver became affected. Many times I became very dizzy and then black spots appeared before my eyes. I was restless at night and my nervous system was shot to pieces.

"A neighbor had been taking Konjola, and one day he told me of the remarkable results he had obtained from a treatment. I wisely reasoned that if Konjola could do that for others it would do the same for me and so I started the treatment. And I was not disappointed, either. In a week's time a great change took place in my system. I felt so much better I hardly knew what to make of it. Thereafter, the improvement was rapid. One day I tried eating foods that never digested before and you can imagine my surprise when they caused no trouble. Indigestion had been banished. I can eat three hearty meals a day without the slightest distress. My liver was regulated and all dizzy spells are ended. I sleep soundly and my nerves are quiet and calm. All this Konjola did for me and it will always have my hearty recommendation."

An unusual case, you ask? Not at all; the files of Konjola are filled with such enthusiastic and sincere indorsements.

There is a Konjola Man at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, and one at the Dow Drug Store, Diamond and Smithfield Street, Pittsburgh, where they are meeting the public daily, explaining the merits of this master medicine. There is also a Konjola Man at the Dow Drug Store, 5939 Penn Avenue, East Liberty.

MOUNTAIN FIRE PERILS RICH OIL FIELD

Blaze Sweeping Down Slope Despite Heroic Efforts Of Several Hundred Men

VENTURA, Cal., Sept. 17.—(AP.—A roaring line of fire swept down the southwest slope of Sulphur Mountain and advanced to within six miles of the rich Ventura avenue oil field today despite the supreme efforts of several hundred fire fighters to hold it back.

Conscription of men over a radius of 50 miles was started and a fleet of trucks assigned to strategic points to rush them to the fire lines. Appeals were sent out to Fillmore, Ventura, Ojai and other nearby towns for help.

The flames were pushing forward on a two-mile front after laying waste a 15-mile long strip. Twenty oil derricks scattered through the hills fringing the Santa Clara River valley had been burned.

250 ORDERED FROM HOMES

The fire, which was started yesterday by a break in an electric power line, swept through Santa Paula Canyon last night after it had been fed to seething fury by the oil bespattered side of the mountain. About 250 residents of the canyon area were ordered out of their homes as a precautionary measure.

When the fire reached the top of Sulphur Mountain a tank containing 11,000 barrels of oil boiled over from the heat and spilled its inflammable contents toward the valley below.

Damage was estimated at in excess of $2,000,000 early today.

THREE TOWNS MENACED

SEATTLE, Sept. 17. — (INS.) — With one man burned to death, two seriously injured and four reported missing and three towns meanced by flames, weather bureau officials today gave fire fighters throughout the northwest disquieting information.

Continued dry weather brings an even more "acutely dangerous" forest fire situation in prospect, it was said.

Phillip Roy, 70-year-old rancher, was burned to death while trying to save his home from a fire which was reported to have surrounded the town of Yacolt, Grays Harbor County. His son, William, 11, and the mother were taken to a Portland hospital suffering from painful burns.

FIRE FIGHTERS TRAPPED

Thought to be cut off by an inferno of flame threatening the town of Estacada, 20 miles southeast of Portland, Bert Sarver, C. A. Looney, Dave Ely and Glen Davis, fire fighters, were feared to be doomed today. Fire approaching to within one to two miles on three sides and whipped by a dry east wind deluged the town with smoke and embers.

The flames threatening Yacolt were near enough to ignite several structures. Several families were believed to have been caught as the blaze swept along the south fork of the Lewis River.

Forty men sent into the danger area Sunday are thought to have sought refuge from the flames in a 450-foot tunnel near Cooper City. More than 500 men are fighting the blaze and an appeal has been made for men and equipment from the National Guard.

The third town upon which fire is sweeping is Sumas, Washington, a blaze which originated on the Canadian side was reported to be less than five miles distant and advancing steadily before a strong wind.

Grapes Plentiful At Curb Market

FRANKLIN, Pa., Sept. 17.—The largest market this city has had this season, totalling 79 dealers, was that on Saturday. Two large trucks from Erie County, with grapes, plums, pears, peppers and cantaloupes were a feature. Grapes were in abundance, the price ranging from 15 cents for small baskets to 30 cents for large ones. The sweet corn was generously offered, at 15 and 20 cents.

Two Ambridge Men Run Down by Autos

AMBRIDGE, Pa., Sept. 17.—Two Ambridge men are in the Sewickley Hospital with injuries sustained when run down by automobiles. John Myers, 43, received a broken leg and internal hurts when hit by an automobile police said was driven by Earl Wetter, Sewickley. Mele Sonovich, 50, also sustained a broken leg when run down by an automobile said to have been driven by Jesse Henshaw, Conway.

Landis' Son Made Air Crash Coroner

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Maj. Reed Landis, war flier and son of Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis, today was commissioned a deputy coroner of Cook County in charge of aviation investigations. Coroner Herman N. Bundensen announced the appointment was decided upon because of the difficulty in obtaining evidence after air crashes.

Spurned as Suitor, Mayor Accused Of Attack

SALEM, O., Sept. 17.—(AP.)—The path of true love has run anything but smoothly for Phil G. Hiddleson, mayor of Salem, against whom charges of carrying concealed weapons and assault and battery were lodged hrere.

The charges were the aftermath of an alleged attack by the Mayor upon Clyde Libert at the Libert home Saturday night. Libert said he objected to the Mayor having a "date" with his 19-year-old daughter and that the alleged attack followed his refusal to allow the girl to go out with Hiddleson.

BIG DAM BURIED BY LANDSLIDE

AZUSA, Cal., Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Construction work on the foundation abutments for the $25,000,000 San Gabriel flood control dam was at a standstill today and several months' work had been set to naught by a slide of 100,000 cubic yards of earth and rock from a height of 400 feet into the west abutment foundation pit.

The landslide crashed into the pit, causing a lowering of the entire mountain side from eight to 10 feet, with damage to water and power lines.

Men and machinery in the workings escaped being buried through the alertness of geologists and engineers, who last Sunday forecast the slide.

Engineers said the landslide was caused by earth and clay of a "rotten character" giving way as steam shovels moved into the mountain side for the feet of the big dam.

UNSCRAMBLE THESE ANAGRAMBLES

DAILY ANAGRAM PUZZLES

TRY your hand at this fascinating game of Anagrambles—the game that is taking the town like the crossword puzzle craze took the whole nation for a ride through the dictionary.

The game is quite simple. Merely change the following words by the addition of the single letter indicated. Do not omit any letter of the original word. The letter may be inserted at the beginning of the word, anywhere within the word, or at the end. Thus, the word "pate," by the addition of the letter "l" becomes either "pleat" or "plate." The word "drag" may be changed to either "grade" or "raged" by the addition of the letter "e."

The original word must be changed in meaning by the commentary letter. To change "mine" by adding "d," to form "mined," would be incorrect. Rearrange the letters of your word to change its meaning, not its tense or number. Take a pencil now and write in your newly formed word in the spaces provided.

BIG FIRE LAID TO FLOATING OIL

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Fire officials today were seeking the source of an oil film which was credited with having caused last night's $40,000 waterfront fire.

The blaze destroyed a large sulphur warehouse containing 23,000 tons of the mineral, damaged the collier Plymouth, of Boston, burned 19 railroad freight cars and sent 13 fireman and volunteers to the hospital, overcome by smoke.

The oil, floating on the water near the wharf of the Portland Terminal Company, owner of the warehouse, was believed ignited by a spark from a hoisting engine.

The Plymouth, its port side plates scorched and bent from contact with the blistering heat, was cut loose and nosed into midstream by two tugs as flames enveloped her superstructure.

Eleven firemen and two volunteers who succumbed to the heavy sulphur fumes, were in the Maine General Hospital, but none was considered in a serious condition.

Disastrous Blasts Laid to Sewer Gas

NEWBURGH, N. Y., Sept. 17.—(INS.)—Gas imprisoned in a 70-year-old brick sewer by the backing up of the Hudson River, was held responsible today for the disastrous street explosions here which resulted in the death of one man, injury to 80 persons, and tremendous property damage. The dead man is William S. Green, stationer, whose store bore the brunt of the blasts. Damage is estimated at more than $150,000. Thirty stores on Water street, one of the town's principal streets, were destroyed or badly damaged.

Amateur Aviator Killed in Crash

CALEXICO, Cal., Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Gerald Clark, 31-year-old state traffic patrolman and amateur aviator, was killed yesterday when his plane crashed in front of Gov. Clubwomen Vote Boycott Upon Liquor

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—In a resolution pledging their moral support to the prohibition law, California clubwomen voted here to boycott all social functions where liquor is served.

The resolution was adopted by the executive committee of the women's committee of 5,000—representing thousands of clubwomen in the state—at a special session preceding a law observance luncheon at which Dr. Ernest Cherington, general secretary of the World League Against Alcoholism, was the guest speaker.

CARMEN ELECT M'GRATH

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 17.—(AP.)—William D. Mahon, of Detroit, was re-elected president of the Amalgamated Association of Street Car and Electric Railway Employes of America at the final session of the twenty-first biennial convention held here. St. Louis was awarded the 1931 convention over Indianapolis.

Although Mahon told the convention he would be unable to give the time to the association that he has in the past, delegates elected him for his thirty-seventh term.

BISHOP CANNON 'REPROACHED'

REIDSVILLE, N. C., Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Trading in stocks charged to Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, today was under condemnation of the Yanceyville circuit of the church.

Meeting at the Locust Hill Church, 15 miles from here, yesterday, the quarterly conference adopted a resolution which read:

"Resolved, that the quarterly conference go on record condemning in unmeasured terms the bucket shop, marginal speculations of Bishop James Cannon, Jr. His action has lowered the dignity of the office of bishop of the Methodist Church, South, and brings reproach on the cause of Christ, which he was supposed to represent."

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

In the hold-up of the Casa Alvarado, Chicago night club, Detective Capt. Jim Courtney is shot and killed by Rico, Sam Vettori's gangster lieutenant. Sam is furious, fearing the consequences, but Rico, unafraid, calls Sam a coward and assumes his leadership. The gang gives Rico a banquet to celebrate his rise to power. When Tony Passa losing his nerve, attempts to squeal about the hold-up, he is shot dead by Rico. The latter, broadening his field, forces "Little Arnie" to give up a share of his gambling house profits. He also takes his woman, Blondy Belle. She tells him Arnie is cheating on the split. Rico, pleased with his power, resents the absence of one of his gangsters, Joe Massara, the dude. He finds him performing at a high-class night club with his girl, Olga Stassoff. Joe, fearing Tony's fate, is forced to fall in with Rico's underworld plans. Flaherty, a detective, arrives to interrupt the conference. Rico meets Blondy and hears more of Little Arnie's duplicity. She warns him to kill Arnie or get it himself. Alone, on the street, he is fired on from a car. He drops and receives only a flesh wound. His gang gathers and an underworld doctor arrives. With his gang, Rico, seeking revenge, forces his way into Little Arnie's place, trapping him and his hired gunmen.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXII.

ARNIE, who had recovered his poise said:

"Well, Rico, what's the talk? Let's have it."

Pepi and Joe Sansone both started to talk at once, but Rico motioned for them to be quiet.

"Arnie," said Rico, "you're through. If you ain't out of town by tomorrow morning, you won't never leave town except in a box."

Arnie said nothing but sat staring at the smoke rising from his cigar.

"In the first place," Rico went on, "you been double-crossing me for two months. In the second place, you hire these bums here to pop me. Now I guess that's about all."

Arnie laughed.

"Rico," he said, "somebody has sure been stringing you. Why, you ought to know I wouldn't double-cross you. Hell, that wouldn't help me none."

"Can that," said Rico. "Your number's up. Take it like a man."

Arnie's face got red.

"Listen, Rico, if you think you can muscle into this joint, you're off your nut."

Joe Peeper looked sideways at Arnie.

"The books're crooked, Rico," said Joe Peeper; "he's been gypping you out of half your split every week."

The Detroit toughs began to shift about uneasily.

"Well, you two-timing rat," said Arnie.

"Arnie," he said, "that's that. Here's the dope. You get your hat and beat it. Leave the burg. If I ever hear about you being in town again, why, I'm gonna turn the Killer loose on you."

"Yeah," said Pepi, "and I never did like yellow guys."

"I ain't any too fond of them myself," said Joe Sansone.

Arnie meditated. Rico said: "I been square with you, Arnie, but you couldn't stand prosperity, that's all. So take it standing up."

"What the hell else can he do?" Pepi demanded.

"I'll tell you what I can do," said Arnie, "I can have a talk with Mr. Flaherty."

Arnie studied Rico carefully to see what effect this would have. But Rico merely smiled at him.

"Getting pretty low, Arnie," he said, "when you take the bulls in with you." Then he paused and leaned forward in his chair. "If you go to see Mr. Flaherty you better have an alibi, because he might ask you about Limpy John."

Arnie dropped his cigar and sat staring into space, his hands lying palms up on the table.

"All over but the shouting," said Joe Sansone, "somebody better throw in a towel. But I don't suppose the dirty bums in Detroit ever heard of towels."

Joe Sansone stared at him.

"Say, Gyp-the-Blood, I bet they think you're a pretty hard bird where you live, don't they?"

Arnie turned to Joe Peeper.

"Well, Joe," he said, "you sure put the skids under me."

"Sure I did," said Joe Peeper; "you thought you could bat me around and make me like it."

Pepi laughed. "Arnie," he said, "you better go back to Detroit with your boy friends."

When Rico and his men left Arnie's joint Joe Peeper followed them. As soon as they reached the pavement, Joe walked up to Rico and said:

"You sore at me, Rico?"

All Rico's men stopped and stood staring at Joe, wondering what his game was.

"You guys get in the car," said Rico.

They all got in except Pepi, who stood with his back against the car, his right hand in his pocket. Pepi didn't trust anybody who had ever been mixed up with Little Arnie.

"What's on your mind, Joe?" Rico demanded.

"I thought you acted like you was sore at me," said Joe Peeper; "honest to God, Rico, I didn't know nothing about them Detroit bums. I didn't know what Arnie was up to. Lord, you know I wouldn't double-cross you after all you done for me."

"Well, who said you did?"

"Nobody," said Joe, "only it looked funny, and I thought maybe you guys had got a wrong notion. I'd be a sap to pull anything like that."

Rico laughed.

"Forget it," he said.

Rico started to get into the automobile, but Joe took hold of his arm.

"How about me, Rico?" he said. "If I stick around here they'll bump me off sure."

"Yeah?" said Rico; "say, them guys wouldn't bump nobody off now. But get in. I can use you, Joe."

Joe got in the back seat with Otero and Ottavio Vettori. He talked to them all the way back to The Palermo, trying to get in good with them, but they said nothing.

The next day in the society column of one of the Chicago papers there appeared a small item, which read:

"Mr. Arnold Worch, of the North Side, has just left for Detroit, where he intends to spend the summer. He was accompanied by two of his Detroit friends, who have been in Chicago for a short stay."

This was the work of Ottavio Vettori. The underworld was convulsed and thousands of extra copies of the papers were sold. The clipping was to be found pasted up in all the barrooms, gambling joints and dance halls. Rico and Ottavio Vettori had become famous over night.

Little Arnie wasn't the only one who left town. Several of Little Arnie's henchmen, who had been closely connected with the attempted killing, followed him into exile. Joseph Pavlovsky, the doorman, who had driven the car, went to Hammond, where, on the money Arnie had given him, he opened a speak-easy. Pippy Coke, who with the two Detroit gunmen had done the shooting, went with Pavlovsky, and they were followed by two croupiers, who had shadowed Rico.

Arnie's gang was smashed and the Little Italians took over a territory they hadn't controlled since the days of Monk De Angelo.

Arnie had come to Chicago from New York about five years ago. His reputation had got so bad in New York that no one would do business with him. He came west with a small stake and was lucky enough to arrive at just the right time. Kips Berger, also formerly of New York and once one of Arnie's pals, had gone broke and was willing to sell out his big gambling joint for practically nothing. Arnie bought it and prospered. This gambling joint was in a neutral zone, touching Little Italy on the south and the vast territory that Pete Montana controlled on the north. Arnie was acute enough to see his advantage.

He worked hard at his job and in a little while had consolidated his territory. But he was not a good gang chief: first, because he was a coward, second, because his closest associate couldn't trust him, third, because he was inclined to lose his head in an emergency. His lieutenant, Jew Mike, was a tougher and more violent replica of his chief. Between them they bossed the territory, but under them the gang never prospered and their hold was at best precarious. They held on only because there was little or no opposition. Their gangsters were a poor lot and were content to take small splits. On the south, Sam Vettori was slipping and his lethargy prevented him interfering; on the north the great Pete Montana was magnificently indifferent.

Arnie had been slipping for the last year or so, and Rico's sudden rise had accelerated his decline. Arnie, fearing the worst, committed blunder after blunder; first, he made advances to Rico, then, getting Rico's protection for a 30 per cent split, things looked too easy and he began to double-cross him. Lastly, although he should have known better, he made the tactical error of trying to get Rico killed. If he had succeeded his position would not have been improved; he would have been worse off, because the Vettori gang would have made short work of him.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Ann Marie Macy is the "easy" type of girl who is continually imposed upon. Young and pretty, she dreams of a future as an artist, saving from her earnings by painting cards and working in her father's bookstore, but, as her selfish, flapper sisters, Alice and Jeanie, borrow her dresses for their own ends, so her brother, Howard, borrows her savings. The art course plan is shelved when Ann Marie uses the money in extricating Howard from an entangling alliance with Leota Ingram, the town's bad girl. Even her mother's pendant is pawned to pay Howard's fare to the West when he loses his bank job. Neal Forsythe, dashing Don Juan, visiting the wealthy Lawlers, wins Ann Marie's heart. Mrs. Lawler forbids her son to further accompany the Macy girls, calling them "night-time friends." Alice evens accounts by getting herself engaged to John Lawler. To celebrate, Johnny, Alice, Ann Marie, Neal, Jeanie and Brookie have a party at a roadhouse. Neal proposes to Ann Marie. Ann Marie goes on a Dutch-treat party with Neal, who forgets to return her change. Instead he steals a coffee pot for her from the roadhouse. He returns to New York and Ann Marie begins to save to join him there. Late at night she is aroused by a noise outside her door. It is Howard, her brother, who has returned with a wife. Ann Marie tells her father about her engagement to Neal. Mr. Macy sends Neal a letter, reprimanding him for wanting to keep the engagement secret. Ann Marie follows Neal to New York. She is downhearted when she learns Leota Ingram has been working for Neal as a model.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

"I'D TAKE you out to dinner," Neal said, "but I seem to be dead broke. All but this—" He laughed and held out a few silver coins on the palm of his hand.

Ann Marie shook her head at him gravely. "I wouldn't let you take me out to dinner if you had a $20 bill," she answered. "I'm going to pay my way, just as we planned. Everything is going to be 'Dutch treat.' Now you go home and let me get my things unpacked."

But when he was gone, she made no move to unpack her trunk and bags.

She opened her own door without a sound. On tiptoe she crossed the landing and went down the stairs to the street.

It was getting dark and far down the street she could see the lighted front of a store.

When she got to it she saw it was a delicatessen and fruit stand. It was a very good one. Its shelves were loaded with all kinds of things to eat and drink.

Ann Marie bought recklessly for once. She felt reckless and happy that night.

She went home with a bag under one arm and a long, crusty loaf of French bread under the other.

Neal was knocking on the panels of her door when she reached the top floor of the apartment.

"Nobody's at home in that flat," she called to him gaily. "The lady who lives there is having dinner with Mr. Neal Forsythe, the famous portrait painter."

The words "portrait painter" made her think, for an instant, of Leota again, but she pushed the thought into the back of her mind . . . She wasn't going to be jealous or suspicious any more. She was here with the man she loved and she was going to trust him.

"Open your door for me," she said. "I'm going to show you how I can cook."

She stood still for a second on the threshold of his big studio room.

She had never dreamed that a room could be so untidy.

All around the edge of the floor, propped against the wall, were big sheets of cardboard and canvas-covered frames.

There were more of them piled on the window seat, and at one end of the long, narrow table that stood in the middle of the room. On another table stood a vase filled with dead, dried-up roses. There was a smoking jacket flung over one end of the screen that hid the kitchen table and the sink.

And, oh! that sink! It was furry with rust and coated with gray slime. It was filled with dirty dishes and on the drain-board was the saddest looking dish cloth that Ann Marie had ever seen.

"Your Leota doesn't seem to have been much of a dish-washer—" Ann Marie began, and then remembered that she was never going to speak of Leota again.

"She wasn't supposed to wash dishes," Neal said drily. "You didn't believe me when I told you she came here simply as a model, did you? You still think I've been having a love affair with her, don't you?"

"Oh, no! no! no! I was just teasing you," said Ann Marie, afraid that they might have another quarrel.

She took off her hat and coat, tied the only clean dish towel she could find about her waist, and set to work.

"You go into my flat and bring some clean towels," she ordered, handing Neal her key. "I'm going to clean this place up. I'm going to keep house for you for about an hour, you poor thing."

If anyone had told Ann Marie that it was fun to do dishes, she wouldn't have believed it.

But she enjoyed the washing of every one of the dozens and dozens of dirty plates and cups and saucers that she washed and put away that night.

While she was busy with them she boiled water for a pot of tea and heated a steak-pan on the tiny electric stove that stood on the table.

She washed a head of lettuce, put it into a bowl of cold water, and set it out on the window sill beside the tiny bottle of cream and the half pound of butter that she had bought.

"I'm having the time of my life," she said to Neal, as they worked. It's like working in a doll's house."

"It was like being married," she told herself, as she flew around the studio, plumping up the flattened cushions on the window-seat, and burning up the old papers that were piled in the fireplace.

"I'm going out for some cigarets and a paper," Neal said, clapping his hat on his head.

When he came back 20 minutes later, the studio room looked more like a home to him than ever it had looked before.

Ann Marie had begged an old soap box from the janitor and it was burning brightly in the fireplace.

The daffodils were in the vase where the withered roses had been, and there was a clean cloth on the little table in front of the fire.

A steak was broiling on the tiny electric stove, and bread was toasting on the toaster that stood on the little dinner table.

"Home, sweet home," said Neal, tossing his hat down on the big center table. "Ann Marie, this is the life, and don't you forget it."

It was the life.

For three days Ann Marie did nothing but keep house for Neal, and never had she known that life could be so wonderful.

Every morning she put her own room to rights and then she hurried across the hall and knocked on Neal's door.

She got breakfast for him.

While she was cleaning up the table, washing the dishes and making his bed—it was a daybed like her own—Neal read the morning papers and smoked many cigarets.

"I don't feel like working lately," he told her on Sunday morning. "I'm so happy having you here that I just want to moon around and look at you."

A little shadow ran across Ann Marie's face.

"I ought to be finding some work," she said unhappily. "In fact, I've just got to find something to do, that's all."

"Pack up some of your work and bring it over here tonight," Neal suggested, lazily, throwing his cigaret end into the grate. "You remember Jim Goodwin? His folks have a publishing house—they bring out books, you know, of all kinds—and he might be able to give you some work, doing the illustrations for some book. Ever do pictures for children's books?"

Ann Marie shook her head.

"Of course not. I've never known any people who wrote books or printed books or had anything to do with books, except to sell them," she said. "But I've done loads of pictures of children for valentines and Christmas cards—oh, do you think he would have some work for me?"

She spoke quickly, almost harshly as she always did when she was stirred or excited over anything.

"Well, we can soon find out," said Neal. "We'll telephone him and ask him to come for supper tonight. You'll have to run across the street and use the telephone in the drug store. I had one, but they took it out. I owed the company some money."

"You 'phone him," pleaded Ann Marie. "I hate to. I hardly know him."

Neal shook his head without raising his eyes from his paper.

"You call him. He'll be sure to come then," he said shortly. "He's gone absolutely 'hay-wire' over you."

Ann Marie stared at him, wide-eyed.

"And yet you want me to telephone him?" she asked. "Aren't you afraid I might go 'hay-wire' over him, as you call it? Aren't you jealous of me at all, Neal?"

He shook his head once more.

"Nope," he said, grinning up at her in his boyish way, "not the least bit. I know you like me, Ann Marie."

Pennsylvania Railroad

By CAPT. JOHN KING DAVIS,

Commander of the Ship Discovery and Aide of Sir Douglas Mawson, Who Is Heading an Expedition Into the Antarctic, Where for a Year Hitherto Uncharted Lands Will Be Studied. Attempt Will Also Be Made to Probe the Furthermost Depths of the Ocean in the Antarctic.

ON WAY TO THE ANTARCTIC (via Radio), Sept. 17.—Since my last message, the Discovery has called at St. Vincent, Cape Verde Islands, where we remained for 18 hours, taking on 100 tons of coal.

Resuming our voyage to Cape Town, we crossed the equator September 5 after experiencing head winds and calms which reduced our speed to four knots an hour.

This is not the first trip of its kind that the Discovery has made. In 1901 this ship, chartered by Capt. Scott, went into the Antractic, but at that time it carried no means of communication with the outside world.

On our present voyage, with our short wave wireless, we send you these messages over a distance of 4,000 miles.

We receive meteorological information, as it is distributed daily to ships. We are kept in daily touch with all that is happening and receive necessary instructions from headquarters.

Our zoologist, Mr. Marr, is busy preparing the nets and instruments for oceanographical work which forms an important part of our program. Our laboratory aboard ship resembles a room in a scientific institution ashore.

The ship, with her heavy spars and lanyard riggings belongs to a fast disappearing type, while her equipment represents the very latest examples of invention, including an airplane, a sonic depth finder and all the newest devices used in oceanographical work.

All hands are undergoing an intensive course in training to equip them for the work ahead in stormier seas surrounding the great Southland.

As I write this I hear the old-time song, "Shenandoah," being sung over the radio by lusty young voices.

One feels that when we are up against it, difficulties will be faced cheerfully and that Australia will be well served by all on board.

The position of the Discovery at noon today is latitude 23.38 south, longitude 28.33 west.

Parker D. Cramer, Better, Plans Pole Trip

CLARION, Pa., Sept. 17.—Not yet fully recovered from recent illness, Parker D. Cramer, internationally known aviator, hopes to leave Clarion late today for New York. The trip will be by train, not by plane, due to his physical condition at this time.

Plans are going forward, he says, for the expedition with Sir Hubert Wilkins to the Antarctic.

Club Dancers to Get Returns of Election

Election returns will be announced at intervals tonight at a special election night dance at the Keystone Athletic Club. The returns are to be sent direct to the club from a news service and will be announced in the main dining room during the dance.

SOUTH AMERICA TIME SALES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The Latin American has become a strong believer in the installment purchase plan as far as automobiles exported from the United States are concerned.

A study of the installment plan of selling automobiles in Latin America has just been completed by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce of the Commerce Department and from the statistics published the Latin American has far outstripped the American and European in the adoption of the installment plan.

"Of a total of 31,650 automobiles exported from the United States to Caribbean countries in 1928," said the department's report, "88 per cent were sold on the installment plan. Separat figures show 87 per cent for passenger cars and 91 per cent for trucks and busses.

"In South America the percentage covering the sales of American exports of 114,539 automobiles is only slightly lower, being 84 per cent—85 per cent of passenger cars and 82 per cent of trucks and busses.

"The extent and the importance of the installment selling system in Latin America is readily apparent when it is remembered that in the United States, the cradle of the plan, slightly more than 58 per cent of automobiles were thus sold during 1928. In Europe the estimated percentage during 1927 was approximately 61 per cent."

Bus Line Combine Proposed in Ohio

BRIDGEPORT, O., Sept. 17.—Application was filed with the Ohio Public Utilities Commission by the Wheeling, St. Clairsville and Cambridge Transportation Company for permission to transfer its through bus lines to the Red Star Way, Inc., recently organized to operate a new Wheeling-Pittsburgh bus line via the Ohio River and William Penn highways.

The Red Star Way will operate its Pittsburgh-Wheeling line, which is to start about November 1, as part of the older line's Wheeling-Columbus-Detroit service. The two routes will tie in at the intersection of the National and Ohio River highways in Bridgeport.

Famous Railroad To Curtail Service

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Sept. 17.—If the Public Service Commission grants the petition of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to discontinue mixed passenger and freight train service on the Bellefonte and Snow Shoe Railroad it will be a reduction to freight traffic on the oldest railroad in Centre County.

The road was opened to traffic in 1859 as a short line to haul coal and lumber from the Snow Shoe section to Bellefonte, from where the product was shipped by canal to Lock Haven. In order to get to the top of the Allegheny Mountain the switchback system was used.

Liquor Seized, Two Men Escape

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Sept. 17.—County Detective Sherman Hill started a search today for Frank Cerevenie and Michael Sopko, who escaped as he approached a liquor-laden sedan in the rear of their homes. Hill found five gallons of moonshine. He swore out warrants before Squire H. W. Kuhlman for their arrest.

Hill said Cervenie and Sopko have been previously arrested on violation of the liquor law charges.

Well, Repaired, Has Good Yield

FRANKLIN, Sept. 17.—The well on the D. A. Holeman lease on the northwest side of Pleasantville, which was damaged when 15 quarts of nitroglycerine exploded while being lowered a week ago, was repaired. A shot was placed in the well, and a new charge set off. The well is making a good showing of oil and gas.

Franklin Traces Dynamite Cargo

FRANKLIN, Pa., Sept. 17.—Police are tracing the report that a shipment of five tons of dynamite from Ridgeway was hauled through Franklin by automobile during the period of heavy traffic and without proper escort. This is in violation of a city ordinance.

Venango Highway Opens in Few Days

FRANKLIN, Pa., Sept. 17.—The 3.75 miles of highway, connecting the Pittsburgh road with Bullion, heart of one of the early oil fields of Venango County, will be opened to traffic within a few days. The concrete is part of traffic route 308, in Clinton and Irwin townships.

Franklin Discusses Daylight Saving

FRANKLIN, Pa., Sept. 17.—An effort will be launched shortly to have Franklin line up for daylight saving next year. Titusville is already on the daylight program but Oil City is not.

With Classic Lines

Suede is the edict of the stylists, and its choice is well merited by this lovely model, which may be had in either Brown or Black.

The cut steel buckle is an effective finish to its shapely lines. New Junior Heel—combination last—an excellent example of fine shoemaking. Also to be had in Brown Kid.

1904 McCreery & Co. 1929

WOOD STREET AT SIXTH AVENUE

ALL DRESSED UP FOR THE 1904 RACING SEASON

When Prominent Pittsburghers gathered at Brunot's Island to Cheer such Favorites as Dr. Strong, Westwood, Alta W., Golden Rule and Other Horses Famous in their Day.

A whimsical Dame Fashion of twenty-five years ago heralded the praises of shirtwaists and skirts for sports loving fashionables . . . who held heads aloof while invading the field of sports, dressed in yards and yards of homespun.

To quote a fashion writers version, published in the Pittsburgh "Post" of August 3rd, 1904 . . .

"Navy blue hopsack is used for golf dresses, and those piped with leather are particularly desirable."

Imagine breathless tennis activity in the 1904 favorite tennis dress . . . "an accordian pleated skirt, short enough to clear the ground well", and a shirtwaist with long puffed sleeves.

FAKE PASSPORT RING REVEALED

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—(INS.)—Through United States District Attorney George J. Hatfield, the Federal Government carried an investigation today into a world-wide criminal "racket," one object of which is to pour excluded aliens into the United States.

Hatched by remnants of the Arnold Rothstein gang of international crooks and dope smugglers, the plot, it was learned, operates through a legitimate business enterprise.

Boasting that the idea, with its tremendous profits, is "worth $5,000,000 to them," the gangsters, it is charged, have been working the following four schemes:

1. Getting barred aliens, by the hundred, into the United States with fraudulently obtained American passports.

2. Enabling hundreds of foreign-born American citizens to return to their native country—Italy, for instance—and to escape the military duty required there by law.

3. Procuring fake passports for lawbreakers and others who desire to leave the United States and get back under an assumed identity.

4. Permitting slackers—even those who have served prison terms for draft evasion—to acquire apparently authenticated war records and to pose as heroes with citations and decorations.

The amazing situation with its world-wide ramifications came to a head in San Francisco yesterday when James K. Fisk, state adjutant of the American Legion, appealed to Hatfield for action. Hatfield immediately set about to determine how far the gang has proceeded in its vaunted operations and to block its loopholes.

JUDGE LINDSEY TO PAY WIDOW

DENVER, Sept. 17.—(A.P.)—Ben Lindsey, former judge of the Denver Juvenile Court, must pay to Mrs. Cora M. Graham, widow of Royal R. Graham, approximately $2,600, the Colorado Supreme Court decided here.

The money represents salary drawn by Judge Lindsey from January 13, 1925 to September 9, 1925, during which time Judge Lindsey was contesting the election of Graham as his successor.

While the Graham case was still pending, Graham was found dead in the gas filled kitchen of his home.

Later it was decided that Graham had been legally elected, and Mrs. Graham brought suit to recover the salary received by Judge Lindsey up to the time of her husband's death.

WANTED SOMETHING THAT WOULD RELIEVE

World's Tonic Certainly Did More Than I Ever Expected

Because it is intended to treat the system, World's Tonic often relieves in unexpected ways. Here is an instance:

"Off and on I had suffered from severe pains in my arms and legs," said Mr. J. Williams, a man of middle age, who lives at Beaver Falls, Pa. "These pains would come on me at night usually, but sometimes in the daytime, when the weather was damp and cold, and they felt like a sharp knife had been sunk in my flesh. Most of the people I talked with said they were caused by rheumatism. But when these pains got so severe I could not work, it did not matter to me whether it was neuritis, or rheumatism, or whatever else it could be called. I wanted some medicine that would give me relief.

"I took a number of preparations that were advertised for rheumatism, and they affected my stomach. Soon I noticed that not only was I afflicted with indigestion, but that my liver was very sluggish, and I became both bilious and constipated. My breath first got real bad after I had the flu. I had to take different kinds of physics every night in order to get my bowels to move. The pains increased and I began to run down considerably, losing weight and energy. Finally I had to quit work entirely.

"Because I was so run down I needed a good tonic. I was told by one of my friends that there was a new medicine gathered from different parts of the world known as World's Tonic, and I began taking it to build up my strength. To my great satisfaction, it helped my biliousness right away, aided my stomach, and entirely freed me from pain in about three weeks. The results were so good and came so quickly that I was hardly able to believe I was well myself. Since then a few doses now and then when I feel the need have kept me well, and there is no man in the county of my age who enjoys better health than I do. World's Tonic certainly did a great deal for me—more than I ever expected, and proved itself a wonderful medicine."

World's Tonic is for sale by Dow's, formerly McCulloch's, also May's, Mayflower, and any other first-class drug store. (A 91)

ESTAB. 1927—VOL. 5—NO. 41 TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1929 THREE CENTS

FRANK & SEDER ANNIVERSARY THURSDAY

A City-Wide Celebration

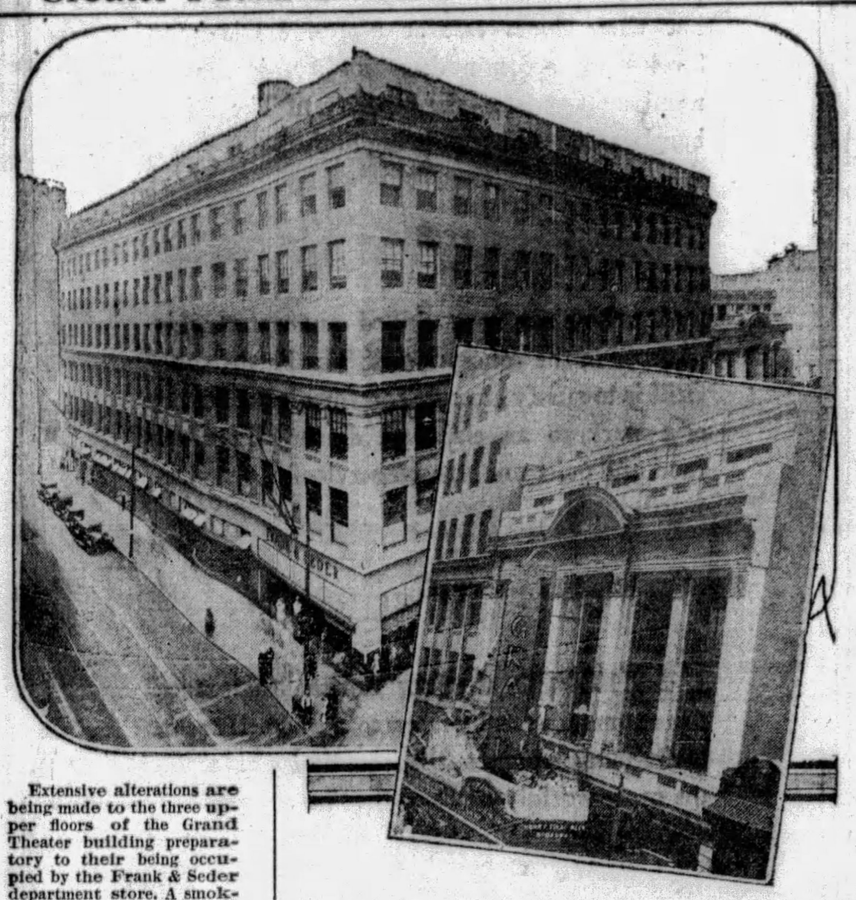
Greater Frank & Seder Store Ready Soon



Extensive alterations are being made to the three upper floors of the Grand Theater building preparatory to their being occupied by the Frank & Seder department store. A smoking room for women will be one of the advanced features of the new addition. The acquisition of the new space is stated to be the initial step by the store in its definite plan of consolidated expansion. Upper picture shows the main building of the store. Lower photograph depicts the addition.

LOOK UP YOUR TRAIN SCHEDULES FOR THURSDAY

We are very anxious to have our great army of Suburban customers take advantage of this Anniversary Sale. It is the one time when we have an opportunity to show our out-of-town friends just how much we value their patronage and to what extent we appreciate the part they have played in building up the big Frank & Seder business during the past twenty-one years.

The savings will repay many times the cost of a trip to the city. Arrange your home affairs so you can come, not alone on Thursday, the opening day, but many times during the sale, which continues until October 7th. The oftener you come the more you save.

FRANK & SEDER ADDITION NOW NEARING COMPLETION

Three Additional Floors of Grand Theater Building to be Ready Soon.

Alterations being made in the present Frank & Seder Store, as well as in the Grand Theater Addition, are now nearing completion, and Pittsburgh will soon view the bigger and Greater Frank & Seder store.

Two of the three new floors will be used for offices and stock rooms, now located in the present building, and this change will make room for improvements and enlargement of old departments and the establishment of new ones. Among them will be a complete Furniture Department, which will be located on the Sixth Floor. Rugs, Draperies, Curtains, Yard Goods, Domestics, etc., will be relocated on the Fifth Floor.

Additional Second Floor space will be used for a spacious ladies' smoking lounge, as well as additional fitting rooms and selling space.

Re-location of the Men's Alteration Department on the Fourth Floor will permit enlargement of the various men's departments.

Workmen are completing the final stages of the work, and the new addition will soon be ready for occupancy.

FRANK & SEDER FURNITURE DEPT. TO OPEN

New Department Ready For Opening in Few Days—Then You'll See Some Bargains!

For years Frank & Seder customers have been asking why the firm doesn't handle furniture. The answer has always been lack of room. But now since acquiring the three upper floors of the Grand Theater Building, which have been connected with the present Frank & Seder store, almost the entire SIXTH FLOOR will be given over to Furniture. It will be ready within a few days and if there is a family in this town that intends to buy new furniture, Frank & Seder urges them to wait, because they will save more money than they ever dreamed of in outfitting a home or in refurnishing some of their rooms. The same extraordinary values that have made the Frank & Seder store the headquarters for economical families for purchases of apparel and kindred lines, will be featured in the Furniture Department. The Opening of the Furniture Department, coming during the Anniversary, offers a double reason for giving the public values they will remember as long as they live.

Hear World's Series On a Frank & Seder Radio Set

Frank & Seder have just opened a new Radio Dept. on their Balcony and as an Anniversary gift to their customers they will sell well-known standard makes of Radios at a reduced price during the sale. You won't have to visit your neighbor to "listen in" on the World's Series or any program when you can have a Radio in your own home. And, in addition to the special prices, Frank & Seder give you the privilege of buying it on a moderate first payment.

EXTRA VALUES PLANNED FOR ANNIVERSARY

Many of them may desire the convenience of a Charge Account and our Credit Manager, Col. Blackstone, will receive their application in the new credit offices on the Third Floor.

EVEN MERCHANDISE HAS TO TAKE AN EXAMINATION

One of the features of the preparation for this Anniversary Sale is the examination of the merchandise that has been assembled by the buyers. And after the most rigid tests as to desirability of the offering, from the standpoint of style, quality and value, the following statement is issued:

We, the undersigned members of the Store Committee of Frank & Seder, after personally examining the merchandise to be advertised during the 21st Anniversary, have approved the offerings as of such exceptional worth as to measure up to the high standard of value-giving demanded by this event.

NEW FALL AND WINTER MERCHANDISE OFFERED AT A TRIFLE ABOVE COST

Will Be Offered to the Public as a Practical Expression of Appreciation for Loyal Support Over Period of Years.

Two young Pittsburghers, Jacob H. Frank and Isaac Seder, owning a small wholesale store out Fifth avenue in 1908, decided to venture on the retail field by opening a small store on the site of their present big building. They didn't have much money, but they had a lot of faith in their ability and in the future of Pittsburgh.

At first they confined themselves to the sale of Women's Suits, Coats, Dresses. In those days women's suits was an important item of apparel. They decided that the best and quickest way to win public confidence and to gain immediate patronage was to offer something as good or better than their competitors for less money. They believed that after all is said and done economy is a strongly developed instinct in the average family and that wage earners are interested in getting the most possible value for their money. The result of the Frank & Seder policy of Style, Quality at Lower Prices proved sensationally successful. And in a short time the name of Frank & Seder was on the lips of the public. Then began a series of expansion moves made necessary by the ever increasing pressure of public demand. Other departments were added as the store was enlarged and when finally they took possession of their present building not only were they leaders in apparel lines, but they enjoyed a large following in such departments as Rugs, Draperies, Blankets and Domestics, Silks, Wash Goods, Lamps, etc., etc. But never once did they lose sight of the fundamental policy of their business—the Right Goods at the Right Time and at the Right Price. And unless the customer is satisfied no transaction is considered complete.

Now Frank & Seder are to celebrate their twenty-first year in business, eager to express in a practical way their gratitude and appreciation for the consistent goodwill and loyalty shown them by the buying public of Western Pennsylvania.

For months their buying organization has been working day and night to assemble through the generous co-operation of manufacturers with whom they have done business for many years, newest seasonable Fall and Winter merchandise, correctly styled, and of standard quality, to offer as Anniversary Gifts to their customers at far less than regular prices. In many cases, items will be offered at a trifle above cost.

CRAZED ITALIAN KILLS OFFICER

HAYWARD, Cal., Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Apparently crazed by drink, Joe Cataldi, 70, Italian fruit buyer, shot and killed one policeman, wounded another and held a score of others at bay for two hours last night, until he was captured after being routed from his barricaded residence by tear bombs.

George Vierra was the officer killed. Al La Cunha, a constable, was wounded. The latter's condition was considered critical.

Neighbors said Cataldi came home intoxicated and started shooting at his wife with an old rifle. She fled and police were called.

Vierra and La Cunha answered the call and when they started for the front door Cataldi opened fire. Vierra fell, mortally wounded, and La Cunha was shot down as he reached for his gun.

Highway Workers Given Boat to Cover Route

BARNESVILLE, O., Sept. 17.—Donald Fowler and Raymond Dew, inspectors on the grading for the highway along the Ohio River between Bellaire and Powhatan are said to be the first employes of the Ohio Highway Department for whom a boat has been purchased. There is no parallel highway closer than four miles to the river shore and in order to save time for the pair, a skiff with outboard motor was provided.

Crew Saved as Ship Strikes Rock, Sinks

ST. JOHN, N. B., Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Word of the sinking last night of the American fishing schooner Josephine de Coster off Cape Sable was received in a radiogram from a marine department agent at Seal Island. The crew was saved, the message said. J. C. Chesley said the schooner "struck Blonde Rock at 8:30 last night and sank soon afterwards."

N. Y. WATCHING BOROUGH FIGHT

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Interest in New York's city primary today centered in the Borough of Queens, where bitter factional fights among both Democrats and Republicans have been waged.

No contest in the regular Democratic party for mayor made Mayor Walker's renomination a formality, as was that of other Tammany candidates.

Workers for Congressman F. H. La Guardia predicted an easy victory for their candidate, running on a Republican-Fusion ticket, over William M. Bennett, Republican, whose platform is a promise to close drinking resorts in the city. Bennett predicted he would win by 30,000.

In Queens, Borough President George U. Harvey was faced with a fight with the regular Republican organization, whose candidate is John L. Karle, former state senator. Three Democrats were in the field for the nomination for borough president.

Clouds Ahead :-: By Maud Thomas

TRUE, the sun is shining so brightly and the day almost seems to be perfect. But there are tiny clouds scampering overhead that threaten to obscure the perfect enjoyment of these two. Just the wee-est bits of clouds, but they grow and grow until—they'll make dim and far away the perfect time.

In the midst of their dreams there looms the drudgery to which they must return. She at her typewriter, he deep in his musty old books—with just a few snatched hours between times. Why can't it be that they'll be together forever and ever as they are now? Perhaps they will be, but for the time being the nasty clouds make things so dreary. But remember the silver lining and look for it, and with Love's help, you'll find it.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

—By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND—

Neglect Often Cause of Deformity

THERE is no more disheartening sight than a young person badly crippled from a preventable cause. Many a person must go through life on crutches or using a cane, who might have enjoyed the full use of his limbs.

Such cases are often the result of arthritis. This affects young and old alike. It is often referred to as "chronic rheumatism."

Arthritis may be chronic or acute. In the acute form there may be a high temperature, swelling of several of the joints, soreness to touch and often marked redness of the affected area. The symptoms of acute arthritis are the same as those of rheumatic fever.

DR. COPELAND

The symptoms of chronic arthritis may be gradual in their appearance. The real nature of the disease may not be recognized until there is marked deformity. The hands, knuckles and other joints, particularly of the fingers, become involved first. They are very tender, red, swollen and painful to move. There may be gradual dislocation of the involved joints.

When the diagnosis of arthritis has been made, every attention should be given to improving the condition. The source of the infection must be found and removed. This may be in the teeth, tonsils, nasal sinuses or it may be in the intestinal tract.

Plenty of fresh air is essential. Care of the diet is the next essential step. The carbonhydrates should be reduced, but not the proteins. In every case the diet must be nourishing. Water to drink is necessary as an aid in increasing elimination. Where cathartics must be used, the laxative waters are very beneficial.

Hydrotherapy, massage and baking all have their value. Just which kind of treatment to employ should be determined by the doctor treating the case. This is true, too, as regards the use of the affected limbs.

It is a great mistake to settle down to the practice of making no effort at movement. Even a joint healthy to begin with will grow stiff if not used regularly.

It is very important to keep up regular movements of the joints. Of course, this is not good practice, during the acute, painful stage, but when the inflammation has disappeared, free movement is important.

A.—This is often due to hyperacidity of the stomach. Rinsing the mouth after every meal with some alkaline solution will give increased comfort.

H. R. M. Q.—What causes warts?
2—How can I make freckles less noticeable?

A.—It is probable that there is a germ of some sort responsible for their appearance. It may be planted in the site of a trifling injury and thus get a start. If the wart is very small it may be clipped off by your physician and the iodine applied to the base.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, September 18

THE astrological forecast for this day may not be considered an auspicious one. There may be stubborn obstacles to be overcome, with worries and complications, losses, delays and disappointments. The employment may present difficulties and anxieties, and it may be necessary to resort to intrigue or subterfuge to maintain one's position. Writings may provoke complications.

Those whose birthday it is have portents of a year difficult to manipulate with any degree of satisfaction. There may be obstructions, delays, setbacks, as well as losses and anxieties. Safeguard the employment and beware of subtlety and craft.

A child born on this day may be clever and probably shrewd, but may have to work very hard to surmount difficulties in life.

Fear and worry are as unnecessary as they are debilitating. They are our race's heritage from the dim dawn of time, and only clear-thinking and audacious souls have risen above them.—A. M.

Correct Manners

—By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN—

The In-Law Question

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have a little question I would like you to answer. To begin with—my wife's people and I have not been very friendly. The other night we were sitting in the kitchen when the door bell rang. It was my wife's two sisters and brother-in-law. As soon as I heard their voices I knew who it was, and I waited about two minutes before I went in to greet them. My wife claims that I should have gone in just as soon as I heard their voices. Was I wrong in waiting a couple of minutes before going in? W. C. S.

WELL, we may forgive you if you really mean that you waited only a couple of minutes before you went in to greet the visitors! But, honestly, since in-laws usually demand that we live up to all the social amenities, it is the way of wisdom for us to do everything in our power to be gracious and hospitable and friendly. And especially is it important for you to come at once into the living-room to greet these guests and show them that you are a fine host and that you know well how to extend the feeling of hospitality to those who come to your home. This will be one perfect way of remedying this feeling of unpleasantness of which you wrote. Naturally, when you hesitate about going into the room, your wife and your guests are a bit embarrassed when you do come in.

Inviting an Escort.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have met a young man whom I like very much and with whom I should like to become better acquainted. I have been invited to a party to which I must bring my own escort. Would it be proper for me to ask him to go, even though I have never been out with him?

I do not know just when he is at home. So would it be proper for me to call him at the drug store where he works every evening? READER.

YES, if you really think that you know him well enough. The fact that you have not been out with him does not mean anything—that is, the fact that he has not taken you to parties, for perhaps circumstances will not permit his doing that, and it would seem unfriendly to make that count against him.

No, this you should not do. Probably nothing would be more inconvenient for him, and certainly it would be most undignified for you to do this. Write him a note and ask him if he would like to go to the party with you. This is the very best way of extending such an invitation—it makes it easier for all concerned.

And write him on that good-looking letter paper on which you wrote me. It is very "becoming" to your handwriting.

LOVE'S AWAKENING

A Continuation of Love's Embers

—By ADELE GARRISON—

Katie's Dignity Is Offended by Family

EVEN as I answered in the negative to Katie's excited query, "Vot matter? Ees anybody dead?" I wondered if I might unknowingly be telling her a falsehood. Her account of the hurried departure of the Underwoods and Noel Veritzen following a telephone call by Harry Underwood's to the hospital where Prince Georges lay wounded, surely signified some sudden emergency, and my nerves, though soothed by sleep, were again taut with the terror which the night just past had brought to me.

"No, I'm sure there's nobody dead," I told Katie, hoping my little maid did not notice the stiffness of my lips.

"Something foony happen in dees house last night," was Katie's next contribution, and I knew by her voice that she felt her dignity had been offended.

Nobody tell me nodings, not efen dot Jeem, but Mary and Meesis Bicket een your room, und dot Meester Noel he here, stay all night in Meester Graham's room, und you no coom down till now, und fire in library look as eef somebody sit oop all night, und some of my lettle cakes gone, und somebody make coffee—I know by coffee can—I always measure efery day—und lots coffee gone last night. But it none of my beesiness. I shoost only fool hired girl. Nobody must tell me noding, only dot Jeem, dey tell heem all right. He knows something."

She was rapidly working herself up to a tantrum and knowing that Katie, confided in, is far safer than Katie, suspicious, trying to ferret out a mystery, I sat down at the kitchen table and smiled pleasantly at her.

"Nobody has tried to keep anything from you, Katie," I assured her. "There's been no time to talk. I'll tell you everything there is to know, if you'll hurry me some breakfast. I'm starved."

Her good humor was restored in a second. She gace a little cluck of commiseration, and turned to the stove, her curiosity temporarily stilled.

"Aint dot goot loock?" she asked, apparently addressing the kitchen wall. "Dot tea kettle shoost boil dees meenit. I have fresh vater for your coffee. You shoost sit ofer in dot rocker. I feex stool for your feet, und I haf your breakfast in two shawes lettle sheep's tail."

I took the seat she indicated, for I saw she wished to spread the table for me, and watched my little maid's deft movements as she put coffee to percolating, squeezed the grapefruit juice—my invariable breakfast preliminary—into a glass, and prepared the scrambled eggs and toast which she knows I especially like. I did not talk to her until I had finished eating my breakfast, for I wanted to weigh carefully what I told her, but when I pushed back my second cup of coffee, I satisfied the eager curiosity in her face.

"You know Miss Mary went driving with Mr. Jackson last night," I began.

"Sure, I know dot," she answered. "Vot happen? Dey in smash-oop?"

"Yes, they were," I said, and forestalled the quick alarm in her eyes by adding, "but Miss Mary wasn't hurt badly, just shaken up and bruised a bit. She'll be all right in a day or two. Mr. Jackson isn't seriously injured, either, but he's in the hospital. You see, somebody shot him as he was driving along, mistaking him for someone else. He was driving slowly or both he and Miss Mary would have been killed, for the car went into a tree."

I was giving her only the version of the affair which she would hear from anyone who knew of the accident to "Mr. Jackson." It was impossible, of course, to keep Mary's name out of my explanation to her for she had seen the girl drive away with young "Mr. Jackson" the night before. But I knew a sure way of keeping Katie's voluble mouth closed on the subject of Mary's connection with the accident. Making a confidante of my temperamental little maid always enlists her loyalty and insures her silenie.

"There is one thing I want to warn you about. Katie," I said. "You must let no hint drop to anyone—anyone— remember—that Miss Mary was driving with Mr. Jackson last night. You see the thing happened on a road near where the Underwoods were driving and when Mary started for help she ran into them. They got help for Mr. Jackson, but kept her out of sight and brought her home, so no one but ourselves knows that she was in the car, and we can keep her from getting into the papers if we are silent."

Katie's eyes were big with excitement as I finished.

"Yah! dot wouldn't be nice, Miss Mary in newspapers," she said, but in reluctant accents. I knew her movie-fed soul was secretly regretting the opportunity of figuring in the tabloids. But I knew that her promise. "I say nodings to nobody," would be kept inviolably, and as I rose from the table at the sound of the Underwood car outside the door. I was as much at ease about Katie's discretion as I was anxious to find out what had been the reason for the hasty departure of Lillian and Harry from the farmhouse.

In Naples, in the olive country, this olive oil soap is a favorite in beauty culture.

SIGNOR ARMANDO PEZZA, head of the most celebrated beauty salon in Southern Italy, is eloquent on the subject of lovely complexions and how to attain them. "If women only knew it, the simplest, easiest way to beauty is to keep the skin perfectly cleansed.

"Powder, dirt and rouge penetrate right into the pores of the skin, and unless care is taken to remove all these tiny particles of waste matter daily, blemishes are certain to result," he says.

"I always advise my clients to cleanse the skin thoroughly by using Palmolive—which is composed of a secret blend of pure palm and olive oils and is thus one of the most valuable aids known to specialists in the care of the skin."

Signor Pezza is beauty advisor to the most aristocratic women of Naples and his salon is "as fine as any Paris establishment," American women of fashion agree. He advises a treatment known the world over: Massage Palmolive lather into the skin for two minutes, rinse, first with warm water, then with colder until the water is icy . . . and you are ready for make-up.

"THE RED ROBE" IS ROMANCE SERVED WITH MELODY SPICED WITH FUN

By GEORGE SEIBEL

FRANCE under Richelieu—a sinister plot and a lovely lady —a hero that would rather fight than eat or sleep—a comical servant to supply laughing matter in the midst of all the peril and intrigue—gallant guardsmen who sing as bravely as they flash their Toledo or Damascus blades— a bevy of dancing girls that kick and cavort gracefully as village maidens or drummer boys or belles of the court—all these are in the musical romance that opened the season at the Nixon Theater last night.

George Seibel

"The Red Robe" is fast color, it fits well, it flows in graceful lines, and it's a garment of which its tailors may well be proud.

It is Stanley Weyman's old romance, "Under the Red Robe," which Edward Rose made into a drama, now turned into an operetta by Harry B. Smith and Edward Dunn, and set to rhythmic music by Jean Gilbert.. It has a cast that looks as if they had stepped out of old tapestry and sing as they sang before music was turned into mincemeat by jazz.

THE GOOD OLD DAYS

It recalled the good old days of the Bostonians, except that they never put on anything so lavishly and with such dazzling richness. But Walter Woolf has a voice of romantic timbre like that of the famous Tom Karle, and he also has the face and form, that belong to such a voice. Too many of the principals in musical comedy look like lounge lizards better fitted to wield a toothpick than a sword. Walter Woolf makes a manly Gil de Berault, who skewered the feminine hearts of the audience as easily as he pinked his various opponents in duello or battle.

At last a romantic hero who looks romantic and heroic.

Desiree Tabor is the lovely lady for whom he does and dares. She, also, looks as if she had escaped from the Romaunt of the Rose or wandered out of the gardens of Fontainebleau. She has a voice as golden as her hair—and in the duets with Woolf she used it with excellent effect.

NEW STAR OF COMEDY

Aside from these two principals, the feature of "The Red Robe" is the comedy work of Barry Lupino, who is a new star, though he was in Pittsburgh about a year ago in "The Love Call." Lupino is a dancer and tumbler of marvelous agility, and has several numbers with Betty Eyron that bring down the house. He has to keep within the bounds of the book, but despite this restriction he shows that a new figure has appeared in musical comedy to follow in the line of Francis Wilson and De Wolf Hopper, with an acrobatic genius they lacked.

Their two burlesque duets and dances, "Whatever It Is, I've It," and "The Thrill of a Kiss," are ingenious, diverting and breath-taking. Mark Smith seconded their

HAL SKELLY ALDINE STAR

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

The movie makers have put Hal Skelly and his stage success, "Burlesque," on the screen. They have changed the title to "The Dance of Life." But they haven't changed the story—only elaborated it a bit. And for this our thanks and praise.

A view of "The Dance of Life" in the Aldine shows that the original stage version has received intelligent treatment by the picture megaphoners. Verily, the sound machine and the cameras have done right by Mr. Skelly. Though a song, dance and talk picture, it is not of the usual movie variety. No extravagent, yet useless, musical sequences eat up the film footage. All the song and dance episodes injected are essential to the story—at least an asset in creating proper atmosphere.

The plot concerns a burlesque actress and actor—she a dancer and he a comic—who marry. But John Barleycorn lurks near. Even on wedding night the husband comes home drunk. Eventually they drift apart. She, loved by another man, goes West. He, with Ziegfeld stardom in sight, goes to Broadway. But the comic, via the swallow route, topples. It seems Old Man Liquor has got the best of him. Then out of the West comes the wife. And while the orchestra plays and the pair dance before the footlights on a first night, the movie does a somersault and the silver lining appears.

All members of the cast handle their parts well. Nancy Carroll gives an understandable translation of the young wife. Also the movies haven't changed Mr. Skelly a bit. His character, "Skid," remains the same as on the stage. Only his weakness for the bottle gets more attention in the film version. You almost expect Molly Morgan to come in and sing "Father, dear father, come home with me now." But just then Mr. Skelly turns from the bar and you begin to feel apologetic. Old Tom Morgan, in his dampest moments, never looked so soggy.

Familiar

Buddy Rogers and his familiar smile are part of the illusion of "Illusion," featured on the Stanley screen.

Acts and Film Sheridan Show

Victor Graff continues as master of ceremonies on the Sheridan Square stage. Assisting him in the current bill are the Metropolitan Singers, comprising four girls; Charles Wilson, comedian; Three Little Cops, in a dance, and the Four Cyrilla Brothers, in song, dance and comedy. The film is "Paris Bound," a talkie, marking Ann Harding's screen debut. A new bill opens in the theater tomorrow.

COLOR-TALKIE, 'DIGGERS,' WINNER

By J. C. NEILSON

"The Gold Diggers of Broadway," Warner Brothers' all-color, all-talkie picture showing in the Grand, should dig lots of gold from the pockets of movie fans. The photoplay is elaborately and extravagantly produced and is easily the best thing of its kind to reach Pittsburgh in many moons.

There is hardly a pretense of a plot, and what sketchy theme exists is quite untrue to real life, but it serves admirably to project a truly excellent cast. The women of this particular stage violate every rule of the gold diggers' union, and are shown as rather moral, unmercenary and loyal girls, who would not stoop to take financial advantage of a love affair. That myth makes no difference, though, for the piece moves rapidly and amusingly, and the stars of the cast make it entertaining no end, which, after all, is the main object.

WINNIE LIGHTNER HIT

Winnie Lightner, comedienne, defies description. She is a show in herself, dominates things from end to end, and is worth far more than the price of admission. She can act, talk and sing, and there's a big laugh in everything she does. Her "Mechanical Man" song is in a class of its own, and she puts it over as could no one else.

The principle feminine role is taken by Nancy Welford, who is good to look at and to hear, and who does a fine job throughout. Conway Tearle, cast as the rich uncle Steve, looking out for the welfare of his young nephew, who has succumbed to one of the chorus girls, plays the part to perfection, and his pleasing personality and winning manner are much in evidence.

As his lawyer, William Bakewell, portrays a wealthy and wary old fellow, constantly in fear of being taken over for his money by the wiles of the opposite sex, for whom he has more than a sneaking fondness. He plays and speaks well, and his scenes with Miss Lightner are funny, to say the least.

ANN PENNINGTON DANCES

The celebrated Ann Pennington, in a minor role, dances as acceptably as ever. Nick Lucas, the songster of the picture, meets with favor and, if his guitar does become something of a nuisance, his voice is much better than that of the average blues singer.

Grantland Rice's "Golfalogue" is both interesting and instructive. Pathe News reels complete the program.

Taken as a whole, the show is well worth while, and, as before indicated, should be good for a long and successful run.

JOHNS GOES PLACES IN STANLEY

"Illusion," talk film featuring Charles Buddy Rogers and Nancy Carroll, is current in the Stanley. It is a production of little consequence. Young Rogers appears as an actor of the magician type, who sort of strays from his own world into that of higher society. In the doing he almost forgets his old girl, Miss Carroll. However, toward the final fadeout, he discovers all of the "freaks" aren't in the show business. This serves to disillusion him and back to Nancy he goes.

Regis Toomey, who used to live out in the East End and who was graduated from Peabody High School back in 1917, is about the best thing in the picture. As a son of wealth he consumes a terrible lot of liquor with quite a histronic flare.

Incidentally, the production offers a couple of songs which are all right. But the story isn't so much and the acting, aside from Mr. Toomey's, is just so-so. Hero Rogers fails to impress—even in the sequence in which he displays satanic eyebrows as part of his magician makeup. As for Heroine Carroll, in the present instance, she is nothing to get excited over.

SEES THE SIGHTS

Brooke Johns' stage show, "Around the Town," hands out the Stanley's entertainment wallop of the week. It is a lively revue. It opens with a brief film, in which Johns visits the zoo and views the City from Mt. Washington. Then the curtain goes up and Johns races down the theater aisle just as the chorus girls begin to worry about his being late. Follow songs by Arthur Nealy, tenor, and performances by other singers, dancers and comedians. The band blares forth a variety of tunes and the girls go into a novel and well devised airplane dance. Chimneys are stacked high and wheels turn, signifying Pittsburgh industry, in the grand finale.

Prior to the stage show, there is a rather intriguing overture by David Broudy and orchestra. It is titled "Pittsburghesque" and was conceived by Charles Danvers. It is a cosmopolitan symphony, with a couple revolver shots shoved in for a good measure. Bernie Armstrong and his organ help out with the display.

Talkie, Stage Acts in Harris

Ann Harding, former stock actress here, makes her screen debut in the Harris this week in the talkie "Paris Bound." The picture opens with a marriage ceremony and eventually drifts into a four-sided domestic tangle. There is the other man, who wishes he were the bridegroom. And there is the other woman, who wishes she were the bride. Featured in the cast are Frederic March, Carmelita Geraghty and Leslie Fenton.

The stage presents the Harris Novelty Revue, a stage show featuring various vaudeville acts and including a stage band and a master of ceremonies. The bespectacled Larry Vincent makes an amusing M. C., introducing the various players with a show of wit, and doing some specialty stuff himself. He sings about "hungry women" and "dieting women" and plays one of those infant pianos. The highlight of the show is the Vic Honey Trio, with the male member displaying some keen tap dancing all over a flight of steps. Other acts include the Four Pals, funny men, and two young women who sing and play the accordion.

Club Plans Corn Roast

The Woman's Library Club of Knoxville will hold a corn roast Thursday at the Carrick Park pavilion from 5 to 8 o'clock. Luncheon will be served and an interesting program has been prepared.

"THE CONSTANT WIFE" GIVES PITT AUDIENCE EVENING OF HIGH COMEDY

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Take it from one who knows, that is in a play, the delights of free love are not so heavenly. In fact, again according to the play, it is the most overplayed sport in the world and the results are the otherwise of satisfying. This is one of the conclusions which Dr. John Middleton, F. R. C. S., as played by Kenneth Daigneau, a year after having completed the experiment upon which he based his views, attempts to make effective as an argument in "The Constant Wife" in the Pitt when his wife, effectively portrayed by Frances Starr, apprises him that she is about to make a similar experiment during her six weeks' vacation.

We wonder if she did. The play ends with her departure, ostensibly to meet the man who would be her companion, after she had received, in reply to her question as to whether her husband wishes her to return to his home, a vigorous, not too polite, affirmative, considering that he was addressing a lady.

BRILLIANT AND AMUSING

"The Constant Wife," droll as "Volpone," brilliant in dialogue and as modern as a new automobile, is a source of constant amusement, steadily building up so that its big scene comes at the finale rather than at the end of the second act, as is customary, leaving the third to straighten things out with explanations, etc. It would take a fourth act to do that in "The Constant Wife" and there is no fourth act. That is why one wonders, as a laughing woman departs, and a husband stands non-plussed, when the curtain descends, if she had really been in earnest. Her expressed decision to do so seems so out of harmony with her character.

Miss Starr, with infinite artistry, had made that character one so ingenious and yet so instilled with wisdom traditionally ascribed to the serpent, that it would appear that W. Somerset Maugham, author of the piece, must have had the talents and charm of Miss Starr in mind when he wrote the play, making comedy out of things that generally are tragedy in real life.

Constance (how appropriate a name) Middleton is just as much a puzzle to her friends as she becomes to the audience at the end of the play. They all know that she is being deceived by her husband and her closest friend of her own sex, even her sister and mother, and they all think she is blind. But when the other deceived person, husband of her closest friend, bursts in upon them all and spills the beans, she is the coolest person in the group. Not only that, but she sends that particular husband packing to buy a necklace for his wife, properly contrite because he had made a blunder, which all but he know is no blunder.

While one wonders if such a paragon of a wife is just naturally dumb or overlooks her seeming lack of natural feeling under the circumstances by saying to oneself that, after all, it is only a play, there still is admiration for the skill with which Miss Starr and members of the George Sharp Company could carry off such a scene and make the incredible seem not only natural, but true to life and logical under the circumstances, a scene in which all of the characters of the play are on the stage at the same time.

GUEST STAR DOMINATES

The play, although rather dominated by Miss Starr, gives others their chance, too, with Mr. Daigneau giving a convincing portrayal of Dr. Middleton. Robert Fiske is an affable and believable ex-suitor for the hand of Constance, returned after 15 years abroad, ready, after the revelations, to assume his former relationship. Pauline MacLean displays restrained gushiness as the charmer who causes the doctor to falter temporarily, and who benefits to the extent of a necklace when she should be given a severe frown at least. Mabel Kroman, Gus Forbes, Brown Mehard and Alice Ann Baker are less conspicuous but do their work well.

Last night's performance was a gala event, marking the opening of the fall and winter season. So, after the descent of the final curtain, there was a "shower" of bouquets and baskets of flowers and speeches by Miss Starr and members of the company, Mabel, Kroman, in happy manner, acting as "master of ceremonies."

Stage and Screen News

"The Red Robe" has been one of the reigning successes of New York and ought to fill the Nixon Theater during the remainder of the week. For here is good music—the ballet in the second act has the grace of Grieg or German. And some of the ballads and love songs have a rich romantic ring. The male choruses are especially stirring.

But that is not all. The operetta has beautiful stage settings, gorgeous costumes, effective lighting, and good actors. Such a bit of quit work as that of C. Edwin Brandt as Richelieu is in line with the best traditions of the stage.

When all this is noised about the lovers of good entertainment will flock into the Nixon this week as the courtiers of Richelieu returned to his palace after the Day of Dupes.

Academy Offers Burlesque Bill

"Broadway Scandals," featuring Charles Wesson and Joan Lee, is the burlesque for the current week on the Academy stage. It follows the customary burlesque pattern of specialties and travesties.

LIVE GHOSTS MAKE HIT IN PENN

Another fine talking film is the feature in the Penn this week—and it is one that tells a story without sentimental piffle and without a clothes-horse heroine or a mooning hero. "Three Live Ghosts" was a play by Max Marcin, and a good play, which has not been spoiled by its transference to the vocal screen. There is a capital comedienne in it—Beryl Mercer, who plays the mother of one of the three returning soldiers. The three soldiers—Charles McNaughton, Claude Allister, Jack Cooper—are also actors of excellent quality. Sometimes you forget that it is only a picture.

STORY'S THE THING

The makers of this talkie have borne in mind the important point that the story's the thing. They had a story which combined the elements of romance and comedy as Dickens might have done it. The characters in their amiable weaknesses are always convincing, and their fortunes, full of exciting adventure, do not appear impossible.

Some of the street scenes, celebrating the armistice, and some of the battle pictures, as the shell-shocked soldier's reason and memory are returning, take advantage of the marvelous technique evolved by the silent films. All in all "Three Live Ghosts" is one of the best talkies yet presented.

'RAH FOR THIS SENATOR

The best feature of the stage show is the monologue stump speech of "Senator Murphy." His explanation of the new abbreviated currency—the only way the government could keep the bootleggers from making "big money"—and his telling points, scoring off the follies and foibles of the day, stirred gales of laughter.

Romance

Desiree Tabor helps Walter Woolf with the romance in "The Red Robe," the opening attraction of the season in the Nixon.

Comedy Drama Enright Film

"Charming Sinners," the movie version of W. Somerset Maughan's "The Constant Wife," is the talking screen feature in the Enright. Ruth Chatterton, Olive Brook and William Powell are featured.

The story concerns a London surgeon who has an affair with another woman—the woman being his wife's best friend. The wife learns of all this and so she "steps out" with another man, in an effort of teaching her surgeon-husband a lesson.

The picture is one of those "smart" comedy dramas. It is well directed and well played. There is a sparkle to much of the dialogue. The action moves in an atmosphere of aristocratic English society.

Dick Powell presents "Spanish Skies" on the stage. He croons through his megaphone and gets the applause. Entertainers who help with the show include Sully and Thomas, singing comedians; Ray Walker, dancer; Cecelia Blair, adagio performer. Frank E. Roberts presents an organlogue, "Blonde or Brunette."

Dance Arranged By Tau Delta Chi

Arrangements have been completed by the Tau Delta Chi Sorority for a dance to be held at the Edgewood Club Friday night. Dorothy Goodwin is president, and the dance will be open to the public.

whose novel, "Flagrant Years," began in January Cosmopolitan and started the year with a bang.

WHEN Calvin Coolidge broke a lifetime silence to tell his own story—
When Emil Ludwig wrote his "Life of Lincoln," the book by which he hopes to be remembered—
When the Prince of Wales cast off the bonds of royal tradition and spoke directly to the American people in an authorized interview with Frazier Hunt—
When Irvin Cobb put into his novel, "Red Likker," all of his love and understanding of his Kentucky home—
When Theodore Dreiser wrote "This Madness," a novel as frank as Cellini's autobiography—
When Sinclair Lewis again turned his brilliant pen to short stories; when P. G. Wodehouse revived Jeeves, the perfect gentleman's gentleman; when Rupert Hughes wrote "Ladies' Man," which he considers the best novel of his career—

Each author knew that what he had written could command in the publishing market almost any price he wished to put upon it. But to each one of them there was an element of greater importance than money. Each wanted to reach the audience which would understand and appreciate what he said.

Each one of them chose Cosmopolitan.

Cosmopolitan publishes month after month more reading matter essential in the life of the person who would be well informed than any other two magazines in America. This includes the weeklies which have 52 issues as against Cosmopolitan's 12.

This may sound boastful. It isn't. Check the features listed under the photographs at the top of this page. They all appeared in the first nine issues of Cosmopolitan in 1929. And remember that even these are less than one-twelfth of the total of features, all almost equally important, which appeared in those first nine issues of Cosmopolitan for 1929.

And We Will Keep On Doing It!

Here are just a few of the things you can look forward to in early issues of Cosmopolitan:

A new novel by JOSEPH HERGESHEIMER, "The Party Dress," in which the distinguished author of "Cytherea" answers the question, "What chance has a woman after forty?"

And of course it remained for Cosmopolitan to introduce to American magazine readers a breath-taking mystery serial by the man whose books sell in England by the millions. EDGAR WALLACE is his name and his story is called "White Face."

A new novel by ROBERT HICHENS, a story of love and mystery in London's Mayfair, different from anything yet written by the author of "The Garden of Allah."

A new novel by LOUIS BROMFIELD, the finest so far by this most brilliant of young writers, author of "The Green Bay Tree" and "The Strange Case of Miss Annie Spragg."

And that is only a hint of our plans—only a hint!

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

ALFRED PERRY, a young English reporter touring America, makes the following comments on what he saw along the sidewalks of Pittsburgh:

"I like the hills, the parks, the Carnegie Institute, the bee — pardon me, the light refreshment.

Havey J. Boyle

"Pittsburghers seem to like their lemonade. Arrests for drunkenness last year numbered 31,759. That is nearly half the convictions in England and Wales together. According to police statistics, arrests have increased 50 per cent for drunkenness against 20 per cent increase in population. In England and Wales, convictions last year amounted to one-third of those in 1913.

It's always braw, bricht Saturday nicht in guid auld Glasga. Scotland has returned the only prohibition member to the British Parliament.

"MORE things I like about Pittsburgh: The bow-windows of the cops. The Marine recruiting officer at Grant and Fifth. The sign-board by which he stands, entitled "Fast Life," with a picture of a sugar-baby and a sheik. Over the blonde's curls is printed: 'Join the Marines.' Who wouldn't?

"Pittsburgh has a transport problem. Why not raise the trolley cables, add another deck to the street cars, thus doubling their capacity? In London they are all two-deckers.

"OUR papers in London go in for stunts. One asked prominent men what they thought of the modern girl. George Bernard Shaw answered on a one-cent postcard: 'Sir, are you trying to make me look ridiculous?'"

Mr. Perry, influenced by the primary campaign, observes: "Men I'd like to meet: The politician who does NOT stand for clean government. The politician who is conceded generally to have practiced the latter when given the chance."

Such cynicism, Mr. Perry.

IN THE local country clubs they are still repeating what Dr. Willing, the dentist, and runner-up in the recent amateur golf tournament, said to his opponent just before he made a bad putt: "Now, this isn't going to hurt you a bit."

Speaking of dentists, there is in town a well-equipped office, with a sign on the door, giving the dentist's name, but you don't get your tooth pulled in there. The gentleman in charge does, however, a tidy business in leg-pulling. He is a bootician who handles stuff just off the boat. He isn't a dentist, just kidding.

JUDGES LIST 250 TO ACT AT POLLS

Overseers Divided Among the 3 Mayoralty Candidates; Poll Officials Appointed

Approximately 250 overseers were named yesterday by Judges Frank P. Patterson and George V. Moore to guard the ballot boxes today and see that the voting is conducted in a regular manner.

The court divided appointments alternately among the various factions, naming overseers in the districts of wards for which petitions were presented last week.

The petitions of Mayor Charles H. Kline, Judge Richard W. Martin and President of Council James Malone, candidates for mayor, were all considered at the same time. Mayor Kline's forces had asked for about 30, Martin for 125 and Malone for 130. The court did not grant all of the applications.

EQUAL REPRESENTATION

Judges Patterson and Moore gave the petitioners the privilege of suggesting names and then alternated in their appointment. This plan gave all factions equal representation in those districts where petitions were filed asking for appointment of overseers. The proceedings consumed most of yesterday afternoon's session.

Twenty election officers were appointed to serve on boards by Judge Harry H. Rowand in Quarter Sessions Court yesterday after political leaders or their counsel had appeared before him in court.

Alderman John J. Verona, seeking election as alderman of the Third Ward, appeared in court and asked that several of his supporters be named to election offices. Owen B. McManus, Second Ward leader, appeared and later was appointed to fill one of the positions.

APPOINTMENTS LISTED

The offices filled and those appointed follow:

Eighth District, Second Ward, Owen B. McManus, judge of election.

Twenty-fourth District, Fifth Ward, Howard T. Ritchie, majority inspector.

Fourth District, Second Ward, Crafton, Edward Lee Bladel, judge of election.

ARTIST GOING TO ENGLAND

Miss Marcella Comes, youthful Pittsburgh artist, who won the portrait prize at last year's Associated Artist show, plans to shake off the dust of her native city and try her luck in England.

So she said this morning in Horne's, where her first "one-man" show is making its appearance.

"American artists are popular in Europe, and European artists are sought after in this country, so I'm going to take a try at the other side for awhile," she said.

Miss Comes follows the lead of a number of other of the more talented painters of Western Pennsylvania.

Her first show—and she's only 24 now—includes 30 pictures, among them a number of Italian and American character studies, a few landscapes, one of the mills in Homestead, and some distinctive portraits. Her "Swiss Guard," which, painted in Rome two years ago, won her the much-desired prize here, heads the list. Her "Caddy" may be found every day after school at the Schenley Park links; her "Sixth Hole" is on the well-known Youghiogheny golf course, and some of her portraits are of Pittsburgh girls.

Miss Comes is the daughter of the late John T. Comes, noted church architect. She will be accompanied to Europe by her mother and sister, Miss Alice Comes.

Her show at Horne's, which started Monday, concludes Thursday.

U. P. CHURCHES HERE PREPARE FOR SYNOD

Merging of Seminaries, Ministerial Pensions Will Receive Action in Buffalo

Representatives of 40 United Presbyterian churches in the Allegheny Presbytery, consisting of minister and one elder, are preparing to attend the annual meeting of the First Synod of the West which opens next Monday in South Park Church, Buffalo, N. Y.

The proposed merger of Pittsburgh and Xenia Theological seminaries, is expected to receive the approval of the synod, according to local ministers of the church. The Pittsburgh synod in which the Monongahela presbytery will be represented, will act on the same proposal next month.

Under the plan Pittsburgh seminary would become the only such institution of the United Presbyterian Church and faculties would be combined.

Action by the synod also is anticipated, urging the churches to adopt the ministerial pension plan. This already has been approved by the general assembly and needs only acceptance by congregations and ministers to become effective. A fund of $1,500,000, it is expected, will have been raised for this purpose by the next general assembly. A campaign is now under way.

ACCOUNTANTS IN TAX FIGHT

Supporting the Sun-Telegraph campaign for the downward revision of the federal tax on earned incomes, the Pittsburgh chapter, National Association of Cost Accountants, will assist in the canvass for signatures to petitions urging Congress to act in the matter.

The tax revision campaign will be the subject of discussion at the monthly dinner of the chapter in the Fort Pitt Hotel tomorrow night when J. P. Jordan, of the accounting firm of Stevenson, Harrison & Jordan, New York, and a former president of the National Association, will be the honor guest and principal speaker.

AUTO, TROLLEY CRASH, SIX INJURED

Three Victims of Carson Street Accident Taken to Hospital, But Will Recover

Three of six persons injured last night when an automobile in which they were riding collided with a street car in West Carson street, near the Point Bridge, were reported recovering in South Side Hospital today.

Those in the hospital are Raymond King, 38, and his wife, Mrs. Ruth King, 31, and Mrs. Florence Esgate, 40, all of 1231 Pennsylvania avenue. Mrs. Esgate's husband, Ernest Esgate, and the two King children, Norma, 8, and Raymond, 4, suffered cuts and bruises. They were removed to their home.

The machine, driven by King, police said, was turning into a barbecue stand in West Carson street when it collided with the trolley.

ROAD CONCRETE INVESTIGATED

A second meeting of a committee named by West View Council to investigate charges by citizens that inferior concrete was being used in paving Center avenue, will be held tomorrow night in the Borough Hall.

At a previous meeting the committee interrogated residents said to have noted the mixing of materials, but little tangible evidence was obtained, it is said.

A chemical analysis of the concrete would be useless in determining the content, according to members of the committee, but they plan to have laboratory tests made of the strength and thickness of the concrete layers in an effort to learn whether the proper proportion of cement was used.

CLUB LAUNCHES SCHOOL DRIVE

Alleging that children of the district are forced to travel more than a mile to attend school, members of the East Brookline Community Club at a meeting held at the home of Joseph Stack, 1247 Brookline boulevard, urged the construction of a new building to serve that district.

It is stated that the city already owns the necessary site for the structure and an active and aggressive campaign has been launched by the club to secure a suitable building for school purposes.

Shannon Building Held in Abeyance

The matter of a new municipal building for Castle Shannon has been held in abeyance by members of the borough council. The first building activity in the North Boroughs along the route of the Ohio River boulevard is reported from Avalon.

Capt. J. N. Arthur, borough manager, granted a permit to C. A. Strobridge for erection of a four-family brick veneer dwelling at 856 Ohio River boulevard, estimated to cost $12,000. Joseph Krufka, 34, of Greenock, owner and driver of the auto, ditched his car and ran up an embankment to save the child's life and in so doing the hub cap of his front wheel struck the coaster wagon and knocked the wagon away from the automobile.

RARE FISH TAKEN BY SNEAK

Several Valuable Pairs are Broken as Bowls are Raided—Show Is Success

The fourteenth annual tropical fish exhibit, showing at Phipps conservatory, West Park, under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Aquarium Society, is in the grip of what appears to be an unsolvable mystery.

The mystery centers about the disappearance of not a few rare goldfish that were supposed to display their colors during the exhibit.

BOWLS RAIDED

It was near the dark zero hour or midnight when some unidentified person sneaked into the conservatory and purloined several members of the fish family, according to Mrs. J. C. Schirm, one of the directors of the show. The mysterious one helped himself from several bowls, thus breaking the pairs on exhibition.

Aside from the robbery the exhibit is proving very successful. Although no prizes are offered, 19 exhibitors have entered fish. Several hundred school children attended yesterday and it is expected that the exhibit will continue to attract interest until it closes next Sunday.

JIGGS MAKES HIT

Maggie and Jiggs are the big act in the exhibit. The famous comic characters are two Chinese walking fish; said to be the largest specimens ever placed on exhibition.

BORGER BURIES SLAIN LAWYER

BORGER, Tex., Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Funeral rites for John A. Holmes, district attorney, who was mysteriously murdered here Friday night, were held yesterday, attended by hundreds of citizens of this section, who have been aroused by the latest killing of more than a score that have occurred during Borger's short and hectic history. Authorities have been unsuccessful in tracing clues leading to the death of the fearless attorney who had been relentlessly on the heels of the crime element in this mushroom oil town ever since his incumbency.

Another citizen was fatally stabbed last night while investigators were trying to solve the Holmes murder. Melvin Hotchkiss, 26, was killed when he attempted to stop a quarrel between a married couple. His slayer escaped.

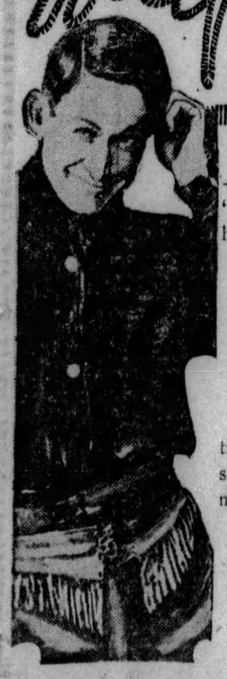
Bill Rogers Says



BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Sept. 17.—The old bromide about the South "still fighting the Civil War" don't hold up so good.

It was suggested to the Northern boys at their reunion the other day that they hold a joint reunion with the Southern. Well they just pulled out their whiskers and started firing 'em at the suggester.

Said they would "never meet 'em" till the South admitted they was wrong, so that is one merger that is off indefinitely.

The North got all the pensions and the postoffices. They don't need anything else.

Yours,
WILL.

Paint Allotted Counties For Air-Marking

By MAX HENRICI.

There was quick response to the Koppers Products Company's offer of free paint for an air-mark to the first municipal or civic organization applying from each of five counties.

The paint goes to the following:

PAINT IS ALLOTTED

Butler County—Chicora Board of Trade, Chicora, Pa.

The names of the persons writing in behalf of the successful applicants have been furnished to R. A. Altenhof of the Koppers Products Company, and he will at once get in touch with them. He said he would supply a special air-marking yellow paint that can be used on a pitch or asphalt roof without "bleeding," that is visible at a greater altitude than white paint, and that will remain bright for two years.

That within a day applications should have poured in from five counties from bodies planning to put up signs to guide aviators bears eloquent witness to the success of the Sun-Telegraph's campaign to get every town in Western Pennsylvania air-marked so that fliers will have no difficulty in determining where they are and where they may land in safety.

KIWANIS CLUB HELPS

Alfred J. Parker, secretary of the West Newton Kiwanis Club, reports that through the courtesy of Thomas B. Dutcher, general manager of the Standard Railway Fusee Corporation, the club was able to put West Newton on the air map with a large sign.

George H. Cole, postmaster of Evans City, writes that the recently published aerial photograph of that town, in which no air-mark could be seen, did not take in a roof that is marked.

"Our town," Mr. Cole writes, "was among the first to mark a roof as requested by the Daniel Guggenheim Fund of New York, and the American Legion Post, No. 219, holds a certificate, signed by its president, as well as by Charles A. Lindbergh, in recognition.

"We recently painted an arrow pointing towards the Pittsburgh-Butler airport, showing distance of seven miles, and gave another coat of paint to the present sign. We would like you to view this sign, and if it is not as visible to the air pilot as it should be, the American Legion boys and myself would like to be advised."

JEWISH LEADERS HERE START PALESTINE RELIEF FUND

NEED FOR CASH TO AID VICTIMS STRESSED

Suffering of Refugees in Holy Land Described in Appeal to Pittsburghers for Funds

Reports of conditions among Jews in Palestine, and plans for immediate relief for more than 9,000 refugees now crowding Jerusalem from many of the outlying districts, featured a meeting of Jewish leaders here yesterday.

It was decided to ask every Jewish man and woman in Pittsburgh to aid in the move for relief by remitting contributions to Irving F. Lehman, treasurer of the fund, with offices in the Farmers Bank Building.

Thousands of Jews have been driven from their homes and places of business by the Arabs, while hundreds have been slain and unknown numbers maimed, speakers said. Hospitals, they added, are overcrowded, and many unable to gain entrance to the institutions are being cared for in the best manner possible.

Unless aid comes from America and other nations at once, indescribable hardships will result, and additional hundreds will die, reports indicated. In view of these conditions speakers urged that immediate action be taken to forestall the threatening calamity.

Besides Mr. Lehman those attending the meeting were Dr. S. M. Goldenson, Leo Lehman, A. C. Lehman, Isaac W. Frank, Abe Seder, Eugene Herzog, Dr. Ludwig B. Bernstein, Leonard S. Levin, A. Leo Weil, Charles H. Sachs, Charles J. Rosenbloom, J. H. Frank, Emil Steinbach, Morris Neaman, I. A. Abrams, M. L. Avner and Rabbi Herman Hallperin, representing the United Palestine Appeal.

Crime Vanishing, Erin Closing Prisons

DUBLIN, Sept. 17.—(A.P.)—The Irish Free State, having turned most of its swords into plowshares, and military barracks into dwellings, is now shutting up prisons or using them as broadcasting stations.

The famous Kilkenny Prison was closed some time ago, and now the historic jail of Kilmainham is no longer to be used as a prison.

While word comes from the United States that the prison population there is constantly on the increase, with bigger prisons always needed, the convict population of the Free State has dwindled from 1,350 in 1914 to 700 at present. Seven prisons now suffice for all the adult prisoners in the country.

They told of killing Leon Raymond, a druggist. Nicholson, who fired the shots, said that after he got home he "cried all night" and that he and Camy agreed never again to kill.

Even in zero weather it is "always Summer" in the kitchen. You know what that means to perishable foods. Government authorities have found that an average of 50 degrees is the correct temperature. Unless that average is maintained, foods

Stowe Fire Truck Victims Awarded Compensation

The State Workmen's Compensation Board yesterday awarded 10 claims brought by 10 volunteer firemen of Stowe Township, or their dependents, as a result of the crash of a fire truck December 26, in which three firemen were killed and seven injured.

In the award the board ruled that the employment of the volunteer fireman is not limited to his own municipality.

The township and insurance companies objected to payment of compensation on the ground that the accident, which occurred while the firemen were responding to a call in the plant of the Carnegie Refining Company, at Heidelberg, were outside their own municipality.

In an opinion Commissioner Morrison held that a volunteer fireman, when acting "under orders of a duly authorized superior, within reasonable bounds and under customary circumstances," is within the course of his employment, "even though he is beyond the confines of his own municipal subdivision."

Local Lady Relieved by Ten Herbs; Other Medicines Failed.

No wonder Ten Herbs, the new medicine, is such a great success throughout this entire section, for every day reports are received from men and women who tell how they gained blessed relief from such health troubles as stomach, liver, kidney and bowel disorders by using this famous preparation. Many state that Ten Hedbs helped them back to better health after all else tried had failed. The ten wonderful natural ingredients of this compound also relieve rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness, and have a cleansing, soothing, correcting action on the whole human system.

"I suffered from stomach trouble for years, and although I tried many kinds of medicines, Ten Herbs was the only one that gave me satisfactory relief," said Mrs. Robert Gamble, 712 Oakwood street, Pittsburgh. "It proved to be just the medicine my system needed. The lightest kind of food caused gas and bloating. I did not get proper nourishment from what I ate, and finally my system became badly rundown. I lost weight, and was on the verge of a nervous breakdown. My liver was very inactive and I was always troubled with constipation. Dizzy spells and headache would bother me for days at a time. My complexion was sallow. At times I felt very much discouraged, as it seemed that life was hardly worth living.

"Ten Herbs put my stomach in such good condition that I could eat anything without having distress afterwards. I was no longer troubled with gas or shortness of breath. I could sleep soundly, as my nerves were stronger. My liver started to work properly, and bilious spells, headaches and dizziness became things of the past. Constipation was ended. I gained in health and strength every day, and before long I felt like a new woman. Even friends remarked about the change for the better that had come over me. I will praise Ten Herbs every chance I get."

Ten Herbs is sold at all drug stores in Pittsburgh and by all druggists throughout this entire section.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Virginia Thaw to Be Much Feted During Gotham Debutante Season

IT'S difficult to garner any news for you about the debutantes. Many of them are still out of town with their families—and, by the way, doesn't it seem to you that the summer resorts are keeping folks away from home a little longer than usual this year? A surprisingly large number of telephones are either silent or are answered with an "out-of-town."

Perhaps you would be interested, though, in hearing just a bit about one of the debutantes whom we will share with New York this winter—Virginia Thaw. I've heard that Virginia is slated to be one of the most popular buds in Gotham this season and a great many parties are being planned for her. One of the most important and smartest of the debutante affairs is the New Year's ball which is given every year on January 1 in the St. Regis Hotel, and Virginia's mother, Mrs. William Thaw III, is on the committee in charge, which is headed by Mrs. Thomas Webster Edgar.

COMING back home again, though, we have an interesting wedding or two in the offing and tonight, the rehearsal dinner for one of them will be held in the University Club. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Gwinner III will be hosts at a dinner supplementing the rehearsal for the wedding of Sara Louise Gwinner, daughter of the Edward William Gwinners, of Fifth avenue, and Frederick Eaton Crispin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gearhart Crispin, of New York. The ceremony, you remember, is set for tomorrow.

There will be 20 guests at tonight's dinner, and I understand that autumn flowers are to form the decorations. Tomorrow morning, the John H. Follansbees will give the wedding breakfast in their home.

A VISITOR in town this week is Katherine E. Burnett, of South Orange, N. J., who arrived today to be the house guest of Elizabeth C. Nicholson, daughter of the John H. Nicholsons, of Shady avenue. The girls were classmates at Smith College. Several parties are being arranged for the visitor.

Speaking of travelers, I hear that the Paul Sexton Hardys and their small daughter, Carol, of Edgerton avenue, are home from Ahmic Lake, Canada, where they have been staying with Mrs. Hardy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Uriah W. Tinker, at their summer cottage. Mr. and Mrs. Tinker and their other daughters, Betty and Mrs. Herbert T. Herr, Jr., with Mrs. Herr's little daughter, Betty, are expected to return to Pittsburgh next week.

Dutch Queen Lauds Hague Conference

THE HAGUE, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Opening the new session of the Dutch States General today, Queen Wilhelmina in the speech from the throne expressed great satisfaction because the recent reparations conference at The Hague ended with agreement and thus contributed to world peace.

"Projects of the League of Nations aiding pacific solution of international disputes will be energetically promoted to help pave the way for simultaneous and reciprocal reduction of armaments," said the queen.

The speech emphasized that expenditures for the Dutch army and navy will continue to be limited to what is strictly necessary "for the maintenance of our neutrality and the defense of our independence."

METALLIC SATINS NEWEST WRINKLE FOR EVENING MODE

Sketched in Paris

Hemline of New Coats to Be Irregular

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

PARIS, Sept. 16.—Silver threads among the satin might well be the theme song of some of the lovely creations evolved by the couturiers for wear during the coming season. Those who delight in the gleaming magnificence of lame, and the rich beauty of brocade, should be in their sartorial element, for such materials represent the last word from the ateliers of the designers here. Rich fabrics lend themselves admirably to the intricate cut and molded silhouette, that mark the new era of fashion, an era designed to allow woman to express her individuality through the medium of her wardrobe, but withal an era that bars the bizarre.

EVENING coats this season are interesting, they range from the short jacket to the garment that trails its soft beauty even below the heel of the slipper. It was to be expected that many of the new coats would follow the irregular slightly trained hemline of the evening frock, and that like these frocks the interest would be focussed on the back.

MONSIEUR PATOU has presented one of the loveliest collections of the season, and as his ideas are always both original and supremely artistic, we hasten to send you a sketch of one of his most successful evening coats, that illustrates eloquently the above mentioned new evening wrap silhouette. This coat is in a brilliant shade of plum chiffon velvet, a color destined for popularity this winter. The back of this model is cut with an extremely wide circular movement and is so long that it literally trails on the ground. A loosely looped sash of velvet, starting low from each side seam, is caught across the soft folds at the back. Silver fox is used for the huge shawl collar, the cuffs and the all-round border.

WE show also Premet's very latest white evening gown, that was enthusiastically received at the recent showing of that house. The fabric is a white brocade satin, shot with gleaming silver threads. The shoulder straps and flat appliqued bow are of strass. An amusing note is the tiny circular flounce that insists on being a bertha, and gives interest to the tightly fitted bodice. A circular flounce edges the skirt, and a large bow with long swinging ends is poised at the left side of the flounce. The clinging princess lines of this lovely frock are softened, and by the same token, emphasized by the cluster of folds starting at the right side of the waistline and passing through to the front.

Odd Fellows Hold Conclave This Week

HOUSTON, Tex., Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Delegates to the world conclave of Odd Fellows here this week meet today to confer the title of Grand Sire on Judge M. M. Logan, of Bowling Green, Ky., and to elect some one to succeed him as the second ranking national officer.

Two of the most important questions to be decided by the body are the creation of a junior lodge for boys 14 to 18 years old and the establishment of life memberships.

Goodwill Industries Launch Fund Drive

The Pittsburgh Goodwill Industries has launched a drive for $25,000 in this vicinity, according to the treasurer, P. W. Morgan. The money is needed to continue the work of the organization. The Goodwill Industries conducts four stores at which the poor of the community may buy, at a nominal price, the material for furnishing themselves and their homes.

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern

A DAINTY LITTLE PARTY DRESS.

A very pretty little frock is pictured here. It is with narrow straps holding the waist portions and bertha on the shoulders. The curved outline on the waist front is most pleasing. The skirt portions are full and gathered to the waist. As pictured blue crepe de chine was used, with narrow self-plaiting for trimming. Lace may replace the plaiting. Taffeta, voile, dimity or organdy are other materials suggested for this style. The frock and bertha may be finished in straight scolloped outline.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 1, 2, 3 and 4 years. To make the dress for a 3-year size will require 1½ yards of 32-inch material and ¾ yard additional material for plaiting, cut in 14 strips 2 inches wide, and crosswise of the material. If lace edging is used 14 yards are required. To make the bertha of contrasting material will require ⅝ yard 32 inches wide.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

To Make Inexpensive Glassware Sparkle Like Costly Kind

Simple New Way Does Wonders and Is Kind to Pretty Hands—Use Any Kind of Soap

Even the most inexpensive table china and glassware can be made to look far better than its price in a simple way. It can be given the brilliancy and sparkle of the most costly kinds; and glassware particularly is judged by its sparkle.

Simply add one teaspoonful of the cleansing preparation called CLIMALENE to your water. Use the same soap you ordinarily do, but use only ONE-FOURTH the usual quantity. Wash as usual.

This preparation is a grease dissolvent, while soap is, strictly speaking, a grease. Thus it gives shine and sparkle while soap often leaves a greasy film that's hard to get rid of even with the most careful drying.

Most hotels use this method to make glass and china gleam. Housewives like it not only for this reason, but because it acts to soften and whiten skin fabric of the hands.

Results are surprising. Try it. Get at any grocery store in 10c or 25c package. Just ask your grocer for CLIMALENE.

Two Serials Make Debut On Radio Tonight

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Sun Telegraph Radio Editor.

TWO serials, one blood-curdling and the other a comic drama, will have their debut through Pittsburgh stations tonight.

Pirates, cutlasses, pieces of eight—all will be introduced in the radio adaption of Robert Louis Stevenson's "Treasure Island," the Eveready hour presentation over WCAE at 9 o'clock.

At the same hour KDKA will present a serial thriller woven about the experiences of Dorothy Brent, a student nurse, and Jimmy Otis, a newspaper reporter.

"War Above the Clouds," the aviation story from WJAS at 8:30, sounds like it might furnish thrills.

At 10:30 p. m. WJAS will carry the dedication program of the new WMAQ studios in Chicago. Albert Spaulding, violinist, will be the star.

"I Love to Tell the Story" and "In the Sweet By and By" will be included in the concert to be presented through KDKA at 7:15 o'clock through the courtesy of the Sacred Song sponsor.

Women listeners will be interested in the talk over KDKA at 3:15 o'clock Wednesday by Mrs. John Sipple, of Baltimore, Md., national president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs of the United States.

We Now Present

Broadcasting stations eventually will use the lower waveband for regular programs, Howard E. Clark, manager of WJAS, told us at lunch yesterday.

Amateurs are now experimenting to overcome the "skip distance" effect and when they do there will be enough radio boulevards and bicycles for every station in the country.

If your imagination is good, picture a radio wave measuring eight inches from crest to crest as compared with the present wave of WJAS at 930 feet, from crest to crest. Such a short wave is now being used successfully by a New York "ham" who operates a specially constructed set on one-fifth of a meter, or 200 millimeters. Mr. Clark told us.

Anyway you take it, it is an engineers's problem and just a lot of "hooey" to the broadcast listener who doesn't care a whoop how many "bicycles" a station uses just so it comes through clearly.

GRIMES FACES PHILS TODAY

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

Old Series Star Absent. | Second Place Is Safer.
Coombs' Great Record. | Graney's Fistic Views.
Dreshar Fine Captain. | Knabe Bobs Up Again.

DIAMOND DERBY'S BEST SLAB MARKS

THE outstanding man among the undefeated pitching heroes of world series history will be unable to appear in even a spectator's role at this year's classic between the Cubs and the Athletics. When the same clubs met 19 years ago for the big stakes, Jack Coombs was the mound star, pitching the A's to three of their four victories in a string of five games. Coombs is now baseball coach at Duke University in Durham, N. C., and in addition to his baseball duties, which will require him to get acquainted with incoming freshman diamond prospects, he has charge of the new stadium and must be on the job for the football opener with Pitt on October 5 and also for later games.

Jack Coombs

So Jack will not be present at the diamond derby of 1929, and this means the absence of one of the greatest stars in the history of the post-season fixture. For Coombs holds a record of having won five games without suffering a defeat in world series competition. Herb Pennock, of the Yankees, also has won five and lost none, but he never rose to the distinction of winning three in one series, as did Coombs, Babe Adams, Christy Mathewson and Stanley Coveleskie.

COOMBS pitched three victories for the A's over the Bruins in 1910, and he did it within the narrow span of six days, winning the second, third and fifth games of the series on October 18, 20 and 23. He won his fourth world series game for the Mackmen against the Giants in 1911 and his fifth for the Brooklyn Nationals against the Red Sox in 1916, though he was lifted in the seventh inning of the latter event in favor of Ed Pfeffer.

Coombs and Pennock share the distinction of having won more world series game without being beaten than any other pitcher. Two others have won more victories, Chief Bender and Waite Hoyt being credited with six decisions each, but each also suffered defeat. Mathewson established the record of shutout world series games by hurling four, and also the record for shutouts pitched in one series, blanking the Athletics three times in the blue ribbon of 1905.

JOHN DRESHAR, captain of this year's Carnegie Tech football team, steps into a tough spot for comparisons in succeeding the brainy and brilliant Howard Harpster of last season.

But seemingly no gridiron job comes too big or too difficult for Dreshar. He shines at his new captaincy post just as he has always shone in a playing way at guard and center ever since he entered the Schenley Park school from Bellefonte Academy.

John Dreshar

TO SHOW how well Dreshar is delivering as captain, and demonstrating that the Tartan wearers made a wise choice in picking him as this year's leader, Advisory Coach Wally Steffen expresses the belief that John will prove one of the best captains that Carnegie Tech ever had. Steffen says that aside from Deshar's playing at guard last fall, which was a big asset to the team, it was his great fighting spirit in particular that helped Carnegie to hang up one of the most creditable records in the history of the institution. A man of Dreshar's type is of great value to a gridiron outfit, and Steffen makes no secret of the fact that John's spirit is the foundation upon which he plans to build the morale of the squad this year. Wally has not decided where to play Dreshar. If Alex Ducanis, a plebe of last year, makes the grade at center, Dreshar will play guard. Otherwise the captain will be at center.*

THE Pirates did three things by winning both ends of yesterday's double-header with the Phillies behind the fine pitching of Jess Petty and Ervin Brame. They delayed the clinching of the National League pennant by the Cubs, they kept alive their final chance to get an even break in the season's series with the Quakers, and they strengthened their hold on second place while the Giants were losing to St. Louis.

Second position looks pretty safe. Pittsburgh and New York will not play more than 153 games each, as their postponed game of last Friday here will not be played off, regardless of the standing of the two clubs later. If the Pirates should win only half of their remaining 14 games, the Giants would have to capture 13 of their remaining 15 contests to beat them out.

THE opinion held by many modern ring fans that, though the fight game itself is all right, there are numerous persons in it who would constitute a drawback to any sport, is not a new one. That fact is recalled to veteran fans by the recent death of Eddie Graney, once a famous referee, in California, who often expressed the same view in the old days.

Joe Choynski

Graney often said that fighting was like any other "reputable business," that the sport itself was worthy of support and encouragement at all times, but that "lots of people in it did not belong." "But you'll find the same kind in every game," he was wont to add. "The ring sport itself should not be looked down upon because of them." "Boxing, conducted as it should be, is an upright, healthy sport."

GRANEY, in his younger days a boxer and sparring with many prominent fighters though he always remained an amateur, came into the professional game as chief second for Joe Choynski, former Pittsburgher, when Choynski and Jim Corbett fought their 28-round battle on a barge off Benicia, Cal., on June 5, 1889. Graney always said that that was the greatest fight he had ever seen. Later he was Choynski's manager for a time, and also promoted a number of famous fights in San Francisco.

SINCE Graney's death it has been published that Graney refereed the fight in 1912 in which Willie Ritchie won the lightweight title from Ad Wolgast on a foul, but this is erroneous. Jim Griffin was the referee on that occasion. In the following year, however, Graney refereed the bout in which Ritchie successfully defended the crown by knocking out Joe Rivers in 11 rounds.

Graney was the first referee to walk into an American ring wearing a tuxedo. It was his way of proving that a referee could handle a fight to the satisfaction of the spectators without continually prying the battlers apart. He always maintained that a referee should never touch a fighter, and that they should be broken instead by a mere word of command from the arbiter.

NO DOUBT baseball fans in this district have wondered often in recent years as to the whereabouts of Otto Knabe. Otto once resided in Carrick, where he was born 45 years ago, but after he wound up his baseball career as manager of the Baltimore Federal League club in 1915 he did not return to this section.

Little has been heard of him since, but it develops that he has been making his home in Philadelphia and he has just bobbed up

IZZY IS SAVED BY BELL AT FINISH

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

They fed our Wee Willie Davies, of Charleroi, another "champion" in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, last night, with the usual result—Willie won from here to Heligoland and back again.

Several weeks ago, in the same ring, Davies walloped Frankie Genaro, the National Boxing Association's choice for flyweight champion of the world, and last night his victim was that other alleged "champion," the darling of the New York Boxing Commission, Corp. Izzy Schwartz. It was the fifth time Davies had traded punches with the Corporal, and he turned in his fourth victory against him. And what a victory!

Schwartz won only one round, the third, in which he did some hard hitting with his right fist, and he wound up the fight reeling and groggy and on the floor twice and banged into the ropes twice more in the last round. With the crowd up shrieking hysterically, Davies put on a finish that will live long in memory. The bell came to Izzy's rescue just as he was getting up after a count of eight, after having previously taken one of three.

DAVIES FORCES FIGHT

Throughout the bout, it was Davies who did the forcing. He made the fight, while Izzy, except for a few times when he was spurred on by the cajoling of the referee and the threats of the boxing commission deputy, was content to rely on countering tactics. Davies' bad left eye began to go into mourning in the first two rounds, and was cut open again and bled in the fifth, but his seconds managed to patch it up and it apparently did not bother him any more than it did against Genaro.

As a result of his victory last night, Davies now will appeal to the State Athletic Commission for recognition either as the REAL flyweight champion of the world, which he undoubtedly is, on his record, or at least as the outstanding contender, eligible for the first crack at the two pseudo champions in matches at the flyweight limit of 112 pounds. Last night he outscaled Schwartz, 114¼ pounds to 113¾, but he was forced by Schwartz to come in over the class poundage so that Izzy's so-called title would not be at stake. The commission can make itself solid with the fans who know Davies' worth by getting in back of Willie's pretensions to world supremacy and giving him the sort of a break he deserves. The commission can do a lot for him if it only will.

Schwartz looked as if he might make trouble for Willie in the first two rounds, during which he brought up a long right uppercut time after time to catch Willie coming in. However, once Willie got the range of it, this weapon was of little value to the New Yorker as Davies maneuvered about him and attacked with straight lefts and hooks to the head and body and constantly forced Izzy off balance.

STAGE BLAZING FINISH

Starting the third round, Schwartz tried to heed Referee Al Grayber's injunction to do a bit of the leading and took a pasting for his efforts. Later in the round, however, he nailed Davies with enough solid rights to carry the round, his only one of the fight. Again, in the seventh round, after having been warned, Izzy tried to open up but he looked bad as Davies outboxed him and even slugged him all around the ring. Davies hit him at will in the eighth and ninth and then came the fireworks in the tenth.

Schwartz came out of his corner to take a chance and was making some progress. He caught Davies with a hard right and it seemed as if Willie had decided to play safe with his big lead. Suddenly, however, he cut loose and halted Schwartz with a left and then a right that drove him into the ropes. Izzy dropped down and took a count of three. As he arose, Davies battered him across the ring into the ropes on the other side, where Izzy turned his back and clung onto the strands for support. As he pulled away, Davies forced him into the ropes on still another side of the ring and Izzy frantically sought cover. Then Davies backed

TOMORROW—GREEN CLOUDS.

JACK BRITTON, 43, BOXES AT BUTLER

Ol' Man River Jack Britton, former welterweight champion of the world, aged 43, according to the record books, and probably older than that, but an interesting performer even yet, in spite of his years, will try to "fox" another comparative youngster into defeat tonight when he meets George (TNT) Gibbons, of Cleveland, in the main bout of a show at Armco Field, Butler. It will be Britton's first appearance in these parts in years and a lot of fans are going to see him in action. He has forgotten more about the art of boxing than most of the fellows in the racket ever learn and still can get by with his head against many of 'em.

Francis Flynn will complete his card today for his opening show in the Moose Temple Friday night. He has Young Rudy and Jackie Murray in the 10-round main bout, Jimmy Belmont and Billy Carter in the semi-final and Frank Monroe and Harry Spencer in the second bout.

Frank Monroe also is matched with Nick Martin, of Cleveland, for a 10-round bout at Idora Park, Youngstown, Wednesday night of next week.

MALCO BACK IN RING

Tom Malco, of Soho, who has been on the sidelines for some months, will be one of the principals in the opening bout at McKeesport Thursday night, meeting Howard Williams, Negro, of Swissvale. Young Corsie, of Canton, O., who defeated Johnny Smackey in the same ring last week will meet Andy Andrucel in the second bout and there will be a double windup of two 10-round bouts, featuring Howard Mayberry against Bud Dempsey and Lee Sala against Mickey Fedor.

New Kensington has a new Negro light-heavyweight, K. O. (Florida) Howard, who recently arrived from the South, where he boaster a record of 22 victories in 26 bouts. He would like to box Paul Peroni, Pedlar Palmer, Harry Williams, George Pavlick or any of the other big fellows. Saul Sloan is his manager.

HEAVY PRELIMS BOOKED

Jack Renault and Ernie Schaaf have been matched for the 10-round semi-final to the Victorio Campolo-Phil Scott bout, postponed from tomorrow night to next Monday night, at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn. Lou Barba and Paul Swiderski are in another 10-rounder on the card.

Plans are being advanced for a bout between Max Schmeling and Young Stribling at Miami, Fla., next February. That's where Stribling lost to Jack Sharkey in the big battle that Jack Dempsey put over following the death of Tex Richard.

Boxing Fans Riot Over Decision

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 17. — (AP.)—Displeased with the decision of a draw in the fight between Vince Dundee, of Baltimore, and Abie Bain, of Newark, welterweights, 16,000 fans rioted at the Newark Velodrome last night, causing damage estimated at $1,000. A number of spectators were slightly injured.

The contest was closely fought throughout, with he fans of the opinion Dundee had the better of the battle. The referee, Danny Savage, was escorted from the arena by a squad of police.

BILL HADDOCK RE-ELECTED

Representatives of amateur clubs in the Pittsburgh district assembled at the P. A. A. for the twelfth annual meeting of the Allegheny Mountain Association, A. A. U., last night unanimously re-elected William S. Haddock and John T. Taylor president and secretary-treasurer, respectively.

Haddock, has held the reins of this organization since its birth, and his services rendered in that time have proved him a worth while leader.

After a dinner, the delegates assembled in the gymnasium where a movie was screened, showing races held at the last Olympic games at Amsterdam.

In the Resolutions Committee report, Chairman Ben H. Giffen resolved "that we bring into our fold a new brother" and, with the approval of all the delegates, Frank R. Phillips, vice president of the Philadelphia Company, was made honorary vice president of the Association.

The following vice-presidents, were retained by an a unanimous vote: Henry J. Blum, first vice president; Harry A. Little, second vice president; William H. Simendinger, third vice president, and W. Don Harrison, fourth vice president.

The Registration Committee was kept intact. Haddock nominated the following district commissioners: L. C. Healey, Monongahela Valley; J. C. Ainsworth, Erie, Pa., and Dr. H. A. Heise, Uniontown.

Dr. H. M. Fink, Ralph V. Shinton and William H. Simendinger were appointed delegates at large. Delegaets to the National Convention include William S. Haddock, John T. Taylor, J. Rodgers Flannery, William H. Simendinger, A. C. Couch, and Ben H. Giffen, with L. C. Healey Maj. F. Acker, Ben Bright, J. J. Shannon, and Henry J. Blum as alternates.

TRAPSHOOT TODAY

The sixth one-day tournament and the next to last of the season under the auspices of the Western Pennsylvania Trapshooters' League is being held today at Canonsburg, with the Canonsburg Sportsmen's Association acting as the host.

O'DOUL HALTED BY WANER BROTHERS

None of the Pirates have noted any slumping on the part of Frank O'Doul, the league's leading hitter, but the Waner boys did everything within the law to put the Coast League beau brummel on a sidetrack in the double bill of yesterday.

Frank saw the Waner kids grab two balls that started out like extra base hits as he came up in successive tries in the second game. Brother Paul sprinted toward the stands and snared an O'Doul liner over his shoulder while Brother Lloyd was going like the poney express a little later when he hauled in a prodigious swat to deep center. That's a fine way to treat a native son.

O'DOUL FAVORITE

O'Doul has a lot of fun with the boys of the leftfield bleachers. The fine-looking athlete is a favorite with these loyal supporters, yet they like to "ride" him on general principles. O'Doul enjoys the bantering talk and he offered some good advice to one of two fans when they began to jump on a Pittsburgh player who was meeting with misfortune.

"Don't do that when he's having hard luck," pleaded O'Doul to the rooters. "Never jump on a person when he is down. The time to climb on a fellow is when he is riding the crest and acting cocky. That's the way to cut loose."

BRAVES NEXT

The Braves will be in town tomorrow, the Boston boys to finish out the week in Pittsburgh. The series will start tomorrow with a doubleheader, the first game to start at 1:45.

Chicago newspapers tell of how Rabbit Maranville entertained a holiday throng while the Braves were mixing with the Bears. The fans yelled more for Rabbit's didoes than they did for the fortune of the game. All the while Rabbit starred in the field and made a flock of hits.

Glenn Spencer, polite Binghamton boy, is back with the Pirates after a remarkable season in the Western League. Pitching for the Wichita club, the clever righthander reeled off 24 victories as against only nine defeats. Inasmuch as the Western is supposed to be a "hitter's league" the performance of the Pirate farmhand should be given a lot of consideration by Manager Ens. Spencer showed a lot of stuff in the Spring training period, but he was in need of further seasoning—and apparently he acquired it.

LA ROSE BEATS CORELLI

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Tony LaRose, Cincinnati welterweight, won a decision in 10 rounds here last night from Joe Corelli, Pittsburgh. Johnny Smackey, Canonsburg, Pa., lightweight won a technical knockout over George Ballas, Akron, in the fifth round.

Lloyd Waner To be Married Tonight

Lloyd Waner, Pirates' star centerfielder, and Miss Frances Mae Snyder, of Oakland, will be married this evening at the home of a relative of the bride in Swissvale. A quiet wedding will mark the ceremony, with none but relatives being in attendance.

Brother Paul will be best man for Pee Wee. Mrs. Paul Waner and Ralph Waner, another brother who has spent much time in this city, will be among those present.

The bride-to-be is the charming daughter of Mrs. Lydia Snyder, who owns a flower store in Atwood street, Oakland, and Lloyd and Miss Snyder have been engaged for almost a year.

The honeymoon will be postponed until the end of the baseball season, when they will motor to Lloyd's home in Oklahoma.

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Burleigh Grimes, whose stirring career was rudely interrupted just when he seemed to be on his way to his banner season, will go to Fogarty Knoll this afternoon against the Phillies when the Pirates and their Philadelphia brethren meet in their last game of the season.

Winning two games from the Quakers yesterday, the Pirates were able to sink a tight spike into their second place plank; they are four and one-half games ahead of the Giants, who yesterday lost to the Cardinals.

MAY EVEN UP

The Freebooters have any number of reasons for wishing to throw back the Quakers this afternoon. Take the matter of the season's play between the two clubs, for instance. By winning twice in yesterday's twin bill, the Pirates were able to send their total of successes to 10, yet the Men of Shotton, largely on account of their five victories over the Buccos while the latter were on their recent Eastern invasion, are possessed of a string of 11 victories. So to get a 50-50 deal on the play of the long summer, the home boys must turn in a triumph this afternoon.

The Quakers, on the other hand, are fighting hard to repose in fifth place when the curtain drops. It is a big novely for the Phillies to be out of the cellar and now that they are sure of finishing away from the coal hole, they want to get just as high as possible.

Before the bargain bill got under way, the Phils were leading the second division, but the doubleedged setback forced them back below the Robins. On account of their determination they are likely to be tough hombres this afternoon.

Manager Shotton has several pitchers ready for duty, but the task of working the finale with the Pirates probably will go to Claude Willoughby, ace of the Quaker staff. If Grimes is in shape, the Pirates should be better than an even bet to cop the farewell scrap.

YIELD 10 HITS

Jess Petty and Ervin Brame held the Philly sluggers to a total of 10 safeties yesterday as the Pirates annexed both battles. The invaders gave the Buccos all sorts of trouble in the early fight, they forcing the boys to 10 innings before the decision was given. The scores were 3 to 2 and 5 to 2.

Petty found a southpaw worthy of his armor in Lester Sweetland, who had the misfortune of making a bad toss in the tenth round which set the stage for his defeat. Paul Waner opened with a walk and Traynor bunted. Sweetland wanted to make a play at second and juggled the ball momentarily, then he threw wide to first and the two runners went to third and second. Comorosky was purposely passed, but Hemsley uncorked a long, safe drive to left and Brother Paul tallied the winning run.

Through a long period of the contest Petty retired 19 Quakers in a row, and he yielded only two hits from the first to the tenth. The Silver Fox surely was in rare form after the first round.

GET GOOD START

Adam Comorosky's two-sacker against the scoreboard with the bases filled and one out gave the Pirates a running start in the second game. Aided by infield hits the home team filled up the runways in the opening round, four counters coming over before Harry Smythe could retire the side.

Smythe is the same promising southpaw who gave the Pirates a lot of trouble in Philadelphia. He was taken out in the second in favor of Collins. Dailey and McGraw also turned in a trick of pitching in the nightcap.

Brame was backed by beautiful support, the Waner boys cutting deeply into the basehit production of the invaders by making a series of whirlwind captures.

WAYNESBURG PRIMED FOR GRIDIRON CLIMB

JACKETS SURE BET TO TOP '28 RECORD

(This is the sixth of an annual series of special articles, written by Jess Carver, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph football writer, dealing with the prospects of tri-state district elevens. The article on Washington and Jefferson, with photos of the Presidents in action, will appear in Thursday's issue.)

By JESS CARVER

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Sept. 17.—Unless all sign fail, a right healthy rift is due to appear in the dismal clouds that obscured Waynesburg College's football vision last season. The Yellow Jacket campaign of 1928 will go down as the worst in the history of the school. Not a game was won, two were tied and only one touchdown was scored, seven points in all being the Jacket point total for the year.

But things are looking up a bit for hard-working Frank Wolf, Jacket mentor, and, while Waynesburg probably will NOT have a world-beater this year, it will be a team not to be taken with impunity.

DICK TOLINE LOST

Waynesburg's most serious loss from last year's squad was Dick Toline, as fine an end as ever played football among the minor elevens in this district, and one of the outstanding stars of last fall. Williams, another fine wing, and McCurdy, hard-hitting back, also have passed along. That means inexperience at the terminals, a bad place to be weak, and it also means that a new backfield combination must be developed.

Aided by Steve Day, former Wash.-Jeff. quarterback, Coach Wolf is striving manfully to whip his Jackets into shape. He has been handicapped most severely so far by early season injuries, one of which took from him a potential halfback star in Jerry Nyhlan. Jerry suffered a broken leg when he was tackled while running back a punt.

As a whole, Waynesburg will be able to boast a hefty team, especially on the line. Such veterans as Sammy Smith, captain; Decker, Boyd, Wiley, Ambrose, Pettitt and Shriver are no paperweights. Capt. Smith is a good tackle, both on the offense and defense. Decker and Boyd are good, and with their experience, are bound to hold up what new men Coach Wolf is forced to use on his forward wall.

The backfield, when it is finally selected, will be a better offensive weapon than last year, and if it can perfect a defense against the forward pass, a department in which it was woefully weak in 1928, is pretty certain to get by.

THE ENDS

Yonosh, a 185-pounder, appears to be the best end on the squad. His main forte is his tackling, which is deadly and crushing. If anyone is to arise this fall to take Toline's place, it will be Yonosh.

Porter, a letterman, who has had backfield experience; Cauette, a tall, rangy fellow of no little promise and Patsch, another veteran, are the others who will see service at the wings. Porter, the more experienced, appears to have first call, though it will be difficult to keep Cauette out of a place when he finds out what it is all about.

THE TACKLES

Sammy Smith will appear at his old position at right tackle for the Jackets if he continues to show the dash and class he has in the drills to date, but the position at the other side of the line remains open. Decker, a veteran, has been used there some, but Wolf and Day seem to figure on putting Dec at one of the guards. If Bob Wiley, a hefty 195-pound lad, comes through, the shifting of Decker can definitely be made. Elliott, another chap who can play either guard or tackle; Shaw, Pettitt and Ambrose are others being pointed for the position.

THE GUARDS

The alignment of the guards depends a great deal on the tackle situation. Granted that Decker can be transferred, he and Tom Boyd will give the Jackets a powerful combination at the center of the line. Kolycheck, a freshman; Shriver, a holdover from last year; Swanson, another freshman; young Ace Wiley, another new man and Ambrose and Elliott complete the guard squad.

THE CENTER

Waynesburg has a unique situation at center. There was no letter awarded for the position last year, and consequently, no outstanding candidate for the job this fall. Millerson, a freshman, weighing better than 175, appears to be the best looking prospect for the job. He'll have to improve his passing, but his defensive play is up to snuff.

Harshman, who played part of the time last year, and Avery, another freshman, are other candidates offering some promise for the position.

THE BACKFIELD

The final makeup of the backfield hardly will be known until the team has been under fire in one or two games. About the only position that is set is the quarterback post, where DeMoise, a sophomore, is getting the call. DeMoise has shown considerable ability as a ball carrier and passer, and his directorial powers are above the average.

Costello and LaFrano, the latter a veteran, are a likely looking set of halves. They are not set in the position by any means, for Porter, Ware, Rollonson, Owens, Murphy, Cook and Patterson are pressing them hard for the berths.

Burgeson, a good kicker and showing fine ball carrying ability, is getting the call at fullback. If he comes through, LaFrano will be left at half; if not, the latter will be shifted to fullback, where he has had more or less experience.

Costello, who'll do most of the passing when he is in there, is an accurate heaver and no slouch as a ball toter.

SCHEDULE DIFFICULT

The Yellow Jacket schedule, while not the toughest in the world, will be difficult enough for Wolf's varsity. St. Vincents, where football is making a comeback, will open the season Saturday. Then will come the hardest battle of the year, that with Pitt in the Stadium in Pittsburgh.

Following this game, Indiana Teachers will furnish the Jackets with certain tough opposition as a final preliminary to the opening game on the Tri-State Class B Conference schedule. The Conference race opens with the Jackets meeting Thiel at Greenville, October 12.

The next Saturday is permanently open, but October 26, Waynesburg plays Bethany at Bethany and follows a week later with a game at Grove City with the Crimson.

On Armistice Day, Geneva will entertain the Jackets at Beaver Falls, and Allegheny will be at home to the Greene Countians, November 16. The season will come to a close with the Jackets appearing in Pittsburgh Thanksgiving Day morning for the annual clash with the Dukes.

Frank Wolf is head coach, this being his second year on the job. He is being assisted by Steve Day, former Wash-Jeff quarterback, and by Dick Toline, crack end of last year's eleven.

The Jackets will wear orange jerseys with black rosin pads, black and gold striped socks and tan helmets.

And, of course, they hope to wear as few bandages as possible.

CULLEN NAMED COACH

BUTLER, Sept. 17.—Dave Cullen, all-conference guard of the Geneva College eleven in 1926 and 1927, and Captain-elect of the squad in 1928, has been named as assistant mentor to Coach Regis Heinzer at Butler High School. Cullen acted as assistant coach at Geneva last year when he was declared ineligible, according to the conference ruling.

PLAY NO. 14.

Edwards, of Pittsburgh, in a game against Case, makes a forward pass over the line to Parkinson, but the toss only touches the tips of Parkinson's fingers. However, before the ball strikes the ground Williams of the same team grabs the ball in the air and is downed by Weppner. The play shows a gain of 12 yards.

What is the correct ruling?

ANSWER.

The umpire rules that the pass is incompleted and the ball goes back to the point from where it was snapped and is counted as a down. Whenever an eligible player of the passer's side touches the ball he only of his side may recover it unless it has touched another player of the defending side.

SCRAMBLE FOR LOOSE BALL

him into Willie's own corner and blazed away until Izzy went down a second time. This time he took a count of eight, the last five on one knee, looking over the situation, while Davies was waiting eagerly for him to try to get up so he could get at him again. Just as Schwartz arose the bell clanged and ended the fight and another clean-cut conquest for the popular Welshman.

GIZZY LACES LUPICA

Rain began descending as the main bout ended and the semi-final, put on later, was fought in a constant drizzle. It saw Young Gizzy, of Donora, 132 pounds, hand Sammy Lupica, of Toledo, 131¾, a pasting all the way except in the seventh round, despite the fact that Gizzy fought the last half-dozen rounds with a bad right hand and had to rely almost exclusively on his left. Lupica was merely a punching bag. They started at a terrific clip, and staged several slugging bees thereafter, but in the main the contest was featured by Lupica's ability to assimilate punishment and his clowning tactics.

Joey Katkish, of Lawrenceville, 125½ pounds, won all the way against Bobby Burns, of Swissvale, 123¾, in the second bout of six rounds. Katkish accidentally hit Burns low, but failed to hurt him, in the third round, and the referee halted the bout, despite the fact that Burns did not protest, and gave him a rest of a few minutes. Toward the end Burns did little more than strive to last the limit.

Cowboy DeLuca, of Lawrenceville, 147 pounds, received an unearned decision of the judges over Young Joe Walcott, Negro, of Washington, Pa., 143, in the six-round opener. Walcott floored DeLuca in the second round and finished strong in the last two rounds to merit an edge. The referee voted for a draw.

RED ROBINSON BACK

Al Grayber refereed the main and first bouts and Red Robinson, just back from a season of umpiring in the Mid-Atlantic Baseball League, handled the other two. The judges were Joe Keally and Jock Simco. Ray Eberle was the announcer. A near-capacity crowd turned out despite the threatening weather.

Aces, Grays Cop Sandlot Games

The Homewood Aces, Greater Pittsburgh League champions, won their way to the final of the elimination series by defeating Immaculate Heart, 7 to 2, last evening.

At New Kensington, George Britt held the Buicks to two hits and shut out the local club, the Homestead Grays winning by a 3-to-0 score.

30 of Kiski's 40 Gridders Are Backs

The science of shifting football players into new positions on the team and making stars of them there is credited with having been one of the greatest factors in the success of Jim Marks at Kiski. Out of a field of more than 40 grid candidates who turned out yesterday at Kiski for the first practice, Marks and Coach Bob Mitinger found 30 star backfield men on their hands. Some of them, Marks said after the first lineup, are the most promising looking backs seen at Kiski in recent years.

Many of them are last year's high school captains. There are James Simms, Monongahela High captain; Thomas Harper, New Castle High captain; Joseph Pollock, Jeannette High captain, and Wayne Carey, another of Jeannette's fine performers last year; D. H. Wetzel, son of Buz Wetzel, Cleveland baseball scout; Loraine Diehl, Bethlehem High halfback; George Charlesworth, a fleet-footed back on the Youngwood High team; Robert Irwin, a brother of Al Irwin at Tech; William Potts, a Greensburg High fullback; John Blissman, from the famous Hurst High team at Greensburg, and Norman James, an all-around athlete whom Jimmy DeHart discovered down in North Carolina.

GUYS DEFEAT HAGERSTOWN

CHARLEROI, Pa., Sept. 17.—Charleroi came back strong yesterday to even the Tri-State championship baseball series by downing Hagerstown, Blue Ridge League titleholder, 11 to 4. Each team has now won one game. The contest was featured by eight home runs and four two-baggers. Seven of the extra base wallops were credited to Charleroi.

Frank Rodgers, center fielder for the Hubs, ran his home run total to four for the two games by bagging two round-trip drives. Guy Shatzer and Al Shealey, of the Blue Ridge champs, also hit for the circuit.

Charleroi hammered the slants of Sam Stremus, Hagerstown southpaw, for 16 safeties, which included four-baggers by Fred Lucas, Bill Pritchard, Fred Divinney and Manager Bobby Rice.

By gathering a total of eight homers, the teams increased their string to 15 for the two games. All of the wallops traveled over the fence and out of the park. The score:

PIRATES POOR HELP TO CUBS

LOCALS HOLD UP CLINCHING OF CROWN

Associated Press.

Jewel Ens' Pirates—rather late to be sure—seem to have determined to give the Chicago Cubs absolutely no help in their chase for the National League pennant.

With the Cubs needing either one victory on their own behalf or a Pittsburgh defeat to clinch the bunting, yesterday, the Pirates were unfeeling enough to take two from the Phillies and thus retain their mathematical chance of nosing out the Cubs, who were held idle by rain.

Beating the Phils twice in one day may not be any great feat for other teams in the league, but to the Pirates, it seemed like a miracle. Before the double bill began the Phils trounced Pittsburgh 11 times in 19 games, only the Giants having a better record against the Corsairs.

GIANTS LOSE

The Pirates' double victory put them four and one-half games in front of the third place Giants, who lost to St. Louis, 5-4, in 11 innings. Fitzsimmons lost control in the eleventh, forced in the tying run when he walked Wilson with the bases filled and then permitted Gelbert to single, driving home the winning tally. Mell Ott hit his thirty-ninth homer of the season, placing him in a tie with Chuck Klein and Hack Wilson for the league leadership.

Boston's Braves pounded Lucas hard and defeated the Cincinnati Reds, 8 to 4. The season's series, however, went to the Reds, 14 games to eight.

In the American League, Cleveland advanced to within five games of the second place Yankees by taking Ruth and Company over the jumps, 4 to 2.

CROWDER HOLDS A'S

Alvin Crowder held the Athletics to two hits and the St. Louis Browns beat the new league champions, 3 to 2. The A's' runs were scored in the fourth when Simmons beat out an infield hit and Foxx rapped out his thirty-third homer.

Washington approached to within a game and a half of fifth place by turning back Detroit, 10-9, in a free-hitting struggle halted by darkness at the end of the eighth inning.

Charley Ruffing had a slight edge on Alphonse Thomas and the Boston Red Sox nosed out Chicago, 4-3. The victory put the Red Sox only four games out of seventh place.

Mack Buys Keesey, Portland Infielder

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Connie Mack loosened his purse strings some more and purchased Jimmy Keesey, first baseman of the Portland Club, Pacific Coast League yesterday. The terms were not announced.

It had been reported that the Pittsburgh Pirates had obtained him in a trade by which Early Sheely was to be sent west in part payment.

STANDARD STEEL WINS

BUTLER, Sept. 17. — Standard Steel won the second half Industrial League baseball crown by defeating the Valvolines, 7 to 5, in a fast game here last evening. The teams will meet in a post- season series to determine the championship of Butler.

BAD NEWS FOR PITT

ALLEN HOLMAN

Star quarterback and ball-carrier of Ohio State last fall, who has been declared eligible for another year of varsity competition for the Buckeyes, thus clearing up his status, which has been in dispute since the close of last season. His return greatly enhances the prospects of Ohio State, and should make the eleven a tougher foe for Pitt in their battle in the Stadium here.

CANTON WINS SERIES

QUINCY, Ill., Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Canton, winner of the Central Baseball League title, won the post-season series with Quincy, Ill., Three Eye League champion, by defeating the Quincy team yesterday, 5 to 2.

It was Canton's fourth victory. Quincy won two games. Pornorski held the Three Eye champions to six hits while his teammates were gathering eight from Newton. The score by innings:

Quincy 020 000 000	2	6	0

Otto Knabe

KNABE began to play professional ball at Colorado Springs in the Western League in 1905. Later in the same season he went to Pueblo, was drafted by Pittsburgh and played third base for the Pirates during the closing stages of the 1905 season. He was sent to Toledo in 1906, and in 1907 was transferred to the Philadelphia Nationals, ousting Kid Gleason from his job at second base. Knabe was the Phils' regular second baseman until 1912, and was one of the "gentle" boys of his time. A base-runner had a fine gauntlet to run around the Quaker infield, made up of Bransfield, Knabe, Doolan and Courtney, Ward, Santelle or Walsh. He was lucky if he got home in one piece. Old-timers wonder how far Art Shires and some of the other cocky youngsters of today would have been able to carry their stuff against Knabe.

DUKES PRIMED FOR OPENER SATURDAY

To say that every man is not on his toes in the Duquesne University camp up on the Bluff where the Dukes have been training in preparation for the opening game Saturday would be to grossly mislead. For Head Coach Elmer Layden's wearers of the Red and Blue are highly primed and waiting for the whistle Saturday.

All of the men are looking well and both of Capt. Buff Donnelli's kicking legs are functioning beautifully. He will probably better his record of 56 yards on an average set last year.

While the inauguration of the local grid season by the Dukes Saturday will decide or at least gauge their 1929 prospects, it will probably prove at the same time that Coaches Layden and Bach have done an admirable piece of work with some mighty fine material.

W. & J. SQUAD TAKES SHAPE

WASHINGTON, Pa., Sept. 17.—With the beginning of this week of grid practice at Washington and Jefferson College, Coaches Ray Ride and Bill Amos are beginning to get a line on the varsity crew which they will offer for public approval in the opening game of the season, September 28, at College field. Ohio Northern will bring its 1929 grid machine here for the lid lifting combat.

College will open here tomorrow, so it is safe to predict that in the first two days of the week the W. & J. gridders will get in some gruelling work, as after the opening of college but one drill is held daily. While the varsity eleven has been changed almost every day in scrimmage sessions with the rFeshman outfit, it seems to be gradually assuming a definite shape, with the majority of berths held down by Sophomore recruits.

MORE SCRIMMAGING

CAMP HAMILTON, WINDBER, Pa. Sept. 17.—Another scrimmage is the main item in today's program for Pitt's Golden Panthers. The team is rounding into shape steadily, and it is felt another tussle will continue the improvement.

Yesterday's battle featured Josh Williams in a 70-yard run. With Daugherty clearing the way, the Mars flash went off tackle and continued on up the field for a score. The interference and timing of the plays were much improved.

The varsity lined up with Donchess and Loehr ends; Tully and McMurde tackles; Dimeolo and Montgomery guards; Daughtery center; Baker quarterback, Williams and Uansa halfbacks; Parkinson fullback. After they had scored four or five touchdowns on the stubborn fresh, a second team made up of Collins and Tommins ends; Quatse and Corson tackles; Milligan and Lewis guards; Barnes center; Edwards quarterback; Walinchus and Rooney halves; and Hood fullback relieved them.

YERINA FIGHTER

A stout heart keeps Andy Yerina, of Claridge, Pa., fighting for a regular berth on the varsity team of Carnegie Tech as the Tartans enter the final stage of their preliminary drills in preparation for the lid-lifting contest against Bethany at Wheeling, September 28.

The fact that Yerina is up against such men as John Highberger and Bob Schmidt, left overs of last year's powerful aggregation, has not disheartened him. With the training season some 10 days to go, the Claridge gridder has high hopes of crowding out one of the veterans of the team.

BIG SANDLOT GRID CARD SUNDAY

By TOM BIRKS.

With three big battles carded for this week end, the second week of independent football is expected to go over with a bang. West View meets the Jeannette A. C., East Pittsburgh Firemen clash with South Greensburg and the McKeesport Olympics, in their second game, battle the Hill Top A. C., of Greensburg. The tilts will be played at West View, Rainbow Gardens and the Quarry grounds.

This week will naturally get the fans all excited, for after quite a number of satisfying workouts, Manager Paul Muzzio will present for the fans' approval his 1929 edition of the independent champions, West View. Stanley Berkman, playing quarterback, was a 10-strike, and critics watching the club in action last Sunday say that the famous Red and Black will probably repeat. Jeannette comes well boosted, and Muzzio will take nothing for granted. The first appearance of the champions will probably tax the seating capacity of the park. Muzzio wants to repeat, and he knows that the competition this season is going to be keen.

FIREMEN STRONG

Fans around Turtle Creek Valley will have an opportunity to watch Tommy Connelly's club flash its stuff against South Greensburg. The Firemen barely nosed out the Generals last season. The writer watched Coach McNunn put them through their paces last Sunday, and there seemed to be much good material in the record squad. Goltay was in great shape, and, with Wambaugh as a running mate, he should have a good season.

Coach Bill Sullivan of the Olympics had the boys out last evening, and is straightening out the mistakes of the Pleasant Valley game. Bull Boyer and Sullivan were anything but satisfied with some of the plays, and strenuous workouts are to be held this week. The Hill Tops are coached by Chuck McHenry, assistant coach of Hurst High last season, and, after watching the Olympics in action last Sunday, they feel they can beat the Black and White.

McNERY HAS TALENT

McNery has some fine talent, the positions being wide open and fought for. McFarland or Demata will start at fullback, Woodward or Carr will call the signals, Demato and Decker will start at end, while, with Henderson and Martin, the other stalwarts, in the line, the Olympics' offense should have a tough time. It would appear that followers of the independent gridiron will have plenty of football to get elated about Sunday. The lineups will prove interesting reading.

Port Vue will open at home September 29. The grounds have been leveled in and Mike Fogan will probably be the booking manager again. While Manager Hector Kennedy, of McChesneytown, did intend to open September 28 at home, there is a chance that the big red machine from Latrobe will open Saturday at home. The team has come along fast, Kennedy says, and a game will give him a chance to get a better slant on his newcomers.

Comiskey Plans To Rebuild White Sox

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—The Tribune in a copyrighted story quoted Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox, as declaring he personally would assume responsibility for rebuilding the club in such a way that it would be "up there" among the leaders next season.

Comiskey, who is 70 years old, has been in poor health for three years. Most of this summer he has been at his Eagle River, Wis., camp, and he told the Tribune reporter that he now feels able to take an active part in developing his ball club.

He declined to discuss the question of managership. "It is sufficient to say there will be many changes in our personnel before the opening of next season," he stated.

Favorites Capture Morgantown Tilts

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Sept. 17.—(AP.)—The first round of the annual invitation tennis tournament of the Morgantown Country Club was played off here yesterday with very few upsets.

B. F. Arkle, of Wheeling, Western Maryland champion, defeated R. R. Chrisman, Morgantown, in two easy sets, 6-0, 6-1.

Robert Brown, Elkins, West Virginia intercollegiate champion, defeated Albert Strimer, Fairmont, 7-5, 6-2, and E. N. Flowers, Clarksburg, defeated Lieut. P. N. Strong, Morgantown, 6-2, 6-2.

Carl McDonald, Elkins, Tygarts Valley champion, fell before C. E. Hodgez of Morgantown, 8-6, 2-6, 6-3.

Ned Ragland, Beckley, won from E. T. Heck, Spencer, 6-2, 6-1. William Williams, Charleston, defeated Eldon Tucker, Morgantown, 6-0, 6-1. Hugh D. Pickett, Fairmont, defeated Jack Zevely, Morgantown, 6-3, 6-0 and Herbert Levis, Buffalo, former Canadian junior champion, defeated Lieut. R. M. McCutcheon, Morgantown, 6-4, 6-1.

Dr. W. H. McGaw, Morgantown, H. Koblegard and Wilhelm Weber, Clarksburg and H. F. Fredericks, Wheeling, drew byes on the first round.

BIG TEN TEAMS IN DRILLS

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—(INS.)—Six hundred and twenty-five football candidates, the largest turnout in the history of Western Conference football, lined up today for their second workout of the season somewhat stiff of muscle, but willing nevertheless.

At Illinois, Coach Bob Zuppke was greeted with 70 prospective warriors among them being Forrest (Frosty) Peters, dropkick artist who at first said he would not return to school. A long signal drill started the men to work for a possible third straight Big Ten title.

Allen Holman, sensational Ohio State quarterback, was declared eligible as a fitting greeting for Sam Willaman, the new Buckeye coach. Eighty-five candidates appeared in uniforms for the first workouts yesterday.

Gridders Start Drill At Arnold School

Arnold School began its regular fall football practice today. Ten men already have received some training at the preliminary practices of last week.

Athletic Director C. H. Hubbard has seven stars from last year's first team ready. Capt. Nelson, who starred consistently last season, will continue in his position at guard. Other holdovers are Charles Reppert, end; Dick McClintic, end; John Miller, tackle; Ben Cooper, guard; Tom Meredith, guard, and Dick Bennett, halfback.

The fall schedule will include Western Reserve Academy at Hudson, O. The opening game will be with Edgewood High School, October 4.

Fairmont M. A. Club Loser Financially

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Sept. 17.—While no official statement has been given out as to just how much money was lost by the local Middle Atlantic League Club this season, it is known that it was a large amount, variously estimated from $4,000 to $7,000. It was the most disastrous season financially in the history of Middle Atlantic League baseball here.

There is little talk of plans for next season, although this does not indicate Fairmont may give up its franchise in the league. It is probable that Fairmont will have a team next year if the league is continued.

NEW CASTLE SHOW OFF

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Sept. 17.—Because of a heavy rain last night the bouts at Jolly Bowl were postponed until September 30. Willie Michel, Belgian champ, is booked to fight Fay Kosky 10 rounds in the main bout. It was planned to stage the match tomorrow night, but Kosky is booked in Toledo that night.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Sept. 17.—The Mickey Solmen-Joe Colombo boxing show scheduled here last night was postponed until tonight on account of rain.

Cubs' Offices Swamped With Requests

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—(INS.)—Applications for 200,000 tickets to the Cubs' world series have been made thus far in the advance sale, swelling the office here with $1,200,000 in certified checks and money orders, William Veeck, president, announced today.

Names of the lucky applicants, according to plans, will be drawn from the bag either late this week or the early part of next week.

South Penn Gets Penn Mex Dividend

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE South Penn Oil Company will receive $220,000 as its share of the dividend of $1 a share declared yesterday by the Penn Mex Fuel Corporation. South Penn holds 55 per cent of the 400,000 shares of Penn Mex. The dividend, which is payable September 30, is the first distribution of profits to be made this year by this Mexican subsidiary.

The Penn Mex dividend is equivalent to 18 cents a share on the 1,200,000 shares of South Penn stock now outstanding.

Last year Penn Mex paid a total of $2 a share following the development of an important producing area in the Alamo district of Mexico and the settlement of litigation which had tied up the property for over two years.

Payment Irregular

PENN MEX has never established a regular dividend basis. The rather wide fluctuations in its operating conditions have led to a policy of paying dividends as earnings warrant. Directors were unwilling to state whether or not there is a possibility of further payments being made before the end of this year.

As has been said previously in this column, the South Penn Oil Company will report a sharp increase in its profits this year as a result of higher average prices for Pennsylvania crude oil and increased production.

Pipe Lines Consolidated

THE recently announced consolidation of South Penn's pipe line activities with those of the Tide Water interests is expected to have a beneficial effect on the future profits of the local company. The lines have been operated since September 5 by the Bradford Transit Company, a jointly controlled organization.

The results of this consolidation of operations will not be particularly manifest in profits this year, but should be reflected to a more pronounced extent next year. The fruits of the 1929 drilling campaign will also be more noticeable in 1930 although the price of Pennsylvania crude is always one of the most important factors in shaping the trend of South Penn's earnings.

American Window Glass

THAT the new equipment installed by the American Window Glass Company at its Arnold plant is revolutionary in design was made known yesterday following the lighting of the furnace which gives employment to 500 men.

In an effort to meet the severe competitive conditions which have burdened the glass industry, the company has done something never before attempted. The capacity is the greatest of any glass furnace ever built. In full production it will make about 4,500 boxes of glass in 24 hours. It can draw glass up to 84 inches in width in a continuous flat sheet.

The furnace was designed by officials of the company and the machines were made in Pittsburgh from plans prepared by the company.

Fuel Consumption Reduced

THE installation is such that it is calculated to produce window glass with less consumption of fuel per box of glass than was ever attained by any glass process in any country in the world. In addition the labor cost will be extremely low.

Some idea of the capacity of this installation in comparison with the cylinder process may be gathered from the fact that this furnace with 13 machines will produce almost as much glass as was formerly produced at that factory with two furnaces equipped with 24 cylinder machines.

Experiments at Belle Vernon

THE present installation follows the making of experiments at Belle Vernon. The company's first sheet-drawing machines were installed at that point. All except one, which was used for experimental purposes, followed more closely the design of existing installations in use by other companies.

BIG BUSINESS NEEDS HEADS OF NEW TYPE

One-Man Concern, With Boss a Bully, Giving Way To Scientific Leadership

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—The success of new corporate mergers depends mainly on the character of the manpower at the top.

Modern conditions require a new type of leadership in business—a more intellectual, scientific stewardship. The new leader must not only be open to new ideas, but must possess a capacity for stimulating team play on the part of his associates. The one-man concern, with the boss a bully, is passing, and the co-operative enterprise, led by scholarly, scientific managers, is coming to the fore.

A principal organization of the modern type of business manager is the Taylor Society, which has just formulated the principles of "scientific management in American industry." H. S. Person, managing director of the Taylor Society, in setting forth the qualities of the new leadership in American business, pointed out:

QUALITIES OF LEADER

"Leadership is not passive; it is an active composite ability to induce (not impose) understanding, conviction, desire and action in a manner which leaves no disturbing impression of the mechanics of the induction. Every executive is a leader of a sort, but successfully to achieve a development of scientific management in an enterprise he must be that type known as a creative leader; one under whose leadership those purposes and objects will find most ready reception at the hands of those led which can most readily be seen by them to square with their own desires or with desires which they can quite readily and naturally take up as their own. As leader he must have energy, enthusiasm, imagination, intelligence, technical knowledge, knowledge of human nature, faith in people; and qualifying all these, a special quality of sympathetic interest toward those led.

"Not only must he manifest characteristics in his relations with those major associate executives with whom he has immediate contact, but also he must inspire all of them to desire and learn how to become creative leaders in the relations with their immediate associates. The more creative the leadership at the top, the more creative, although of course, not uniformly so, will leadership become all along the line."

The very best chief executives have not desired to work for a straight salary. They have desired to share in the results. Walter Chrysler, for example, insisted on doing this—much to his own gain.

As distinguished owners of business properties, the Du Ponts, of Wilmington, have pondered the problem of attracting the ablest managers. Their formula has been appeal to the economic self-interest of men by giving them a stake in profits. They have believed strongly in managerial ownership, and have aided their important executives to buy substantial blocks of stock in the employing corporation. This plan has redounded greatly to the success of E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co., and also of the General Motors Corporation. Besides helping the significant executives, the Du Ponts have encouraged ordinary workers to buy income-producing property.

LEADERS DEVELOPED

Sketching progress in management, Mr. Person added: "For the reason that in American industry most leadership at the top has been creative in the era of its inception and promotion of enterprise, rather than in the eras of organization of facilities and processes for economical achievement of components of the ultimate purpose—the natural result of a pioneer industry with its dominant sellers' market and environment of opportunism, there are not many cases of the all-round development of scientific management throughout the whole of an enterprise.

Top leadership, which alone can initiate such developments, has not focussed its attention on that problem. But throughout American industry are many instances of the development of scientific management, under the leadership of subdepartmental executives, in the departments of an enterprise for which they have responsibility. While top leadership has been busy with creative effort in the field of promotion and finance, departmental leadership has found its opportunity to become creative in that portion of the area representing organization of facilities and processes pertaining to its department. When in the course of time these departmental managers have carried their departmental experiences to positions of top leadership, the transformation of entire enterprise will become more frequent.

"In addition to such leaderships as may come to individual workers in individual plants because of functional responsibilities there is evidence which gives reasonable warrant for the expectation of an attitude toward scientific management on the part of labor organizations which promise a gradual acceptance by them of a position of indorsement and leadership in its development."

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Bullish operations were resumed with vigor on the Curb Exchange today, again centering in the utilities, in response to the firmer undertone with which stocks began the week yesterday, after last week's persistent heaviness. When the call money rate was raised to 9 per cent in the early afternoon, however, there was some uneasiness over a posible pinch in the money market as the income tax checks are returned to the banks for payment, and there was a marked tendency to take profits at the higher levels. Some of the earlier gains were lost, and the list once more displayed considerable irregularity.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

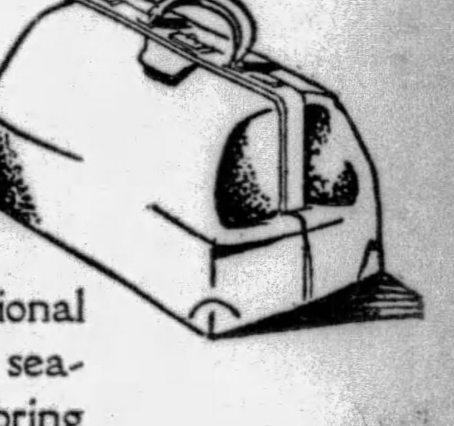
BUSY DAYS at the BANK



Post-vacation days are busy days at the Mellon National Bank. Customers returning from the mountains, the seashore, the lakes, or a trip abroad are dropping in to bring their accounts up to date. Those who left their financial affairs in our hands find there is little to be done . . . interest and dividends have been collected, securities handled with meticulous care. They have enjoyed their vacation free of financial care. They have found that their confidence was well placed.

For many people, October 1, is the beginning of a new year, rather than January 1, at least as far as their financial affairs are concerned. It is a time of year for new investments and re-investments. We shall be glad to submit a list of desirable securities for investment. It is also a time of year for strengthening financial connections. Our New Accounts Bureau will be glad to talk over with you the advantage of having an account at this bank.

MARKET SELLS OFF SHARPLY AFTER RISE

Credit Scare Cause of Set-Back — Bull Operations Resumed in Selected List

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—The stock market began to worry about credit conditions again today and prices sold off sharply after an opening outburst of strength.

Declines in many of the active issues ran from 1 to 6 points, but the selling slowed up in the early afternoon when bullish operations were resumed in a selected list of public utilities and specialties.

Call money renewed at 7½ per cent but advanced to 9 when banks began calling loans. Early estimates of loans called ranged from $25,000,000 to $50,000,000. The stringency was regarded as temporary and attributed to the adjustments following heavy mid-month interest and federal income tax payments. The meeting of the Federal Reserve advisory council today also had a tendency to check bullish enthusiasm because of fears that some action might be taken which would have an adverse influence on the market.

MERGERS DENIED

Except for the official denials of some of the merger rumors now in circulation, including the proposed combination of paint manufacturers, most of the day's business news was favorable in character. Several excellent earnings reports made their appearance, and further stock split-ups were reported to be under consideration, National Investors announcing a 6-for-1 stock split-up.

Public Service of New Jersey was the leader of the public utility group, soaring 6½ points to a new high record at 130¼. Electric Power and Light and Columbia Gas also moved into new high ground. American and Foreign Power rallied from a low of 179 to 187½, where it was up 4½ points above last night's close. American Telephone, American Power and Light, Pacific Lighting and General Public Service sold 3 to 4 points higher.

May Department Stores, Radio and Standard Oil of New Jersey fell 2½ to 3½ points. Anaconda, International Telephone, Allis Chalmers, National Lead and National Cash Register sold down 2 or more points, the last two losing their early gains of about 2 points each.

HUDSON IN DEMAND

Hudson Motors was in brisk demand, rising 3½ points, to the accompaniment of unconfirmed rumors that the company was shortly to introduce an eight-cylinder car. Michigan Steel, Columbian Carbon, Commercial Solvents, Westinghouse Electric first preferred, Air Reduction, Lackawanna and Southern Pacific sold 4 to 6 points higher.

Generally, the market acted tired with price movements irregular and inconclusive. Wall street heard reports that call money would go to 10 per cent or higher before the end of the week.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—The cotton market opened steady today at an advance of 7 to 12 points with the active months showing net gains of 11 to 13 points during the early trading on covering promoted by relatively firm Liverpool cables and bullish private crop advices. December sold up to 18.95c and March to 19.25c, but these prices seemed to attract a little more selling, which came partly from the South, and the market showed reactions of 5 or 6 points from the best by the end of the first half hour.

One private report said returns indicate that the condition of the crop declined 4 points during the first 11 days of September or as much as it usually does during the entire month.

Private cables reported continental buying and covering in the Liverpool market on bullish American crop advices and said there were fair sales of cotton cloths chiefly to India.

The market was quiet later in the morning. The rain news seemed to bring in some buying on the ground that it would interfere with picking and slow up the movement to market, but the buying was supplied by further liquidation combined with a little local and southern selling on advances.

At midday the market was about steady at 18.92c for December and 19.22 for March or 9 to 11 points net higher.

Standard Oil Rumor Kites British Shares

LONDON, Sept. 17.—There were heavy dealings yesterday in British controlled oilfields shares, particularly the preferred, on rumors that the Standard Oil Company had purchased a majority of British Controlled Oildfields' holdings in Venezuela. The Financial Times was officially informed last night that there had been no negotiations with the Standard Oil Company or any other interest. It was stated, however, that "certain non-producing properties of British Controlled Oilfields have been the subject of negotiations and are included in a provisional contract of sale, but matters have not yet reached a stage to justify a statement."

WESTERN DIPS ON PROFIT TAKING

Stock Sags Under Selling Attracted by Yesterday's Rise to New High Record

Western Public Service ran into a little profit-taking on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange during the early trading today, but the stock absorbed the selling with only a moderate recession.

Both Western Public and Lone Star were unchanged on the opening, but when the offerings of the former appeared its price sagged a point or so while Lone Star held relatively firm around the initial quotation. Arkansas Gas also sagged off a point but there was no news to account for the dip. However, the offerings of Arkansas was light. In the recent excitement caused by the advances in Lone Star and Western Public, Arkansas remained very quiet and its fluctuations for the entire week was only a fraction.

Industrial stocks developed conspicuous strength as the session progressed. Blaw Knox came into the market unchanged and moved up about 2 points. The rights appeared in the list at $2. Harbison Walker shot up 3 points as bids uncovered a scarcity of stock for sale.

International Rustless Iron was admitted to unlisted trading privileges and dealings started around noon. The stock sold at 5¼, up a half point from last night's closing sale in the outside market.

Production of refined lead in the United States and Mexico during August totaled 85,258 tons, compared with 91,563 tons in July. Output of crude lead in August was 78,748 tons versus 84,436 in July and of antimonial 2,364 tons versus 734.

STANDARD OIL WILL BUILD

BEAVER, Pa., Sept. 17.—The Standard Oil Company broke ground yesterday for a refinery in Industry Township near Midland. The refinery will be erected on the Bray and McMasters farms and a part of the Stephen Rodgers farm, which gives an outlet to the river.

Approximately $200,000 was expended for the property on which the plant will be erected. Rapid progress is also being made on the construction of a new pipe line from Negley, O., for the pumping of Pennsylvania crude.

Mid-Continent crude will be piped from lines crossing the Ohio River at Smith's Ferry, Pa.

The Texas Oil Company recently completed the construction of a bulk station at Bridgewater.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Sept. 17. — Rallying power developed strongly in the wheat market today after reports of copious rains throughout the Argentine drought region had pitched prices down to the lowest level since July 13, last. Today's bottom quotations were nearly 10c a bushel under last week's top figures. Subsequent rallies were largely owing to U. S. Department of Agriculture advices that the world's 1929 wheat yield was estimated at about 500,000,000 bushels less than last year. Besides, indications today were that yesterday's heavy selling of wheat was on the part of speculators anticipating a decline rather than by large holders.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—The raw sugar market was quiet early today and no sales were reported. No cables were received from the committee thus far in regard to bids solicited, but uncontrolled sugars were available at 4.02c delivered with refiners showing no interest.

Raw futures opened unchanged to 2 points lower with active positions later showing net losses of 1 to 3 points under liquidation and selling by houses with European and Cuban connections. There were 361 September notices issued and the circulation of these caused considerable liquidation in the near months, while there may also have been some selling on the increased offerings in the spot market and the disappointing showing of the London market. Shorts covered on the decline and prices rallied partially later, although trading on the whole was not very active and the market at midday was a point above the lowest level of the forenoon.

The withdrawal demand for refined was fair, but new business was light and prices were unchanged at 5.40c for fine granulated.

Rails Called "Safer" Than Other Stocks

By B. C. FORBES

FEWER fireworks have been displayed in the railway division than in the industrial division of the stock market lately. Advances have been less spectacular—and so have declines.

There is more investment and less speculation in rails. In responsible, conservative financial circles good railway stocks are regarded as safer than industrials, as a class.

Indeed, many bankers and wealthy investors feel that, if the bull market continues, the rails should do better than other stocks. The extremely important O'Fallon decision has not yet borne any considerable fruit for railway treasuries. But that valuable results will by and by flow from that favorable ruling is not doubted in the slightest by those fitted to form authoritative judgments.

ALTHOUGH the average quotation of railway shares listed on the New York Stock Exchange has advanced 6 points since the end of July there have been losses as well as gains, indicating that the "selective process," of which we hear so much, has apparently been going on in the rail list as well as elsewhere.

It is interesting to note the more notable changes in rail quotations in the last six weeks, the first table picture the gains, the second table the losses.

PUBLIC utility fluctuations suggest that nervousness has developed. True, advances continue to outnumber declines, but the latter in some instances have been very severe. Insull issues have fared worst. From the year's peak Commonwealth Edison has tumbled 100 points, Midwest Utilities 60 and Insull Utilities 57. One or two of the Morgan sponsored combinations have also lately lost ground, including Commonwealth and Southern, which broke all records for activity after it was introduced on the curb this summer.

The acquisition by Morgan of extensive power properties along the New York-Canadian border reveals that America's premier banking house is bent upon swelling its already gigantic power holdings. Other far-reaching realignments of utility ownership are also pending.

Thus, it may be that, sensational although the rise in many utilities has been, the excitement may continue for some time.

THIS table brings out, first, notable gains, and, second, some of the more significant losses since the end of July.

THE liveliest division of the whole market is rapidly coming to be the newest type of issue of them all, investment trusts, they call for separate attention.

Number of Ford Employes Lower

Increased efficiency at the Ford plants enabled the company to make new high domestic production records for Model A cars and AA trucks in August with output of about 180,000 units against 132,078 in January, when employment was at the peak.

Southern Utility Passes Dividend

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 17.—The New Orleans Public Service Company, controlled by Electric Power and Light Corporation, took no action on the common dividend of 51½ cents due at this time, but declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the preferred stock, payable October 1 to record September 17.

Improved Net for Loft, Inc., In Half

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Loft, Inc., reports for six months ended June 30 profit was $403,403 after expenses but before depreciation and Federal taxes, comparing with profit of $249,795 in the first half of 1928.

Union Pacific Orders 48,000 Tons Rails

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Union Pacific Railroad has ordered 48,000 tons of steel rails and 15,000 tons of fittings from the U. S. Steel Corporation and Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, at a cost of $3,000,000.

SCRAP MARKET SHOWS SLUMP

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 17.—Due to more plentiful supplies, steel scrap is developing an easier market tone, and prime heavy melting material may be purchased for $18.50 to $18.75, comparing with a recent market of $19. Dealers are able to pick up material freely at $18, and the tendency is toward a lower market. Melters have felt for some time that scrap was out of line. Hydraulically compressed sheets are likewise down 25 cents per ton.

Better deliveries are now possible on steel than at any time in the past six months. This is due to completion of orders on mill books and the receipt of new business in lower ratio than shipments.

Improvements to its Warren plant by Republic Iron and Steel are designed to afford an outlet for excess steel supply. Mechanical tubing mill, for example, will consume strips. At its Warren plant, Republic is planning additional specialized strip capacity. Company is producing heavy strip orders for rim stock for Ford Motor and other car builders.

Youngstown Pressed Steel Company at Warren has received a number of important orders from makers of electric washing machines for pressed steel parts.

Inland Steel Co. Prices Unchanged

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Formal announcement by Inland Steel Company of fourth quarter prices of bars, shapes and plates shows no change from prevailing quotations. It is expected that other large independents will follow.

Consumers Plans To Increase Capital

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Consumers Company has called a special stockholders meeting for September 30, to vote on an increase in the $5 par value common stock from 1,000,000 shares to 3,000,000 debentures, also to act upon the question of authorizing the issuance of warrants to purchase common stock with the debentures or with subsequent issuances of the prior preference cumulative stock.

Stuyvesant Peabody, president, in a letter to stockholders states that the company has plans for greatly expanding its business and it is therefore desirable that the capital structure be amended so that it may issue and sell additional securities to enable it to consumate such transactions as may be deemed advisable.

Members Reduce Loans at Reserve

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Borrowings from Federal Reserve banks by weekly reporting member banks decreased $59,000,000 in the week ended September 11. Net demand deposits increased $99,000,000, while loans on securities declined $105,000,000 dollars in the New York district and $54,000,000 dollars at all banks.

CANADA, BRITAIN PLAN TRADE

LONDON, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—The Daily Herald today said that it had ground for believing that one of the main purposes of the recent visit to Canada of J. M. Thomas, lord privy seal and minister of unemployment, was to investigate a plan relating to the exchange of Canadian wheat for British coal.

It was said the scheme involved huge purchases of Canadian wheat and the erection of elevators in Great Britain, as well as the construction of a fleet of ships and reciprocal action on the part of Canada in the purchase of British coal.

Mr. Thomas, in a wireless message to the Herald from the steamship Duchess of Athoil, on which he is now returning to England, said:

"Have had a very strenuous time. The only object of my mission was how I could find work for British unemployed without injury to Canadian workers. While the task was difficult I am well satisfied with the result. I found people of Canada anxious to help. My object was to show them how—which I did."

THE NEW PACKARD EIGHTS

Built in three complete and luxurious lines - at three distinct ranges of price

The new series Packard Straight Eights are outstandingly more advanced, more beautiful, more comfortable and convenient than any Packard cars in history. They embody all the engineering improvements and the enriched luxury which the world naturally expects from Packard.

Three complete lines of cars are included in the new series. They cover the entire fine car field—and dominate it!

Whether you desire the supreme luxury of custom designed coach work—fitted, trimmed and upholstered according to your personal tastes—or the comfort, beauty and distinction of a Packard in the usual full measure, you will find among the new series Packard Eights a car to meet your exact requirements.

THE DE LUXE EIGHT The Packard Eight De Luxe with its 145½-inch wheelbase is the largest, roomiest and most perfectly appointed car which Packard has ever produced. It is practically an individual custom creation, for fittings, appointments, and upholstery—as well as colors and trim—are usually the individual specifications of the purchasers. The Packard Eight De Luxe literally provides the supreme degree of luxury in motor car transportation.

Prices at the factory range from $4585 for the Roadster to $5350 for the Seven-Passenger Sedan-Limousine. The finest masterpieces of the world's most famous individual custom-body builders are also available to order at prices up to $10,000.

THE CUSTOM EIGHT For those who desire the power and speed of the De Luxe engine, Packard also provides the Custom Eight. Built on a chassis of 140½-inch wheelbase, it is powered with the same motor—the famous Packard Straight Eight, with its nine-bearing crankshaft, improved and developed to new standards of performance. Save for the Packard De Luxe Eight, it is truly the world's finest motor car—in brilliance of performance, in beauty and distinction of appearance.

Prices at the factory range from $3190 for the Roadster to $3885 for the Seven-Passenger Sedan-Limousine. A wide choice in color and upholstery is available for any of the eleven beautiful body types.

THE STANDARD EIGHT The Packard Standard Eight is a smaller edition of the larger and costlier Packard cars. It is provided for those who desire the luxury and distinction of Packard transportation in cars of modified wheelbase and at more moderate price.

Eleven distinguished models are available in the Standard Eight line—each one a Packard through and through, powerful, smooth and fleet. Nothing to provide for the comfort and convenience of owners has been omitted from these new Packard cars.

Prices of the Packard Standard Eight at the factory, including a wide choice of colors, range from $2375 for the Five-Passenger Sedan of 127½-inch wheelbase to $2775 for the Seven-Passenger Sedan-Limousine with wheelbase of 134½ inches.

All new series Packard Eight cars include the new, inside, adjustable sun visors, adjustable driver's seat and steering gear, newly perfected shatter-proof glass, dashboard lockers and new beauties of fixtures and upholstery. All provide the improved powerplant with its new four-speed transmission and still further refined straight-eight engine.

We cordially invite you to come and see the new series Packards—to drive the model of your choice. Then let us show you, with pencil and paper, how you can enjoy the luxury and distinction of Packard transportation—very likely at no greater expense than you are paying for your present motoring.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Trading in bonds was along narrow lines in the earlier dealings on today's market. Most of the prime investment issues scarcely moved, although there was the usual activity in the convertibles and a few other bonds with a speculative flavor. Time money was unchanged at 8 ¾ to 9 per cent.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

BUGS BAER Says

HE'S FUNNY THAT WAY

"Bugs" Baer

WE watched Harrison Johnston win the amateur skee ball championship at Del Monte this month. over 140 golfers started out for fame and fortune and wound up between them.

Once more we state that golf is a sport when played improperly.

Take Bobby Jones. Bobby is a professor on the tee, a surgeon on the fairway and a surveyor on the greens.

When he smacks a ball you know that it is going 300 yards, daylight saving distance.

When he sinks a 50-footer on the clover, it runs for the hole like a little mousie being chased by a catsie.

Now, the dufferino's idea of golf is sunburned bowling or suburban marbles.

But his caddy sees America.

The duffolk whacks at the pill with vimish vigor. If he cracks it on the first try he looks as astonished as Columbus discovering America.

After the ball stops ricochetting from tree and sapling, he turns to the caddy and says, "What club shall I use now?"

The caddy says, "Join a new one."

Which is caddish, but true. He doesn't need a nibstick or a spoonick.

He needs a butterfly net.

His very first smack hasn't made him a champion.

It's made him a botanist.

He is in the big redwoods with the birds, the bees, the squirrels and the echoes.

But think of all the fun he could have if he were normal.

The eight hole at Del Monte is over the water. The fairway is the Pacific Ocean. We will say one thing about amateur self-control.

Not one of the golfers was drowned.

When you add to the terrors of golfing the roar of the surf then you have a pastime that is self-inflicted.

But a golfer is a golfer on land or sea.

He loves his golf. And its unreciprocated affection.

SAVE THE FORESTS AND YOU SAVE THE GIRLS!

(Editorial)

THIS doesn't seem right— and yet the camera wouldn't lie. The idea of chopping down trees just to get a place to dance and raise Ned or Old Harry! And yet people must have recreation. You can't expect city folks to live like rats in a garret. Just think of it—there are millions who have never been in the woods. It is only natural that they would want to celebrate—once they get away from crowded night clubs. Nevertheless, this is Save-the-Forests Week. And if people are going to dance on tree stumps—then Save-the-Forests Week is worth a little extra trouble on your part. Indeed it is.

Casting Ballots Today—Future Now Facing Us

Today the duty of voting; tomorrow the aftermath of "Just as I expected" and "I am surprised." So, except the actual casting and counting of ballots, and the possibility of legal contests as a result, the election is over in so far as citizens may be impressed by the qualifications of various candidates.

Early this evening it will be in the past with the duty of burying its own dead while our destiny is to look to the future. That is to continue to work for a better, cleaner and more beautiful and more spiritually impressive city. That is always our work; let's to it again.

Conditions forecast that today's voting would be attended by much that is unusual. Among them was the declaration of the court that assessment books containing approximately 25,000 names were fraudulent, hence null. The grand jury was recommended to look into the matter of turpitude in connection therewith, leaving to election boards the responsibility of keeping their own records legally pure in the matter of votes that might be cast or attempted to be cast on such "assessments."

No doubt some innocent persons may suffer disfranchisement through this decision, but the evidence of fraud must have been quite conclusive to convince the court, which would hesitate to make a false step in such an important matter. Further disclosures will be watched for with interest by all citizens.

Meanwhile, let us all face the future hopefully—and work for our own good and that of the community in all that affects us.

Honor to Home-Makers And Their Exposition

Home makers are to hold an exposition in the South Side Market House. It begins tomorrow and is to continue Thursday and Friday. And who are the "home makers"? Women, of course. Men make habitations, but only women make homes. Hence it remained for the Home Department of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women to conceive and carry out the plans for this exposition, the central point of which is that most revered of human institutions—the home.

With all this talk about the diminishing of home life, the exposition is assuring—and significant. And we're not certain that home life is diminishing. It may be changing, but what isn't? All things change—it is the way of life. But there is something elemental in home that we believe is no more subject to change than the basic fundamentals of the universe itself. It is definable as the love that ties the family combined with the definite but indefinable charm that grows from nothing and everything, but produces impressions that one cherishes throughout life. Women create it and are part of it.

"Home" is a wonderful word. The French are adopting it because they have no French word corresponding to it. All their words for the family abiding place mean "house," "dwelling," "residence" and their synonyms.

"Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home." How true! But be it ever so humble, it can be made more pretentious—more homelike. That is to be one of the things demonstrated by the exposition. The women have taken a ramshackle place. Without changing its type they have changed its character. Paint, shutters, fence pickets and a flower garden in place of an ash heap and other touches have made the transformation. It is one of the exhibits of the exposition and the one the women take the most pride in. Another exhibit home has been erected in the market house.

The exposition is intended to be the expression of women in the art of home-making, the greatest of all arts—an art that is as far above ordinary art as we conceive it as the love for a baby is above the love for a puppy.

Many visitors from all parts of Pennsylvania will attend the exposition, which is an outstanding example of what women with a purpose can do. We commend them, honor them, thank them. If they did not make real homes they could not make expositions.

Sunday Movies in Parks Enjoyed by Thousands

That a lot of Pittsburghers want the Sunday less blue was demonstrated clearly by attendance at the Sunday night moving picture shows in the public parks. Fathers and mothers and their children watched the performances in various sections in large numbers.

Selection of films for the Sunday night showings was in good taste and extremists to the contrary notwithstanding, we question whether anyone's soul was seriously impaired by attending the municipal programs.

Pittsburgh has no desire for a wide-open Sunday; nor would the great majority of citizens assent to the fantastic blue laws which, if enforced, would seriously affect recognized Sunday activities—automobiling, the sale of gasoline, the operation of railroad trains. Between the extreme of unreasonable enforcement of the blue laws and the extreme of a wide-open Sunday there is a happy medium to which many intelligent citizens are striving.

Municipal movies afforded a step in the right direction. It is to be hoped that this year's experiment will be followed by greater facilities next year.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

ARE you the kind that thinks everything will turn right for you?

Irrespective of the lack of effort on your part, you are always hopeful that something will turn in your favor.

It is fine to be hopeful, but foolish to allow this thought to rob you of initiative and effort.

Some seem to think it would be a better world, but it is doubtful, if we gained desired ends without a struggle. If it were possible, you know you would be much less active when it comes to work.

You like to ride along easily, but you have to work to live.

Rather than exert yourself unduly, however, you are willing to forego pleasures and results that greater efforts would enable you to enjoy.

At times you feel that you have not received a fair deal.

Others possess so much more than you.

In certain cases you know it is owned by one but was earned by another.

You think how nice it would be to inherit riches.

However, the person who earns and knows the value of effort gets far more satisfaction out of life than the one who accepts but never has to struggle.

Bible Passages

Christ Dineth With Them

(St. John 21; 1-13.)

AFTER these things Jesus shewed Himself again to the disciples at the Sea of Tiberias; and on this wise shewed he Himself.

There were together Simon Peter, and Thomas called Didymus, and Nathaniel of Cana in Galilee, and the sons of Zebedee, and two other of his disciples.

Simon Peter saith unto them, I go a fishing. They say unto him, We also go with thee. They went forth, and entered into a ship immediately; and that night they caught nothing.

But when the morning was now come, Jesus stood on the shore; but the disciples knew not that it was Jesus.

Then Jesus saith unto them, Children, have ye any meat? They answered him, No.

And he said unto them, Cast the net on the right side of the ship, and ye shall find. They cast therefore, and now they were not able to draw it for the multitude of fishes.

Therefore that disciple whom Jesus loved saith unto Peter, It is the Lord. Now when Simon Peter heard that it was the Lord, he girt his fisher's coat unto him (for he was naked), and did cast himself into the sea.

And the other disciples came in a little ship; (for they were not far from land, but as it were two hundred cubits), dragging the net with fishes.

As soon then as they were come to land, they saw a fire of coals there, and fish laid thereon and bread.

Jesus saith unto them, Bring of the fish which ye have now caught.

Simon Peter went up, and drew the net to land full of great fishes, an hundred and fifty-three; and for all there were so many, yet was not the net broken.

Jesus saith unto them, Come and dine. And none of the disciples durst ask him, Who art thou? knowing that it was the Lord.

Jesus then cometh and taketh bread, and giveth, and fish likewise.

The Debt

IF, strangely, some way you should see these lines
And read the truth that like a lantern shines
Through every wistful word;
If you should stumble back into the past
Along the bridge of memory, over a vast Abyss, deeply stirred
Then you will know I have a debt to pay,
A debt that I have owed you since the day
With youth and love imbued,
When laughing, joyous, hand in hand we went While earth and sky their lavish splendors blent
To match our radiant mood.
If some day, somewhere, you should read these words,
And hear love singing through them all, like birds
That voice their joy and praise,
Then know that all these years I owed you this:
The memory of an April morning's bliss
That made life sweet always!

NO PEANUTS FOR GOP

By Herbert Kaufman

"OLD GOP," the nice elephant on which Mr. Hoover rode to the White House, begins to notice that peanuts are VERY scarce.

The President is not a SPOILSMAN.

Eleven years' familiarity with federal affairs convinces him that government is POORLY served by partisan upsets.

Consequently he is retaining at their appointive posts, hundreds of men and women, with whose jobs the Republican machine expected to oil its works.

But the President isn't kicking EFFICIENCY out of office to reward HIS friends or anybody's ELSE.

Mr. Hoover thinks in engineering terms. Engineers study stresses and strains before they remodel structures. They don't supplant sound timbers with WEAKER substitutes.

MR. HOOVER was also a business man. And private business long ago closed the inside track to fair-haired boys.

Where FAVORITISM prevails, morale isn't found hitting on all cylinders.

Nobody ever strives or thinks wholeheartedly if ability is denied bull's-eye privileges. Skill and merit refuse to compete where Pull controls the bell-ringing monopoly.

The better minds of the country are seldom attracted to minor federal careers, because preferential opportunities at Washington are notoriously reserved for party expediency and vote control.

Fence-mending members of Congress shake plum trees too hard for the Republic's good.

Mr. Hoover, however, isn't noticeably feeding lame ducks at taxpayers' expense.

HE'S cutting DOWN Uncle Sam's payroll, NOT padding it with dead wood—following impartial RECORDS, not ward-boss advice.

Various gentlemen, who helped to roll up his majority, are vainly waiting for him to roll sinecures their way.

He hasn't made a re-election catspaw of the diplomatic and consular services—thus, the grievous disappointment of "certain rich men," whose campaign enthusiasms (and contributions) expected to wind up in KNEE-BREECHES.

Instead, he sent Dawes to St. James', Edge to Paris and, to date, has left well-enough alone at other capitals.

There'll be few additional changes until he verifies the competence of suggested candidates. And, THEN, quite likely, will pick DARK HORSES rather than TOUTED favorites.

Besides Ray Lyman Wilbur, not one of his INTIMATES landed a cabinet job or in a big foreign berth.

AND when one recalls that his close circle includes such notables as Edgar Rickard, Julius Barnes, Vernon Kellogg, Mark Requa and Harry Garfield, citizens may be assured that nepotism ISN'T dominating White House decisions or appointments.

Nobody's playing Richelieu or acting Mark Hanna for THIS Administration.

The Anti-Saloon lobby ISN'T furnishing the President any policy blueprints, and Mabel Willebrandt's convention zeal DIDN'T put the Attorney Generalship in petticoats.

Memory can't recall that Alec Legge ever wore a Hoover button. But he happened to be the ABLEST available chairman for the Farm Board—wherefore he's top hand.

So far, so good! Now let's see what happens when the buck-passers, at the Capitol, drop the TARIFF BILL in his lap!

-:- LISTEN, WORLD! -:-

By Elsie Robinson

PEOPLE bother L. C. M. a lot.

"My main trouble," she says, "is that I can't find any happiness or satisfaction amongst humanity today. Perhaps I am hopelessly mid-Victorian, but the crowds, the noise, the hurry, the overdressed people, the harsh colors, the quarreling, scheming, gossiping, dishonesty and vulgarity—they just about slay me. The people who bore one by relating their every little ailment—the people who spoil an evening's entertainment by eating peanuts or chewing gum—they weary me so. I would like to enjoy people but I just can't get interested."

There's nothing unusual about L. C. M.'s complaint. People bore most of us. We steel ourselves to endure them. We arm ourselves with etiquette. We strive to cultivate Christian patience. But really the solution is quite simple.

IF WE'D USE OUR IMAGINATIONS, NO ONE WOULD BOTHER US—USE OUR IMAGINATIONS TO FIND THE REAL PEOPLE WHO LIVE BEHIND THAT SURFACE OF RUDENESS AND STUPIDITY.

People are ALWAYS interesting INSIDE.

They may not be always sweet and pretty, but they are always interesting.

The life of the commonest person is a drama—to that person. It will be a drama to you, too, if you will use your imagination. That heavy, gum-chewing jaw, those dull eyes, that clumsy flesh, hide dreams and rebellions, dark mysteries, bright ecstasies.

People are as interesting as jungles.

They ARE jungles.

Within each life lurk other lives, lives that stretch far back to vague beginnings. If you will use and train your imagination, you will see those other lives moving through the darkness behind the stupid face that bothered you—skulking in the shadows—leaping suddenly to bright heights.

You must spend your life with people and it's certain that most of them will bother you. If they do, don't run away from them—or protect yourself with a wall of snobbishness—for by so doing you'll miss a great show. Study them, instead.

Read books which will tell you about people—how and why people think and act as they do. Read, particularly, the Old Testament. That's one of the most enlightening books on earth about the beauty and cussedness of human beings.

Read and then apply your reading, as you walk the streets, as you sit in a movie, as you listen to some tiresome neighbor. Look through the surfaces of people as through darkened windows, into their amazing reality.

You will be surprised, fascinated, deeply touched. You may often be horrified—but out of it will come a new interest and tolerance. Life will no longer stop for you at the threshold of a stranger's face. It will spread out and out—into every creature you encounter. BEST OF ALL, YOU'LL FORGET YOURSELF. AND THAT'S A CURE FOR EVERYTHING THAT AILS YOU.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

A GIRL can make a fellow mighty curious about what she thinks of him by sometimes telling him one thing and then again telling him something else.

Well, there was a girl that was trying that racket on a poor guy until he was nearly crazy. He went to his dad and says, "If I only knew what Helen thinks of me, I'd be satisfied, even if she don't like me very well. Dad, do you reckon there's any way to get her to tell me the truth about what she thinks about me?"

"Easy, boy," says the old man. "Just you marry her, and come around next year and shoot me dead if you ain't heard exactly what she thinks of you."

Does John Bull Collect Debts?

Ask France, Italy, Belgium, Germany.

HONORING THE DEBT COLLECTOR.

Nations that won the war against Germany and charged her many billions for losing it gathered recently to divide the money that Germany is to pay, annually from now on.

Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer in the British Labor government, fought bitterly to the end until he got for Britain the sum that he demanded.

Now British Tories and others that hate the Labor party and the Labor government welcome Snowden as a GREAT BRITON.

The Graphic, published in Inveresk House, part of a conservative organization, prints this picture of Snowden as a hero on horseback with Uncle Sam and other nations looking at him in envy and jealousy.

As a matter of fact, poor Mr. Snowden is a cripple, walking with difficulty in consequence of an accident in his early youth. It may have been a fortunate accident for him; unable to use his legs, he used his brain. And Britain gets the benefit of it.

Under the picture the Graphic prints this comment:

"Mr. Philip Snowden's firm refusal at The Hague Conference to allow the British Empire to be further victimized over war reparations has caused several sensations, and his fight against new anti-British discriminations is violently criticized by France, Italy and Belgium."

When Andrew Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, and President Coolidge requested Britain and other European countries to repay at least PART of the money we lent them, the name Uncle Sam was immediately changed to "Uncle Shylock" all over Europe, from foggy London to sunny Rome.

Uncle Sam was a Shylock for wanting to get not ALL, but a moderate percentage of money he lent to his friends in war. Britain roared "Shylock!" vociferously, but when Mr. Snowden, Chancellor of the British Exchequer, demands money for England that's a different story.

THE REAL SNOWDEN AND HIS DEVOTED WIFE.

The second picture in this column shows Philip Snowden, of the Labor party, as he really is. That earnest face has won a great victory for the British Labor party and the British pocketbook.

Mr. Snowden says of his wife, "Without her I could not have achieved victory."

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—With the enormous growth of the chain store comes a sweeping espionage system for thousands of clerks, cashiers, managers and assistants. They are pretty generally under the never sleeping camera eye. More than 1,000 sleuths over the land are on the job daily.

It is their assignment to look out for till tapping and other sharp practices. While a few organizations are not so policed and nearly all deny it, the truth is 90 per cent of chain store employes are under constant surveillance.

In huge and shifting organizations, the promoters say this check up is absolutely necessary, even though employes do go under a most rigid investigation before being employed. Pasts are fine combed and each syndicate has its own corps of investigators.

That the careful scrutiny has been of value is proven by the amazingly few chain store peculations. Most of the infractions have been petty thefts, soon discovered and treated with instant dismissal. "Stool pigeons" are shifted from store to store and city to city.

The hired snoopers will fall in with suggestions to rob and carry on right up to the actual theft—but just before it takes place the guilty worker finds himself suddenly dismissed and is happily saved from the prison cell—with a lesson.

Before a chain store employe is elevated to a position of trust his private life goes under the microscope. His goings, comings and companions are tabulated. Thrift plays a big part in securing advancement, for the consistent saver is rarely interested in liquor, gambling or gold digging ladies.

There is a more appealing side to the espionage. The employe whose virtues may never become known in such a large organization finds them uncovered and brought to the attention of responsible heads. Thus he wins a promotion he may not have secured otherwise.

An expensive hotel adroitly foils souvenir hunters without fuss. To accuse a patron of souvenir grabbing creates scenes. Thus when one leaves his room to check out, an inspector steps in. He has been trained to take in the contents of the room at a practice glance. If anything is missing, the news is flashed to the cashier who quickly adds it to the bill at, ha, ha, triple the price. The patron may flush but he pays without a word.

A decided drop is reported in the sale of imported perfumes due to the market being flooded with spurious scents. The substitutes give a pleasant whiff momentarily but do not last until the street is reached. Perfumes from abroad not costing 50 cents an ounce have been retailed here at $10 an ounce.

Incidentally manufacturers of perfumes have increased 100 per cent since prohibition. Many are legitimate but others are mere "rackets." The alcohol needed as a perfume basis, but slyly bootlegged, brings in the soft money.
